Flies Hawaii to U. S. in 15 Hours

KNIGHTED PILOT SPANS PACIFIC IN THREE HOPS

(Picture on Back Page.)

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith landed his big monoplane at Oakland municipal airport today, completing a 2,408 mile flight from Honolulu in 14 hours and 59 minutes. He refueled and flew on to Los Angeles.

The flying knight of the air dropped like a plummet from the skies at 7:44 a. m. [9:44 a. m. C. S. T.], after fighting through fog banks, ending a three hop jump from Brisbane, Australia, a distance of 7,365 miles.

Nearly two hours ahead of his schedule, Sir Charles rocketed in at terrific speed, poked his grease smudged face out of the cockpit and spoke a grinning apology.

"I am sorry to be so early," he remarked, "but you will have to blame my navigator, Capt. P. G. Taylor."

Leaves for Los Angeles.

Sir Charles left for Los Angeles at 1:17 p. m. on a business trip, saying he would return here by Wednesday. The plane circled the field, then flew over San Francisco en route to Mines field at Los Angeles.

Among the crowd of 500 persons to greet the daring aviator were Harry Lyon and James Warner, who with Charles Ulm flew with Kingsford-Smith from Oakland to Australia in 1928.

Sir Charles, knighted for that daring flight, brushed aside the dangers of the Honolulu-Oakland journey, one of the longest in the world, over which he was the first to fly.

The chief worry of the perilous trip, he said, was the fear that he would arrive before his scheduled time of 9:30 a. m.

Circles Field Once.

The blue and white monoplane, Lady Southern Cross, swooped like a giant bird from a height of 8,000 feet, circled the field once and then landed perfectly at a fast speed.

Sir Charles, wearing a blue denim flying suit with a big fur collar, idled the plane up to the welcoming stand.

There were only three city officials to greet him, but some 500 spectators already had arrived at the field prepared to await his arrival.

Sir Charles rolled back the cowling of the cockpit and out popped his grease stained, somewhat weary but grinning face.

"I would like to have a cigaret, a bath, and then something to eat," he remarked.

Eager hands thrust cigarets at the aviators, who grinned as the crowd pressed close to the plane.

"Best Plane in World."

"I've got the best airplane in the world," Sir Charles boasted.

"From the time of the takeoff at Honolulu we had no trouble except for 15 minutes about 11 o'clock last night when we bumped into a rainstorm. That necessitated a short period of blind flying.

"I don't remember what our position was at the time, but it was nothing like that 8,000 foot spin on our flight from Suva to Honolulu, when the plane's wing flaps fell down.

"Boy, I sure had that fixed that time. I had them locked up there where they belonged.

"The last half of our flight I kept cutting down the speed, throttling down until we almost stalled, trying to get here at 9:30 a. m.

"That was my one chief worry on this flight. Neither Capt. Taylor nor myself are tired, the flight was so easy.

High as 12,000 Feet.

"I flew at the start at an altitude of about 6,000 feet and then went between 7,000 and 12,000 feet the rest of the way.

"We started out at 140 miles an hour, then hopped the plane up to 180 miles and flew the last quarter of the journey at 125 miles an hour."

He and Capt. Taylor ate only one sandwich apiece of their small food supply during the 15 hours of flying.

"And Sir Charles didn't play the ukulele that he got in Honolulu, nor did he have time to sing," Capt. Taylor remarked with a smile.

There also was a bottle of liquor in the plane, but it had not been opened.

"We didn't need it," Sir Charles remarked laughingly. "Nothing went

ROME, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, world famous soprano, made known tonight that she would press for criminal punishment of her young husband. For many months he has been trying to place her financial affairs in the hands of a trustee.

She has instructed her counsel to proceed in penal court tomorrow with charges of attempted extortion against Pietro Vernati, 25 years her junior, to whom she was married in 1926.

Attorneys for the diva, whose voice Mussolini once said "makes one believe in paradise," claimed to have evidence that Vernati offered to withdraw his action for appointment of a trustee if the singer would pay him 100,000 lire [about $8,700].

Once Worth $5,000,000.

The criminal action is a counterstroke against Vernati's suit, which was brought in 1932 on the ground that the now 63 year old operatic star was squandering her fortune, said to have amounted to more than $5,000,000. Final decision in that case is still pending.

World-wide attention has been drawn to the litigation owing to Mme. Tetrazzini's prominence and the spectacular charges brought by her husband. She has been separated from him since 1928.

He asserted she was the victim of hallucinations and said that under the spell of these she "handed out money right and left." Their home, his attorneys declared, became a meeting place for Spiritualists, and "mysterious rites" held there "inevitably wound up in the clinking of champagne cups."

Blames Temperament.

She confirmed her interest in spiritualism but scoffed at the charges of Vernati. Her generosity, she said, was prompted by artistic temperament.

To his charges that she was squandering money she replied that she still has to rely partly on her work for a living.

Vernati's lawyers alleged that since the couple have been separated Mme. Tetrazzini has disposed of a home worth 2,000,000 lire [$174,000] for a fourth of its value, pawned jewels worth 1,500,000 for a mere 100,000 lire, and run through a bank account of 1,300,000 lire.

HI LITTLE, VETERAN PILOT, SAVES PLANE WITH 7 PASSENGERS

Newark, N. J., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Hi Little, veteran pilot at the controls of a giant transport airplane with its retractible landing gear disabled, today averted a crackup that might have killed or injured seven passengers and a crew of three.

With the gear locked midway between its normal landing and flying positions and with airport fire and police officials looking on and fearing a crash, Little brought the big ship to earth at Newark airport without so much as an unusual bump.

The craft, a United Airlines Boeing, took off from the airport at noon bound for Chicago. With the seven passengers and Little were Arthur Lybarger of Chicago, co-pilot, and Agnes Pugh, stewardess.

At 1,000 feet Little pulled the lever operating the landing gear, but found the mechanism was faulty, leaving the wheels only halfway up from their landing position. As Little swooped downward at the appointed time and cut off his motors the moment the ship touched the ground, ambulances, fire trucks, and police cars raced alongside the plane. The apparatus had been assembled through Little's use of his radio. All the passengers were grinning when they alighted. They slapped Little on the back and praised him highly for his feat.

SMASHES GATES AHEAD OF TRAIN TO ELUDE POLICE

A filling station robber escaped Oak Park police last night by driving his automobile through the safety gates at the Ridgeland avenue crossing of the elevated line a second ahead of the train.

Earlier in the evening the robber held up two filling stations in Forest Park. He took $20 from M. H. Zars, an attendant at Jackson boulevard and Harlem avenue, and $23 from R. W. James, attendant at Randolph street and Harlem avenue. He tried three oil station raids in Oak Park, but the attendants fled or locked themselves in.

Searching in their squad car, Policemen Edward Plotter and Harry Williams surprised the robber as he held up a station at Harrison street and Ridgeland avenue. They chased him, firing several shots, but skidded to a stop as the train cut off pursuit.

Find Chinese Held in Cellar by Smugglers

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Federal narcotic agents who raided an isolated house in South Keansburg, N. J., today in the confident belief that they would discover a store of smuggled opium, found instead eighteen frightened Chinese, guarded by a strapping Trinidad Negro and five police dogs.

The Chinese were in the process of being smuggled into the country. All that stood between them and freedom was the payment of the smugglers' fee, but their friends had been laggard in making that payment, and cash on the line was the smugglers' rule.

Four Thown Overboard.

Officials who conducted the raid said the eighteen had been members of a party of thirty-eight who started out from China about a month ago, hidden away in the smelly and unhealthy hold of an unidentified freighter. Four of them got so sick, the agents said, that they were unceremoniously flung overboard.

The Chinese were found in the cellar of the two story frame building. It was not a pleasant place. There was no light and the only ventilation was through one small window, in which there were bars to prevent escape.

Some extraordinarily dirty burlap bags were spread on the cement floor for bedding, and in the center of the room was a large bowl of rice.

Tied Up in Potato Sacks.

The fee, agents said, was either $1,000 or $1,500 a head, depending on the status of the alien. About a week or ten days ago—the Chinese had lost track of time—the freighter dropped anchor somewhere off the Virginia Capes, and the men were taken ashore, tied in potato sacks, which were loaded into trucks and covered with loose potatoes for the trip to South Keansburg.

Agents said that some of the 16 released soon after landing had been sold into slavery. They will work in Chinese laundries at the rate of 20 cents a day, agents explained, and 15 cents of each day's pay will be retained by the laundry owner to discharge the smuggling debt. At that rate an alien assessed $1,000 would require eighteen years to settle.

All the prisoners were taken to the Keyport jail, where those who needed it received medical treatment.

VOTERS DECIDE TOMORROW ON CONGRESS RACE

G.O.P. Fights Tactics of Democrats.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

The campaign for the election of the seventy-fourth congress comes to a close today with the Washington Christmas tree the paramount issue.

The Democrats are massed behind their national chairman, Jim Farley, who, disguised in Santa Claus whiskers and red suit, reminds the voters of some 4 or 5 billion dollars of government money distributed among them for relief, bounties, and public works contracts and jobs, subtly suggesting that they record their gratitude therefor at the ballot box tomorrow.

Everywhere Republicans are resentfully denouncing the Democratic campaign tactics, echoing the charge of their national chairman, Henry P. Fletcher, that Farley is Tammanyizing the whole country by an application of the well-known Tammany principle of "feed 'em and vote 'em."

A landslide for Santa Claus is the prospect.

Point to Christmas Tree.

In the latter days of the campaign the activities of the Democratic national committee have been concentrated on the development of the Santa Claus motif. A force of statisticians has been kept busy tabulating the handouts from the federal treasury to the states and congressional districts and calculating how much each community has obtained. These figures have been supplied to all Democratic candidates for use in speeches, advertising, and other campaign literature.

Chairman Farley himself has attached his famous green ink signature to hundreds of letters stressing the cash benefits various constituencies have received from the outpouring of the billions. He rings the changes on the appeal to the electorate of "bread and circuses."

In his speech dedicating the 8 million dollar postoffice at Pittsburgh the other day Mr. Farley took occasion to retort to a remark by Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] that "all that Pennsylvanians get from the present administration is a bill for money expended elsewhere." Mr. Farley deeply resented that comment. He retorted that the distribution of government funds to Pennsylvania total 97 millions, "the largest amount to any state except New York."

Recalls Banks Helped.

"More failed banks have been taken care of in Pennsylvania," said Mr Farley, "than in any other state, and no other state has so many CCC camps, on which 24 millions have been expended." Altogether, Mr. Farley summed up, "Pennsylvania has received something over 625 millions through the various government agencies."

Taking the cue from Mr. Farley the Democratic organization in Pennsylvania got out a rotogravure tabloid containing figures on the federal largess procured from the Democratic national committee. The tabulation showed that Pennsylvania had received from Washington $678,074,195. This was compared with the "pitiful $12,835,538 received from Mr. Hoover." The publication adds with pride that Pennsylvania paid into the federal treasury in 1933-'34 only $297,942,173.

"Compare this $297,942,173 contributed by Pennsylvania to the United States treasury," the sheet adds, "with the cash and credit of $678,074,195 contributed to Pennsylvania by the Roosevelt Democratic administration."

Santa Claus in Iowa.

The Democratic statisticians figured out that the federal disbursements to Iowa average $88.70 per person, or $399.15 per family. Mr. Farley stressed the generosity of the treatment of Iowa in a speech he made in that state.

"Well, let's see what has been done for Iowa in the emergency," said Mr. Farley. "The federal administration has insured your deposits in your banks to the extent of $154,000,000. That means that never again will you find your funds tied up in busted banks without hope of recovery.

"It has advanced thirty-odd million dollars to public works of all sorts. It has disbursed about $23,000,000 in emergency relief in work and in direct advances. And it has loaned approxi

Half of Total to Be Cast in Cook County

BY PARKE BROWN.

In the Sunday calm preceding tomorrow's balloting, election officials, party leaders, and other political analysts agreed yesterday on one point—that the vote cast will be heavy. The general opinion is that in Cook county 1,200,000 men and women will go to the polls between the hours of 6 a. m. and 5 p. m. The polls are open during these hours throughout the state.

While downstate estimates are more difficult because of the lack of a general registration law, it is believed that about the same aggregate will be cast there. This would make the total vote for Illinois 2,400,000.

Some of those qualified to judge placed their estimates around the even million mark in Cook county, but others with an equal amount of experience and of information about the present situation forecast a total a quarter of a million higher, or 1,250,000. The majority, however, agreed on a slightly lower figure than this.

Deem Poll Lists Clean.

There are now on the poll books the names of 1,714,639 voters in Cook county. In the city the total is 1,466,428, and County Judge Jarecki and the election board are confident this list is unusually free from "dead names," meaning the names of persons who have died or moved since they were put on the books. As the fall registration in the country towns was a new one the list of 248,211 is considered "clean."

With the poll lists in this condition the analysts say that even if only 70 per cent of the registered electors go to the polls they will total 1,200,000. This percentage observers contend, is not high.

The total vote in the primaries last April was 968,187. An election increase of this figure to 1,200,000 would not be abnormal. In the last election corresponding to this off year event, that of 1930, the jump in the total vote between the primaries and the election was nearly 40 per cent. The total vote in the county that year was 1,108,168.

See Increase Over Primary Mark.

In the presidential election two years ago there was an even bigger difference between the spring and the fall totals, the increase being well over 50 per cent. The total for Cook county that year was 1,696,802.

It is conceded by the sponsors of the highest estimates of tomorrow's figures that 1934 lacks both the thrill and the public interest of 1932 and 1930. In 1932 the voters chose a President, a governor, and a senator, and in 1930 campaigners were battling hard over the United States senatorship.

Conceding these facts, the statisticians, both professionals and amateurs, back up their totals with the argument that despite the lack of real war over high offices there is an extraordinary amount of interest for an off year in tomorrow's contests.

Canvasses and other methods of gathering information have disclosed in many spots a refusal of voters to commit themselves in advance. This is said to be because of deep-seated feeling and opinion on the national issues of Roosevelt and the New Deal which the Democrats tenaciously have kept uppermost. Even recipients of

STATE ELECTION DRIVE BLAZES TO FURIOUS CLIMAX

Bitter Battles in 3 City Districts.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Battles in Illinois over seats in congress blazed more furiously than ever yesterday as tomorrow's election campaign neared its close. Headliner in the state-wide contest between Republicans and Democrats was the intense struggle over congressmen at large, in which the Republican campaign is being led by C. Wayland Brooks and the Democratic by Michael L. Igoe. Two candidates are to be elected in the four-cornered race. Reports from downstate were that Brooks appears strong even in many areas that may elect Democrats as district congressmen and as local officers.

In Chicago three races of especial national interest took on redoubled energy. Running for reëlection are Congressman Fred A. Britten [9th district], one of the four Republican deans of the house, with 22 years of service; Congressman Oscar De Priest, Republican [First district], the sole Negro member of congress, and Congressman Adolph J. Sabath, Democrat [Fifth district], whose fourteen terms make him the oldest member of the house in point of service and a potential candidate for speaker to succeed the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey.

Democrats Focus on Two.

The Democrats centered their fight upon Britten and De Priest, while the west side Republicans made a renewed onslaught against Sabath.

Republicans last night claimed that shifts in population gave their candidate, John A. Stanek, a chance to win against Sabath. Democrats held that Sabath was in least danger of any of their congressional candidates. The Fifth district is a Democratic stronghold and since 1906 has elected Sabath to congress fourteen times, hand running. Observers have not regarded it as doubtful.

On the near north side, in the Ninth, where Gold coast and lodging house areas "south of the avenoo" meet, a lurid struggle between Congressman Britten and his Democratic adversary, James McAndrews, took on renewed heat. McAndrews is secretary of the state liquor commission and served six terms in congress from west side districts.

Hurl "Tammany" Charges.

Charges that the Democrats are "Farleyizing" the campaign were reiterated yesterday. Postmaster General James A. Farley sent a message to Mr. McAndrews, copies of which were given out yesterday, saying "we of the administration want McAndrews in congress." Republican speakers pointed to this as an effort to extend "Tammany influence" to Chicago's north side. They reiterated their charges that pressure is being put on recipients of relief to vote Democratic, on threats that otherwise they might be struck from the rolls; that the Democratic ward "bosses" have put on the thumbscrews; that saloons and dives are being farmed for Democratic campaign funds. The campaign is the most vitriolic and vehement this district has perhaps ever witnessed.

Battle Rages On in First.

On an open battle front the contest between Congressman De Priest and his Democratic opponent, Arthur H. Mitchell, in the First, raged with renewed fury. Here the Democrats are making great efforts to capture the only one seat in congress occupied by a Negro. De Priest for the first time is pitted against a rival of his own race. In the Eighth Regiment armory yesterday a great crowd attended a De Priest rally, and the Republicans declared that De Priest's tenure of office seems safe in Tuesday's polls.

In the Englewood [Third], Republicans backing Frank M. Fulton increased their drive against Congressman Edward A. Kelly, Democrat, who won in this old Republican district in the 1930 and 1932 landslides. Democrats pointed to their ward organizations in this district, which in the last four years have been brought into a high state of development, while the Republicans hold that Fulton has more than a fighting chance.

Bitter Struggle in Seventh.

Raymond Peacock's Republican supporters in the Seventh, northwest side district, largest in America with 900,000 population, continued their campaign all day against Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz, Democrat. The Republicans maintain that straw votes taken in various typical sections of the district all have shown Peacock leading, while the Democrats say their organization strength in this area was never greater.

In the Hyde Park-South Chicago district [Second], Congressman Patrick H. Moynihan, Republican, was regarded as safe by the Republicans, despite extra efforts of the Democrats in behalf of Raymond S. McKeogh. Two years ago Moynihan won this district by 11,000 despite the Roosevelt landslide.

Lund Given Good Chance.

On the west side, Republicans declared Arnold L. Lund, in the Sixth, has a good chance to defeat Congressman Thomas J. O'Brien. Democrats regard this district as likely to give O'Brien perhaps the largest plurality of all Chicago district candidates for congress, which was what happened in 1930 and 1932.

Republican and Democratic state managers renewed their claims of gains. As Republican headquarters views it, the Republican state ticket appears likely to come up to the Cook county line with a lead of more than 100,000.

The veteran Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction, and William J. Stratton, nominee for state treasurer, were two of the greatest vote getters in the Republican party in the Democratic landslide years of 1930 and 1932. With "Curly" Brooks, candidate for congressman at large, the Republican ticket is thus headed by a trio whose popularity has made them topnotch vote getters.

Scenes of Hardest Battles.

In the downstate congressional districts, reports from THE TRIBUNE'S local correspondents indicate the hardest fights are in the following:

11TH, JOLIET, a rockribbed Republican district where Chauncey W. Reed, state's attorney of DuPage county, has for Democratic opponent James A. Howell of Elgin, who was defeated two years ago by Congressman Frank R. Reid by 1,333 plurality.

12TH, ROCKFORD, where Republican Congressman John T. Buckbee of Rockford is opposed by C. H. Smith of LaSalle. Buckbee is reported leading, but the fight is regarded as a close one. The district always in the last 30 years has elected a Republican to congress.

13TH—DANVILLE. In the old "Uncle Joe" Cannon district Congressman James A. Meeks, Danville Democrat, is in a contest with Elmer A. Taylor, Watseka Republican. The correspondents say it looks like a horse race finish, the winner in doubt.

19TH—CHAMPAIGN. Congressman Donald C. Dobbins, Champaign Democrat, and Charles H. Fletcher, Mattoon Republican, are in a fierce battle in the corn belt, the outcome of which is regarded as likely to be close.

Claim Victory for Brown.

22D—ALTON. Many nonpartisan observers give an edge to Judge Jesse R. Brown, Alton Republican, against Congressman Edwin M. Schaefer, Belleville Democrat. Judge Brown issued the injunction against the sales tax, and Republicans hold this has made him exceptionally strong.

24TH—EGYPT DISTRICT. Republicans say this district is one of the southern Illinois districts most likely to go Republican. Judge James V. Heidinger, Republican of Fairfield, is running against Claude V. Parsons, Golconda Democrat.

Other downstate districts are all torn with campaigning, but the above are those in which the struggle is most intense and the results are regarded most doubtful.

IRATE MOB NABS YOUNG PAIR WHO SNATCHED PURSE

Two men, believed to have been responsible for a number of purse snatchings on the west side in the last two months, were captured by an angry mob last night after they had taken a purse from Mrs. Oline Prebensen, 53 years old, in front of her home at 4500 West Adams street.

The men, James Kingos, 19 years old, 3336 West 21st street, and John Miotke, 25 years old, 3048 West Cullerton street, drove away in a car after they had seized their victim's purse.

Attracted by her screams, John Carroll, 20 years old, 4513 West Adams street, pursued them in his car and curbed them at Madison street and Crawford avenue. A crowd was about to manhandle the pair when Policemen John Jacobs and Jerry Petrbok arrived on the scene.

At the Fillmore station Mrs. Prebensen identified her purse and swore out complaints against the men.

Facsimile of small ballot for Tuesday's election carrying proposal to increase terms of aldermen from two to four years. The Tribune recommends a vote of "yes."

URGE 'YES' VOTE ON STATE RELIEF BOND PROPOSAL

The Illinois and Cook county emergency relief committees appealed yesterday to all taxpayers to vote "yes" tomorrow on the separate ballot approving the issuance of $30,000,000 bonds to pay relief costs. There is no opposition to passage of the proposal, the committees announced, but the danger of its defeat is in the lack of interest and the possibility that voters may neglect to mark the separate ballot. If the proposal is defeated through a lack of a majority of all votes cast the money will have to be raised by taxation, the committee warned.

Chicago voters also will have another little ballot proposition entitled "Shall the terms of aldermen be increased from two to four years?" In 103 precincts the question of local prohibition will be voted upon.

Both parties have indorsed the relief bond issue. Aldermen of both parties were reported putting pressure upon precinct captains to recommend passage of the change to a four year term, but no organized effort was reported from either party for or against the change.

Physician's Motor Car and $1,000 Surgical Kit Stolen

Dr. Noah Fox, 6815 Paxton avenue, a physician with offices at 841 East Sixty-third street, reported to the Woodlawn police last night that a thief had stolen his car from in front of his home while he had supper. In the car was the doctor's bag, containing surgical instruments valued at $1,000.

OPPOSE 'CON CON' PLAN AS STEP TO NEW BRAIN TRUST

Critics Warn of Peril to State's Basic Law.

Wholesale tinkering with the basic law of Illinois, at this period in particular, would increase the uncertainties now retarding recovery, according to arguments presented yesterday by opponents of the proposal to call a constitutional convention. The proposition is submitted to the voters on the regular ballot tomorrow. Critics deem it a costly venture aimed at experimentation in the revenue system, a proposal which has already been turned down three times by voting taxpayers.

The "con con" experiment of 1920-'22, it was pointed out, cost $2,500,000, and the new constitution it proposed was then rejected by a vote of five to one.

Perils Fundamental Law.

As an indication of the wide swathe a "con con" might seek to cut in the fundamental law of Illinois, a booklet was cited yesterday which has been put out by the Illinois Legislative Reference bureau. It carries the name of Gov. Henry Horner as chairman. The governor is leading advocate of the "con con" proposal. It indexes ten matters that might come before a convention.

These embrace taxation, income tax, restricted representation for Cook county in the assembly, changes in the judicial system, and in county and township government, abolition of minority representation, and other items. Opponents say the program might be extensive enough to make drastic changes in the present setup of government.

Another Brain Trust?

"Con con" opponents say one argument in the booklet seems to be directed toward more centralized control of state government after the brain trust pattern at Washington.

The Springfield pamphlet argues that a new system of legislative districts would secure the election of more members of the majority party to the general assembly. This in turn would tend to increase the control of the governor over the legislature, which under the constitution is supposed to be one of the three separate branches of government.

Kiwanis Votes Opposition.

The board of trustees of the Kiwanis Club of Illinois yesterday voted, 12 to 3, to recommend the defeat of the constitutional convention proposal, Walter Boye, chairman of the public affairs committee of the state organization, announced.

"We recognize that there are defects in the constitution," Mr. Boye said, "but at present, with conditions subnormal, we feel there might be saddled permanently on the state some extreme measures that would prove undesirable."

BROKEN LEG CAUSES DEATH.

Injuries sustained Oct. 26 when he broke his right leg proved fatal yesterday to Frederick Lund, 40 years old, inmate of a relief shelter, who died in the county hospital.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGN NOTES

Republican county headquarters charges that a campaign sign of Clayton F. Smith, Democratic nominee for president of the county board, has been placed over the entrance of the Oak Forest infirmary.

President Henry A. Gardner of the Chicago Bar association issued a statement emphasizing the fact that the organization indorsed the Republican nominee, Harry C. Kinne, for judge of the Probate court over Probate Judge John F. O'Connell, the Democratic incumbent. The vote was 1,083 to 939. Reports had been circulated that neither candidate was indorsed.

Although Secretary of the Interior Ickes has announced that he left the Republican party months ago, his son, Wilmarth Ickes, says he has no intention of resigning as one of the Republican precinct committeemen of Winnetka.

Candidates say that the number of organizations offering indorsements in return for considerations of one kind and another have been more numerous in this campaign than ever before.

Western headquarters of the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committee at 332 South Michigan avenue, with its workers going home to vote, has already suspended activities.

In the regular forecasting contest between rival campaign managers, the Republicans assert they will carry Cook county by 100,000. The Democats say they will win by 200,000.

An automobile parade demonstration for James P. Ringley, Republican nominee for sherif, which included several hundred cars, toured the city yesterday afternoon.

Socialist county headquarters has predicted that the party vote locally will "double or triple that of 1932, making the vote cast in Cook county at least 100,000."

BROOKS APPEALS TO U. S. YOUTH TO EJECT SOCIALISM

Would Preserve Historic Reward for Initiative.

C. Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for congressman at large, brought his whirlwind campaign to a close yesterday by calling on the youth of Illinois to aid in the fight against socialistic experimentation in Washington. Rapidly and subtly, professorial planning is stealing from young men and women, Mr. Brooks declared, the fruits of individual effort.

Another group whose future is in danger, Brooks said, is "the folks beyond middle age who have been honest, honorable, and industrious all their lives and day by day have laid aside that bit of security they had hoped to enjoy in their extreme old age."

Brooks, whose gift of oratory has made him the leading popular speaker on his ticket, spoke in the afternoon before a 25th ward throng at 2431 Roosevelt road and a 3d ward gathering at 35th street and Giles avenue. At these meetings and over the radio last night he emphasized the youth theme.

Appeal for Personal Initiative.

"Young men and women must decide," asserted Brooks, "whether they will stand idly by and watch this nation give way to socialized economic planning with the powers centralized in the hands of a few, or whether they will demand a future government which favors a free economy and which will reward them in proportion for their energy and individual iniatitive.

"This nation is still a nation that rebels at limitation of individual initiative. There is something about a burocracy that constantly encroaches upon the individual to dictate his every act of life that is not only offensive, but is destructive of the qualities of American womanhood and manhood that have built this nation."

Since the market crash of 1929, Brooks said, sixteen million young men and women have gained their right to vote, but neither business nor social and political life has opened its arms with a beckoning call.

Up to Youth to Decide.

"Now the vast army of youth in every walk of life," he pointed out, "must decide between abandoning the time proven fundamental guidepost of the advance of a great people, or rising to rebuild and make secure the foundation upon which a greater nation will advance."

Foreign nations, under the iron hands of dictators, have started youth movements, Mr. Brooks reminded his hearers, but said these movements were inspired to inculcate and to incubate in youthful minds the desire to continue the dictatorial doctrines and principles upon which their present governments stand.

G. O. P. EXPECTS VOTE FRAUDS; NO, SAY DEMOCRATS

While some Republicans were predicting fraud and violence in tomorrow's election, the Democrats, in control of the election machinery and the law enforcement branches of the city, county, state, and nation, announced yesterday plans to conduct a fair election with legitimate voting and an honest count.

A statement from Democratic headquarters said County Judge Jarecki would give ample protection to all and that Police Commissioner Allman, Sherif Meyering and State's Attorney Courtney would prevent violence and disorder.

Frank J. Loesch, the 84 year old civic leader, who had made charges of illegal registration in the 42d ward, urged a large group of citizens at the New England Congregational church, Delaware and Dearborn streets, last night to form a corps of volunteer watchers at the ward's polls.

Through an error in listing hotel residents, the names of Mr. and Mrs. Loesch, who live in the Drake hotel, were left off the polling list. The error was discovered in the recheck of the lists, ordered by Judge Jarecki, who cited the incident as an indication of the thoroughness with which the lists have been scrutinized to prevent fraud.

William J. Connors, Democratic candidate for the state senate, told the church audience that its watchers would have the coöperation of his men. He said that there had been no Democratic illegalities in the ward in the four years he had been a committeeman. His Republican rival, Robert Woodward, also assured the watchers of coöperation.

KILLED UNDER "L" TRAIN.

In view of several persons on the 55th street elevated platform, an unidentified man leaped or fell to his death yesterday morning under the wheels of a south bound Englewood express train. The body was taken to the county morgue.

Chief Deputy Bennett Is G. O. P. Candidate.

The political campaign in Du Page county is centered about the contest for the office of sherif. Arthur A. Bennett, Republican candidate and chief deputy sherif under the present incumbent, John F. Hesterman, concluded his campaign for that office by a parade of 200 automobiles through the county Saturday night. He is being opposed for that office by Frank E. Pratt, Democrat, of Elmhurst.

Bennett, who has served as a deputy sherif for the last six years, lives in Villa Park. Pratt, a former railroad conductor, is now a patrolman with the state highway police.

Republicans Are Confident.

Hesterman, the present sherif, is a candidate for county treasurer on the Republican ticket and is opposed for that office by Arthur L. Hellyer, Democrat, of Hinsdale.

Because the county voted Republican by a large majority two years ago, the Republican candidates in Tuesday's election are confident of victory.

"We are sure our ticket will win in Tuesday's election by a large majority," said Chief Deputy Bennett last night.

Other Candidates Listed.

Other candidates in Tuesday's election are Win G. Knoch, Republican, of Naperville, who is a candidate for reëlection for county judge and is opposed by Benjamin Levering, Democrat, of Wheaton; Clarence V. Wagemann, Republican, of Wheaton, who is a candidate for reëlection for clerk of the County court, and is opposed by Thomas Maisel, Democrat, of Lombard; Judge Edgar F. Thoma, Republican, of Elmhurst, candidate for reelection to the Probate court, opposed by Fred C. Harbour, Democrat, also of Elmhurst.

Bernard M. Long of Downers Grove is a Republican candidate for reelection as clerk of the Probate court and is opposed by F. M. McFarland, Democrat of West Chicago. Mrs. Eva M. Ellsworth of Glen Ellyn, who is acting clerk of the Circuit court, is the Republican candidate to fill the unexpired term of her late husband, Lewis, who was elected to that office two years ago. She is opposed by William A. Robinson of Westmont.

Son of President Halted on Charge of Speeding

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 4.—(AP)—James Roosevelt, eldest son of President Roosevelt, spoke at a Democratic rally today and revealed he had been halted by a motorcycle officer for speeding on the way. Should he be required to come to New Hampshire to answer the speeding charges, he told the assembly, he would like to join in celebrating a Democratic victory at the polls as well.

9,000,000 BALLOTS GO TO JUDGES TODAY FOR ELECTION ON TUESDAY

More than 9,000,000 ballots for the election Tuesday will be distributed today to the judges of election, John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election commissioners' office, said yesterday. At 5 o'clock in the morning 52 trucks guarded by policemen will begin delivering the ballots. One truck will be assigned to each ward and two trucks for the country precincts under the jurisdiction of the election commission.

Four ballots will be placed before the city voters on Tuesday, and in the precincts where liquor sale is an issue five ballots will be used. The four ballot used throughout the city are the large general ballot, the judicial ballot listing the candidates for the Municipal court, the proposition ballot on the $30,000,000 state bond issue for relief, and the ballot containing the question of four year terms for aldermen.

Last Saturday Robert M. Sweitzer, clerk of the County court, delivered ballots to the precincts in the county not under the jurisdiction of the election commissioners. In the county precincts the large candidates' ballot, the proposition ballot, and in some precincts the wet and dry ballot, are being voted.

MRS. ROOSEVELT WINS 2D GIMBEL NATIONAL AWARD

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was announced today as winner of the second Gimbel national award of $1,000 and a medal in recognition of individual and outstanding work for America. She will visit Philadelphia Dec. 12 to receive the award, which, it was said, was adjudged to her not because of her position as wife of the President but because of her personal achievements.

Mrs. Roosevelt has requested that the $1,000 be applied toward sending a child suffering from the effects of infantile paralysis to Warm Springs, Ga., for six months of muscular reeducation.

The award was created in 1932 and was conferred that year on Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam in recognition of the first solo flight across the Atlantic by a woman.

Belgium Village Builder Figures in Trafic Crash

Erie, Pa., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A car driven by Alfonse DeRijdt, 38, of Antwerp, Belgium, builder of the Belgium Village at A Century of Progress, collided with a motorcycle today, injuring the rider, Whalen Ecker, 34, of Erie. DeRijdt was en route from Chicago to New York. He remained in Erie pending the outcome of Ecker's injuries.

G. O. P. SENATE NOMINEES FIGHT TYRANNY LAW

How to Elect a Majority Against Act Explained.

Election of Republican candidates for the Illinois senate will insure a large bloc of votes against the tyranny law—the state NRA compliance act which was jammed through the general assembly on Gov. Horner's orders last May.

At least 28 votes to kill the tyranny law could be mustered in the senate by electing the 23 Republican nominees listed in the paragraphs to follow. These avowed foes of the iron thumb statute could join with five other G. O. P. senators who voted against the bill last May and whose terms do not expire for two more years. The senate has 51 members.

Representative William E. King of the 3d district, a colored man who has served three terms in the house, is Republican candidate for the senate this fall. He voted and made a strong speech against the tyranny law and yesterday he reiterated his intention of opposing it. The district is normally Republican by a large majority.

Cook County Candidates.

Senator Roy C. Woods of the 5th district led the attack on the NRA bill and opposed the governor's forces all the way through. His Hyde Park, Kenwood, and Woodlawn territory has been a stout Republican stronghold in the past.

The 7th district comprises the country towns outside the Chicago city limits but within the boundaries of Cook county. Arthur J. Bidwell, the young Republican candidate, will cast a vote for repeal of the tyranny law at the first opportunity, if elected. William M. Zipperman, running in the 9th district, would do the same, he said.

Lester W. Porter, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, is the Republican senatorial candidate in the 11th [Englewood and Beverly Hills] district. He said yesterday that if elected the NRA repealer would be the first bill he would introduce. He may be beaten to that honor by Grenville Beardsley of the 13th district, another Republican who believes the bill spells tyranny.

Always Against Tyranny Law.

Felix Kaski of the 15th district and Joseph B. Caracci of the 21st are others who would vote to abolish the law. Representative William G. Thon of the 23d district, who won the Republican nomination for senator last spring after serving nine terms in the house, was against the tyranny law from the beginning and voted against it.

Oscar C. Johnson, Republican senatorial candidate in the 25th district, the largest in the state, and George A. Gillmeister of the 27th district, would like to have the repealer the first question to come before the senate. If elected, they would vote to quash the law, they said.

Robert M. Woodward, Republican representative in the 29th district, who is running for the senate after two terms in the house, voted and spoke against the bill when it passed last spring. He says he will vote to repeal it if elected to the senate. Homer A. Dodge, Republican candidate in the Thirty-first district, is also against it.

Dixon Favors Repeal.

Downstate, George C. Dixon of the Thirty-fifth district favors "prompt repeal." Thomas P. Gunning of the Thirty-seventh and N. M. Mason of the Thirty-ninth district were strong opponents of the tyranny law when it passed the senate. J. W. Spresser, Republican candidate in the Fortieth [Taylorville-Pana-Vandalia] district would also be against it.

Senator Richard J. Barr of the 41st [Joliet] district, Republican minority leader, was another who opposed the bill on roll call. With him stood Senator Clinton L. Ewing of the 43d district and Senator Earl B. Searcy of the 45th [Springfield] district.

Alvin C. Bohm, candidate in the 47th district, will join them if elected, as will W. R. Weber of the 49th [East St. Louis-Belleville] district, and Oral P. Tuttle, candidate in the 51st district down in Egypt.

FREED IN CAR DEATH.

Taylorville, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Joe Caruso, 17, was exonerated by a coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Anna May Petroski, 49, who was killed when struck by Caruso's automobile.

6 STATES VOTE TOMORROW ON REPEAL ISSUE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.] — Prohibition leaders cherish hopes that dry forces will win in a majority of the six states which, on Tuesday, will vote on amendments repealing the dry provisions of their state constitutions.

These states are Florida, Kansas, Idaho, South Dakota, West Virginia, and Nebraska, and of these only Florida, in the opinion of the drys, is indicating a definite trend in the direction of repeal. In West Virginia a hard fought battle is apparently in the offing, but the other four states, if the drys are correct in their estimates, will vote to remain in the dry column.

There will be referenda in Massachusetts on whether to permit the sale of hard liquors or wines and beers only in certain cities and towns, and in Wyoming on retention or repeal of the state dry statutes. Maine has already voted wet and only awaits legislative action to put the state in the wet column, while South Carolina in the August Democratic primary gave "advisory consent" to the enactment of a state liquor law.

The wets are not conceding any states to the drys and are counting on a majority to vote on Tuesday to come over to their side. It is legal to sell liquor in 28 states now and when Maine and South Carolina are included the number will be thirty, or within two of two-thirds of all the states.

ILLINOIS PARTY CHIEFS CENTER ON HEAVY VOTE

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—With the last two big rallies of the campaign behind, managements of both political organizations in central Illinois will center their attention from now until Tuesday on plans for getting out the vote. Both major parties expect victory, confident statements made today reveal.

At both Republican and Democratic headquarters in Bloomington, state, county precinct leaders are lining up automobiles and drivers to carry voters to the polls.

Confidence of victory was expressed today by Mark Ethell, chairman of the McLean county Republican central committee.

MAY LOSE FEW CONGRESS SEATS, COL. HOUSE SAYS

He Sees Roosevelt at Hyde Park.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today discussed the state of affairs with Col. Edward M. House, one of his occasional advisers who is best known for the power he exerted in the Wilson administration. Col. House expressed his approval of the progress of the New Deal but indicated a fear that radicalism may run away with the next congress.

After his talk with the President, the visitor said the Democratic party had no cause to worry about the test that awaits it in Tuesday's elections, but the country would be just as well off if the party lost some seats in congress.

Col. House declined to state whether Mr. Roosevelt shared this view, but it is known that the President has misgiving about the rapid march of radicalism, fearing it may get out of his control.

Expects More Coöperation.

Col. House said he saw signs of a greater understanding and willingness to coöperate in recovery efforts on the part of industry and the bankers, but that was more true of industry than of the bankers. The implied dig at the bankers was surprising in view of the great talk of coöperation and downright affection between the bankers and the President at the recent convention of the former in Washington. But Col. House added that he believed industry and the financial leaders would do everything that could be expected of them.

"They will if they know what's good for them, and I believe they will," he said.

Col. House emerged from retirement in 1932 to help out in the Roosevelt campaign. Since the inauguration he has been an occasional visitor and adviser of the President but never goes to Washington because he is 76 years old and not particularly active any more. He still calls Austin, Tex., his home but has not been there in six years, maintaining an apartment in New York.

Besides Col. and Mrs. House, the President had no other visitors. Indications are that his five day visit here for the purpose of voting on Tuesday will be exceptionally quiet with much of the time passed in studying budget estimates and the relief question.

Roosevelts Attend Church.

This morning the President, accompanied by his wife and mother, attended services at the St. James Episcopal church. The only appointment for tomorrow is with a delegation from the American Newspaper Guild, one of the products of the NRA. The President will vote on Tuesday for Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Senator Royal S. Copeland, each of whom he has endorsed publicly, the latter belatedly, without having intended to slight him in the first place, it is said.

ROOSEVELT AT HOME

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(AP)—In a small, book lined den of the ancestral Roosevelt home on the banks of the Hudson river, President Roosevelt once more is carrying on affairs of state.

Almost any afternoon while stopping here the President drives across the Albany postroad in his own runabout to look over the family farm land stretching to the distant modest home of Moses Smith, intimate friend and tenant.

Ruse to Escape Alimony Is Charged by Actress

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A ruse to escape alimony payment was charged in an affidavit by Linda Dawn, former screen actress, on file today in Superior court. Miss Dawn declared her former husband, Dr. D. A. Reinboldt, starved himself for 24 hours so he would gain the sympathy of the judge. The dentist admitted he had not eaten in some hours, but declared it was because he was without funds. The court ordered him to go out and raise $130 back alimony.

FORECAST VOTE OF 2,400,000 IN ENTIRE STATE

Expect Half of Total in Cook County.

federal largess are said to be hesitating about disclosing their views on local candidates.

Respect Big Silent Bloc.

Democrats assert this silent vote is certain to come their way and the Republicans are just as confident that it will show in the returns as the most effective protest against the piling up of debts and taxes for the approaching years.

The politicos also say that, while there has been almost no fighting between individuals contesting for office, there is an intense party feeling. The Democrats, in possession of almost a complete monopoly on public offices and their advantages are striving to hold what they have, and the Republicans are striving to regain a foothold that will at least put them back in the picture.

The one appeal to public sentiment has been the Democratic "Forward with Roosevelt" cry which has not been so audible for the last thirty or sixty days. The Republicans, selecting new faces for most of the open places, sought to make the campaign a man-to-man affair, but their efforts were in vain.

Assault Big "Job Trust."

In their determination to come to close grips, they lost sight of their early "Stand by the Constitution" slogan which met with so much success, and their only appeal of a general nature in the closing weeks has been continued assault on the Democratic monopoly of office which various speakers have labeled as "self perpetuating oligarchy" and a "job trust."

Their thoughtful speakers in some of the smaller meetings also have argued for a "return to the two party system of government," contending that William J. Stratton should be elected state treasurer because a Republican is better qualified to serve as a watchdog over Democrats at Springfield than is one more Democrat and that, for similar reasons locally, James A. Kearns, Republican, should be elected county treasurer.

Leaders Admit Worry.

There has been no public indication that this type of argument has had any decided effect on the election. Even some of the Republican leaders admit privately that they fear the effect of the individual benefits showered throughout the community, and particularly among the great mass of the less successful elements, coupled with the power of the great Democratic pay roll army will be too much for them to expect.

Their confidential admissions are that they expect to smash through for some offices, but they differ—when separated from each other—as to which offices hold the brightest prospects for them. In the final analysis they say the extent of their success depends on the popularity or unpopularity of the national administration and its works, particularly in the fields of relief and other forms of easy money.

Gas from Stove Blamed for Death of Girl, 7

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Authorities today announced a solution of the death of 7 year old Florence Corkish and the poisoning of her sister and three brothers, who were discovered yesterday in their home at Fairport. Officials said carbon monoxide gas from a coal stove killed her.

RETAIL LIQUOR SALES PROHIBITED IN HOURS WHEN POLLS ARE OPEN

In response to a number of inquiries, Arthur S. Smith of Bloomington, chairman of the state liquor control commission, explained yesterday that the sale of liquor at retail is prohibited on any election day during the hours the polls are open. He said the police department would be advised of this, in order to maintain proper supervision. The polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 5 p. m. throughout the state.

RECOVER BODY IN FOX LAKE.

The body of William Willer, 18 years old, 3130 North Drake avenue, who drowned in Fox lake, northwestern Lake county, early yesterday when a rowboat carrying him and five other youths capsized, was recovered later in the day.

SINCLAIR AIDS HAIL M'ADOO'S SUPPORT TALK

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Upton Sinclair's bid for California's governorship shattered the Sabbath calm today as foes of his "EPIC" campaign aimed final blasts and his backers claimed definite support from Senator William Gibbs McAdoo [D., Cal.].

Senator McAdoo, who greeted the "EPIC" plan creator as "Gov. Sinclair" at the time the state Democratic platform was drawn in Sacramento, declared in an address in Arizona:

"I am supporting the Democratic party in California, as I am supporting the Democratic party in Arizona and the Democratic party in America."

Alice in Wonderland's Condition Is Unchanged

CHAPPLE ASKS LA FOLLETTE FOR A JOINT DEBATE

Insists Senator Refused; Won't Shake Hands.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's craziest campaign drew nearer to its climax today with John Chapple, Republican nominee for the senate, invading a Senator La Follette meeting to demand a personal debate with his progressive opponent.

The Wisconsin senator was greeting friends at the conclusion of a speech at State Fair park and with his most winning smile was shaking hands with a chunky big fellow who had stood at the rear of the audience.

"Are you going to have time to debate with me?" the visitor asked, according to the Chapple version of the encounter.

"Who are you?" Senator La Follette inquired.

"Chapple."

Says Senator Drew Back Hand.

"I wouldn't shake hands with you," Chapple said the senator answered him, drawing back his hand.

"I don't mind that, but will you debate with me?"

"No, sir, I wouldn't debate with you either," La Follette replied.

Both La Follettes were campaigning at State Fair park, Philip for governor and Robert for senator. The elder brother, who is generally considered to have the best chance for the senate, has devoted much of his recent speech-making to put Philip over. He talked about him today and freely criticized the state Democratic administration, although he has been helped in his campaign by the implied support of President Roosevelt and other Democratic spokesmen.

If Democratic votes are expected to send La Follette back to the senate it has not warmed him up to the Democrats in the state. "Now when the Democratic state administration is in wrong with the Roosevelt relief administration," he said today, "Wisconsin Democrats are talking about loading a sales tax on the people. In its eagerness to raise campaign funds the state Democratic administration has soaked every property owner who has a farm or home."

Governor Moves Headquarters.

Governor Schmedeman moved his headquarters up to the Hotel Pfister from Madison for the last day of the campaign and spent today visiting politicians from around the state. Two of his visitors who came in almost simultaneously were Senator F. Ryan Duffy and John M. Callahan, party nominee for the senate. Senator Duffy has campaigned for the state ticket without mentioning the candidacy of Callahan, who is said to have the ill will of National Chairman Farley because of his loyalty to Alfred E. Smith.

Callahan and Duffy met in the governor's parlor and exchanged polite words, without Duffy indicating that he was going to change his policy and speak for Callahan and without Callahan's asking him to.

Gov. Schmedeman will speak on the air tomorrow morning. His general appearance has not been changed by the operation he recently has undergone and if he is disturbed by the strategy of the Republican state headquarters he gives no signs of it. The Republicans have built their final campaign on the allegation that Gov. Schmedeman's health is being sacrificed to make the run for governor, and that if he is elected it will mean the lieutenant governor, O'Malley, will be the actual governor.

Charges Whispering Campaign.

Greene has been criticized for what was termed a whispering campaign against the governor, but he, on the other hand, feels that he has been victimized by a whispering campaign among Democrats who have read him out of the running from the first and urged Republicans to vote for Gov. Schmedeman in order to insure the defeat of La Follette for governor.

The Democrats have conducted a "scare" campaign, Greene said tonight in a radio speech. He called it contemptible. It was based on a straw vote, he said, which was distributed only through Democratic postmasters and in selected Democratic precincts.

Despite this the Republican candidate said tonight victory is assured him. If he can get the votes of Democrats who are scared of O'Malley as Schmedeman gets votes of Republicans scared of La Follette, the whispering campaign will offset itself, observers say.

Because this is the first election in which the La Follettes ever have run on their own ticket, political forecasting is difficult and of doubtful value, the candidates' supporters will admit.

The Progressives expect the Democrats to vote for La Follette because they think the President wants them to. The Democrats expect the Republicans to vote for Callahan because he is considered a conservative and Chapple expects votes from all parties because a good many thousands of them have attended his meeting and promised him they would.

The ten congressional elections equally are in the dark. National Republican Committeeman A. B. Fontaine says he expects a downswing of the pendulum and the election of at least five Republican congressmen. He doesn't put the limit at five, but says he is sure of at least that many. There are Democratic and Progressive candidates for congress in all districts and Socialist candidates in several. All claim tonight they have a chance.

Speeches will continue tomorrow and in some cases tomorrow night and voting will be on Tuesday.

MORELAND TELLS OF THREAT AFTER 'ASSASSIN' SHOT

Police Are Skeptical on Gunman's Intent.

Ald. James C. Moreland of the Forty-first ward, who is the Republican candidate for county assessor, reported to the Irving Park police yesterday that he had received a threat several hours after two shotgun charges had been fired through his dining room window Saturday night. Capt. John E. Ptacek ordered two policemen assigned to his home at 5909 North Mason avenue until after the election tomorrow.

Ald. Moreland informed the police that he had been sitting close to the window through which the shotgun pellets were fired, but that he had escaped the charge because he was leaning over the table writing. He said that his wife, Izora, was in the room at the time. Several relatives were in other parts of the house at the time, according to his story.

Casts Doubt on Gunman's Target.

Capt. Ptacek, who made an investigation yesterday, said that it did not appear reasonable that the alderman could have escaped the bullets fired by the gunman if he had been sitting in the position at the table as related in his report to police. Capt. Ptacek pointed out that the dining room table was two feet from the window and that the chair that Ald. Moreland said he was sitting on was a distance of but six inches from the window.

"In that position he presented an easy target for a gunman who could have torn his side away with the shotgun blast," Capt. Ptacek said.

"Instead the shotgun slugs where fired high and struck the ceiling breaking the chandelier. It does not appear that the gunman was serious in his effort to shoot him."

Tells of Telephone Threat.

Ald. Moreland said that about two hours after the shooting a threat was received over the telephone in his home. He said that his sister-in-law, Mrs. Helen Stanger, who answered the call was told by the person on the other end of the wire: "Tell the alderman to keep his mouth shut or the next time we will get him."

He said last night that he has no personal enemies and that the only motive he could supply for the shooting and the threat was to prevent him from continuing his political campaign.

mately $14,000,000 to prevent the foreclosure of mortgages on homes.

"In addition, it has established within the borders of your state two conservation camps to give needed aid and healthful employment to youngsters who come to working age in a situation where there were no jobs for them.

"The department of agriculture tells me that in Iowa this coming year you will be selling your corn and hog crops for higher prices than you did a year ago, and you will receive, in addition a total of $75,000,000 in adjusted payments. Every other farmer and every other state is being paid on the same basis."

Close to Gift Source.

Democratic candidates have not hesitated to boast that the liberal allotments of federal funds to states and districts was due to the influence they were able to exercise on the Democratic administration in Washington and to threaten more or less openly that the flow of such funds would cease or at least be greatly diminished if constituencies should return Republicans. At a Democratic rally in Iowa, Eugene J. Fuelling, Democratic state chairman, went so far as to say:

"I will touch upon just one more issue which I consider the most important of all. This election, beyond all doubt, will determine whether Iowa will continue to receive, through federal government agencies, the very liberal and much needed benefits coming to our people through those agencies.

"I don't believe there is a person in Iowa who seriously thinks that if the Republican candidate for governor sits in that office after next January the same hearty coöperation between the state and national governments that has characterized the Roosevelt and Herring administrations will continue. Things just don't work that way."

Largess in North Dakota.

The disbursements to North Dakota, according to the Democratic statisticians, average $220 for every man, woman and child, while the per capita contribution of the state to the federal treasury is only $2.53. The Democratic campaign circular for North Dakota said:

"Recent news reports indicate the extent of the benefits of the New Deal to the people of North Dakota. While these figures are not up today . . . they indicate that well over $150,000,000 of federal money under the New Deal has come into North Dakota in the great fight being waged by the government at Washington under the noble leadership of our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, for the relief of distress and suffering."

Attacks Democrats' Methods.

Surveying the Democratic tactics, Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, co-chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, accused the administration of "engaging in a conspiracy of political panhandling, using the public works and power projects as baits for votes . . . in many instances on the direct orders of the White House."

The Republican senator cited specifically the Loup river project in Nebraska, twice "emphatically condemned" by PWA engineers; the $63,000,000 Grand Coulee power dam "in the middle of a desert" where "there is no market for power"; the $84,000,000 dam project in Montana "in a spot where it is utterly futile as a control of the Missouri's flood waters"; the Casper-Alcova project in Wyoming, repeatedly rejected by congress "because of the prohibitive cost of irrigation"; the $19,000,000 Verde dam project in Arizona, "abandoned when the absurdity of building a dam where there was no water threatened a scandal"; the "thrice rejected" $47,000,000 Passamaquoddy project in Maine and the $57,000,000 project for development of the upper Ohio and Delaware watersheds in Pennsylvania.

With reference to the Grand Coulee dam, Senator Hastings said that "in fairness to Mr. Ickes, it must be mentioned that he was appalled by this waste of taxpayers' money, but was compelled to reverse his disapproval at the instance of the White House."

Buying Votes, Reed Charges.

Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri [Democrat] charged in a speech in Detroit that the New Dealers are making a "bold and insolent attempt to corrupt the electorate" by means of federal appropriations.

"Candidates," he said, "secure pledges for the expenditure of millions of dollars in their district or state or city and then tell the voters that this money was furnished by the administration and that they are duty-bound to support the hand that feeds them. What is this but the buying of votes?"

To the mounting criticism of their tactics the Democrats at last retorted in a manner designed to turn the charges to their own advantage. Said Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator:

"With the smug complacency which apparently goes with the chairmanship of the national Republican committee, Mr. Fletcher has seen fit to accuse me of playing politics because I am feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, and shelter the destitute, regardless of their sex, age, creed, color race or place of residence.

"If that be politics, I plead guilty but decline to enter into argument with Mr. Fletcher. Hunger is not debatable."

Recall Speech by Hoover.

The Democrats also argued that they have been doing only what President Hoover did when he went to Palo Alto on the eve of the 1932 election and in a speech detailed all the items of federal funds that had been expended in California.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace termed "unfortunate" the practice of some Democratic candidates in pointing to benefit payments by the Agricultural Adjustment administration and other federal aid to special groups as arguments for their election to office.

"It is a bad precedent long ago established by the Republican party," he asserted. "It is hardly a new phenomenon.

"Of course, it is a mistake to get folks looking too much to the government for specific relief, but certainly the practice is not peculiar to the Democratic party."

Expressing surprise at indignation expressed by some Republican leaders over Democratic campaign tactics, Secretary Wallace said that the Republican party not long ago was giving wide circulation to campaign text books that would make present Democratic claims seem mild in comparison.

Wallace vs. Dickinson.

Mr. Wallace cited also the keynote speech of Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] at the 1932 Republican national convention which pointed with pride to the one billion dollars of government money the Hoover administration had "poured into agricultural industry."

The Republicans charged that the announcement of the allocation of 135 millions to the states for November relief was made on the eve of the election for vote making purposes. In a speech at Wilmington, Del., Mr. Farley replied with an assertion that "human suffering is no less in campaign times than in other times."

"It happens that the payments are coincident with the imminence of an election," Farley said. "They are paid as they fall due. They were paid at approximately the same time last year when there was no election, and they will be paid next year when there is no general election."

Capitalize Recovery Work.

The methods of capitalizing politically the recovery expenditures are not the only aspects of Democratic practical politics that have received attention. Mr. Farley has boasted of the Democratic sinews for political war. He has built up a gigantic organization of Democratic jobholders, the greatest in history. In addition to the replacement of Republicans with Democrats in the regular departments he has mobilized a new army of 92,000 Democrats appointed to places in the alphabetical emergency agencies. Almost all of the latter are exempt from civil service examination. They are party officers and workers in their home communities, appointed for their ability to deliver Democratic votes.

After the exposure of a number of scandals involving the collection of Democratic campaign funds by revenue collectors from rich taxpayers, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau decreed that treasury officials must divorce themselves from positions in party organizations. Collectors and other officials who were Democratic national committeemen resigned one job or the other. But that is as far as the housecleaning went.

Farley Rumors Prove False.

When the President frowned on the Democratic national committeemen who were lobbying in Washington a number of them resigned from the committee and it was given out that Postmaster General Farley would relinquish the positions of national chairman, New York national committeeman, and New York state chairman. But nothing ever came of it.

An announcement in the spring of 1933 that the Roosevelt administration would take postmasters out of politics turned out later to be erroneous. An executive order prescribing the examinations for postmasters was found to have been misinterpreted. The National Civil Service Reform league said of this order that "the examination system now conducted for these postmasters is a sham, a mere cloak for the spoils system. It is a disgrace to the Roosevelt administration."

The interior department on May 15, 1934, issued a notice to job seekers requiring that "each recommendation submitted to him [Secretary Ickes] for appointment to a noncivil service position in the bureau of reclamation be supported by clearance from some appropriate official in the Democratic party organization."

The President said in his Yale speech that he didn't know the party affiliation of appointees. But the commission of an appointee to be chief of the bureau of mines was held up "at the instance of the President," according to the notation, when it was found that the appointee was a Republican.

OYSTER NOT ONLY CHANGES SEX, BUT HAS THREE HEARTS

New York, Nov. 5.—(AP)—The oyster not only changes his and her sex, but has three hearts.

The discovery of the extra hearts is reported by A. E. Hopkins of the United States bureau of fisheries, in Science, the official journal of America's "pure" scientists.

Extra hearts are common in some small animals, but Mr. Hopkins says they never have been observed before in the oyster family. They are an inch long in large oysters.

In diameter they are not much thicker than a pin, but they swell to five or more times this thickness when filled.

They have a beat unlike ordinary hearts. A wave of contraction passes along them, from end to end, thus driving the blood before it.

Mr. Hopkins says these are real hearts, despite their peculiar shape. They are not merely secondary pumps whose beats are operated by the main heart.

COUNTY TAX BILL FOR 1933 WILL BE CUT $31,314,646

Cook county's 1933 tax bill will be reduced by $31,314,646.21 as the result of action by the local governments in eliminating tax levies of questionable legality from their 1933 budgets.

The trimming of the doubtful levies followed the announcement made several weeks ago by John O. Rees, director of the committee on public expenditures, that further economies in tax bills could be effected by rescinding doubtful levies made nearly two years ago.

Most of those levies, he pointed out, were made to cover interest and principal on unsold bonds and bonds that have been refunded. Such levies, if allowed to stand, would provide grounds for future objections that would slow the collection of 1933 taxes.

J. C. Butler, chief rate clerk in the county clerk's office, reported yesterday that notice of the following abatement of tax levies has been received by the clerk's office:

City	$18,857,265.00
Cook county	1,607,607.95
Sanitary district	4,231,042.50
Board of education	3,762,222.00
South park	2,206,308.86
Forest preserve	650,200.00
Total	$31,314,646.31

The tax bill for 1932 was $217,863,487. For 1933, it is estimated that the bill will amount to approximately $180,000,000 as a result of the levy abatements and other economy measures. Tax assessments for real estate and personal property for 1933 have been completed and the work of extending the tax rates for the various taxing bodies is now in the hands of the county clerk.

Taxing officials are hopeful that the 1933 tax bills will be in the hands of the taxpayers by Dec. 1 in order to comply with the law which sets the penalty date for 1933 taxes at Jan. 1, 1935. If the mailing of the tax bills is delayed, legislative action will be needed to extend the penalty date.

Assistant State's Attorney William Touhy, in charge of tax collections for the state's attorney's office, reported that $378,266.19 in delinquent 1932 personal property taxes had been collected during the month of October as the result of court action brought against delinquent taxpayers.

Figures compiled by James F. Ashenden, chief clerk, show $248,355.17 collected in the Circuit court; $38,989 in the Municipal court; $5,767.40 in Probate court; with the remainder made up of voluntary payments made by delinquent taxpayers after notice of suit.

Hunt Alleged Extortionists After Slaying on West Side

Police yesterday were looking for two men, alleged extortionists, who early in the morning shot and killed Joseph Carraccio, 29 years old, and seriously wounded his brother, Frank, 21 years old. The shooting occurred in the street in front of an alleged disorderly resort operated by the Carraccios at 1547 West Van Buren street. Frank, shot once in the chest, is in a serious condition in the Bridewell hospital.

NEW DEAL PLAN BREAKING DOWN, THOMAS AVERS

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for United States senator, said in a campaign address tonight that the New Deal "clearly is breaking down."

"It is losing much of such idealism as it had and such new hope as it offered," he said. Against it he made these charges:

"It is loading government pay rolls with men . . . appointed for political reasons. It is piling up a debt which never can be paid and never will be paid in full. It cannot make up its mind whether it is for or against inflation."

Thomas asserted that "the real gainers under NRA have been big corporations, which have been able to establish a kind of business syndicalism and keep up prices."

INSULL TO HAVE CHANCE TO DENY CHARGES TODAY

Returns to Stand Under Defense Guidance.

Defense Attorney Floyd E. Thompson will take Samuel Insull in hand for redirect questioning in his trial before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today, providing the former utilities magnate an opportunity to again deny the government's implications that dishonesty marked his financial operations.

"Mr. Insull will be on the stand only for a short time," Attorney Thompson said yesterday. "Unless the redirect questioning brings out new testimony, the government cannot again cross-examine."

Begins Fourth Day on Stand.

Insull was subjected to a battering cross-examination Saturday by Leslie E. Salter, special assistant attorney general. Today will be the aged defendant's fourth consecutive day on the witness stand.

He spent yesterday in his suite at the Seneca hotel.

Samuel Insull Jr., after his return from the professional football game where he was an interested spectator, declared his father felt "well," though tired from his exertions.

Both sides appeared confident yesterday. Attorney Thompson was convinced that Insull had made a favorable impression on the jury, and government attorneys were just as certain that Salter had scored importantly with his probing questions concerning Corporation Securities corporation and its multifold activities as they affect the government's mail fraud charges against the 17 defendants.

According to defense plans, William A. Hammond, former statistician for the Illinois Commerce commission, will follow Insull to the stand. He will attempt to show by charts and graphs that the manipulation of Insull stocks were for the purpose of protecting and not defrauding stockholders of Corporation Securities.

Plans to Close in 4 Weeks.

Other defendants will follow on the witness stand. They are expected to testify that they merely followed the instructions of their superiors in the securities corporation organization. Mr. Thompson, who denied Saturday that the defense planned to rest when Insull completed his testimony, will try to finish his case within four weeks—the time limit used by the government. The trial is now in its sixth week.

Insull, his son, and fifteen co-defendants are being tried on charges of defrauding the investing public of $120,000,000 through use of the mails.

Shark Caught with Turtle Bait

Brings Skin Home

Ted Criel, 19 years old, a taxidermist who lives at 2715 Nordica avenue, came back from Florida yesterday with the head and skin of a 1,050 pound leopard shark, 11 feet and 6 inches long, which he caught on a shark hook baited with a 125 pound sea turtle in the Gulf of Mexico, off Tarpon Springs, Fla. It took six men two and one-half hours to land the shark, and Criel said he had to shoot it in the head three times with a high caliber rifle to kill it. He then ran a line ashore to an automobile and beached the fish.

MANCHUKUO OIL LAW KEEPS OPEN DOOR, JAPAN SAYS

TOKIO, Nov. 5.—[Monday]—(AP)—The foreign office announced today that Japan's replies to protests on the proposed creation of an oil monopoly by the government of Manchukuo will be handed to American and British embassies tonight or tomorrow.

It was stated that Manchukuo will contend that the monopoly scheme does not infringe on the principles of the "open door" in China and equal commercial opportunity to other nations.

This view, it was added, is supported by Japan.

GORMAN FAVORS PACT TO PUSH TEXTILE SALES

Labor Chief Writes to Owners' Leader.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Mill workers that six weeks ago were engaged in the nation's greatest textile strike put forward a proposal today that they coöperate with the mills management efforts to develop new textile markets for the benefit of both sides.

Francis J. Gorman, who directed the September general strike of the United Textile Workers, wrote to George A. Sloan, head of the Cotton Textile institute. Gorman said similar proposals would be made to other branches of the textile industry. Gorman's letter referred first to pending wage adjustments, after settlement of which he offered union coöperation in market-seeking.

Gorman mentioned the inroads made on the American textile market, to which American manufacturers recently have called attention, by Japanese products. Gorman said the 400,000 members of the United Textile Workers could make a definite contribution toward extension of the export and domestic markets.

Cites Plan of British.

"You are naturally familiar with the general condition of the industry, both here and abroad," Gorman wrote to Sloan. "You are fully informed, I have no doubt, regarding the plans of the British textile industry and the spindle reduction program now in process in England, and I have no doubt you are equally well informed regarding the rapid expansion of Japanese production and with the relation of British interests to the Japanese industry, as well as with the expansion of the Japanese export trade.

"I shall not attempt to go into the great array of factors which enter into the creation of a stable and expanding field for the use of textile products. The fact that concerns all of us is that the ability of the market, as it is called, to consume textile products is millions of yards behind the ability of the industry to produce cloth.

"A part of the purpose of the conferences which I have in mind would be to create joint employer-union machinery for the expansion and extension of the textile market."

Bundesen Effects Arrest of 'Milk Fund' Ticket Seller

Ticket sales for a "milk fund dance" Nov. 26, purporting to be sponsored by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, came to an abrupt end yesterday. Acting on information from Dr. Bundesen, Policemen Edward Dooley and Donald Coakley of the detective bureau traced the automobile license number of the ticket salesman's car to William Spencer, 30 years, 230 North Sacramento avenue, and arrested him. Dr. Bundesen said he knew nothing about the dance.

MASKED BANDIT CONTINUES HIS CHAIN OF CRIME

The "hooded bandit," a young gunman held responsible for numerous robberies last week in the Austin district, made his appearance last night in the Fillmore police district. According to his victims, he escaped identification by wearing a woman's black stocking pulled over his head, with eyeholes cut in the cloth.

Christopher Quinn, 23 years old, 421 South Homan avenue, and Arnold Fritz, 22 years old, 5209 Congress street, were working on the latter's automobile in Fritz' garage last night. Answering a knock on the door, Quinn faced the masked gunman, who ordered him and Fritz to hold up their hands.

Fritz had no money, but the robber took $3 from Quinn. Quinn's watch was returned to him with a muttered "It's not worth much." Both youths stated it would be impossible to identify the bandit.

On Thursday the masked robber was almost captured by an intended victim, who struck his revolver from his hand and knocked him down. Before the robber could be seized he scrambled to his feet and fled.

DRINKS POISON; SERIOUSLY ILL: Fred Carlson, 42 years old, 5031 Grand avenue, was in a serious condition at St. Anne's hospital last night from poison he drank yesterday morning.

CHARGE NAZIS BREAK HITLER'S CHURCH TRUCE

Bishops Are Summoned to Berlin for Parley.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—Bishop Hans Meisser of Bavaria and Bishop Theophil Wurm of Wuerttemberg arrived in Berlin tonight to attend an extraordinary meeting of the council of Brethren of the Confessional Synod. They were summoned because "Adolf Hitler's subleaders are violating his church truce orders as evidenced in Nuremberg, Stuttgart, and Luckenwalde."

At a meeting of the confessional community at Luckenwalde the Rev. Mr. Vogel was preaching today when he was interrupted by Supt. Loezer, who is a friend of Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and minister of aviation. Uniformed Nazi German Christians, who accompanied Loezer, pushed the opposition pastors from the front benches and broke up the meeting. The Rev. Mr. Vogel was taken into custody. Loezer is closely associated with Herr Kube, Nazi district leader for the province of Brandenburg, in which Luckenwalde is located and the confessional community is convinced Kube approved the action.

Refuse to Vacate Offices.

At Stuttgart Bishop Wurm was recently reinstated as bishop by a court decision following his ouster by Nazis. But the German Christians have refused to vacate his offices, and Gov. Murr of Wuerttemberg has rejected the bishop's plea for aid. As a result, Wurm came to Berlin to ask Chancellor Hitler for a police force in order to compel Gov. Murr to respect Der Fuehrer's instructions.

Bishop Meisser is in a similar position. Julius Streicher, Nazi leader of the Nuremberg district, yesterday said Meisser was reinstated only after he had agreed to obey Reichbishop Ludwig Mueller's orders. Meisser, as well as all confessional pastors in Bavaria, today read statements from their pulpits declaring Streicher's assertions were untrue.

Despite Streicher's order prohibiting religious open air meetings, 20,000 Protestants gathered in Nuremberg today to celebrate the anniversary of Martin Luther's translation of the Bible and to welcome Meisser's return to the bishopric.

Warning to Churchgoers.

The Nazi leader's ban was especially directed against the scheduled demonstration in Adolf Hitler square as being "dangerous to law and order in the present church tension."

"Should any spontaneous demonstrations occur, the police will intervene immediately and severely," the announcement said.

An article in Streicher's newspaper, Frankische Tageszeitung, headed "Bishop Meisser Subordinated to the Reich's Church," said the bishop's reinstatement did not mean that the old state of affairs had been restored.

"Instead," the newspaper declared, "Bishop Meisser had yielded to Der Fuehrer and joined the reich's church under Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller and has submitted to his disciplinary power."

Dr. Karl Koch, president of the council of the Brethren of the Confessional Synod, was expected to preach at today's early morning service at St. Sebaldus, Nuremberg's second largest church. His failure to appear worried the congregation. Later it was rumored he had been detained by new church negotiations. Dr. Koch's place was taken by another Berlin leader, the Rev. Mr. Jacobi. Streicher's ban was announced and the congregation was asked not to demonstrate.

6,000 Crowd Into Church.

Six thousand worshipers, however, jammed St. Lawrence's church for the midday service, while 3,000 gathered outside in the square. When Meisser appeared in the pulpit the congregation sang a hymn of welcome.

The bishop in his sermon declared a "strong faith in the protection that never fails." His only reference to Hitler was the remark:

"As I was still imprisoned the voice of Der Fuehrer reached me and advised me to explain to him the state of the church."

When the bishop left the church thousands surged across the square cheering and shouting "Heil." After his departure the crowd moved to Adolf Hitler square to demonstrate their loyalty to him.

50,000 May Flee Saar.

GENEVA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Some 50,000 anti-Hitler residents of the Saar basin are planning to take refuge in France, according to information reaching league of nations officials today if the Saar plebiscite results in German sovereignty.

Opinion in league circles holds that Chancellor Hitler, who has forecast a victory for Germany, is determined to allow no Nazi disorders which would precipitate occupation by French troops.

Saar residents will vote Jan. 13 on whether to return to Germany, go over to France, or remain under league jurisdiction.

Wedding of Prince George to Cost King a Fortune

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Probably the busiest father in England today is King George. He is preparing for the marriage of his youngest son, the duke of Kent (Prince George), to Princess Marina of Greece at Westminster Abbey on Nov. 29.

These preparations not only cost the king a lot of extra work, but a large sum of money, for the monarch must dig down in his pocket for about $50,000 which the wedding is expected to cost. This sum only will meet the bare expenses. It has nothing to do with Queen Mary's dresses for the wedding day or those she will wear at the receptions preceding it. Nor does it include wedding presents of the king and queen. It is impossible to estimate what these will cost. They will probably comprise an entire household equipment of cutlery and table linen besides magnificent sets of jewels to be worn in court by the bride.

Rum for the Navy.

The sum set aside by king George will include $6,500 for extra rations of rum and gin for the navy to drink to Prince George's health on the wedding eve. Prince George is a sailor, as is the king. Then there will be champagne for the officers of the regiments on duty at the wedding, and beer for the soldiers.

Stands at Westminster Abbey will cost $7,500, even if only as few as 2,000 guests are invited. Money will be saved on floral decorations, as cut flowers are not permitted inside the abbey with the exception of two vases of lilies. The ringing of the full peal of bells will cost about $250. Red carpets, awnings, and candles come to about $200.

The treasury only can be called upon to pay for the sovereign's wedding, that of the heir apparent, and the sovereign's eldest daughter. So the king has to foot the bill.

Prince George will give a donation to the abbey to commemorate his wedding. Three receptions to view the wedding presents, grants, and toasts to tenants on royal estates to celebrate the day, and the wedding breakfast will cost about $25,000.

Two receptions are to be held in the afternoon. One is to the household staffs of Windsor, Sandringham, and Buckingham palace. The other is to the personal friends of the bride and bridegroom, the gentlemen at arms, and court officials. The evening reception is for the cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps, statesmen, peers, and society leaders. The invitations are restricted to 1,000.

The bill of fare for these three gatherings is supplied by a London caterer. But every florist, fruit dealer, cigar seller, wine merchant, and pastry cook who has been granted the privilege of the royal charter—or coat of arms—also is represented. The king himself personally signs the orders. The queen selects and authorizes every item. One florist will get the order for fresh garlands for the wedding cake. Another will have the bride's bouquet, a third will supplement the floral decorations which come from the king's greenhouses at Frogmore.

There are six or seven wedding cakes alone. The wedding cake to be cut by the bride is to be baked by the Scottish firm which baked the king and queen's wedding cake 41 years ago. Subsidiary wedding cakes are made by the several biscuit manufacturers entitled to carry the royal coat of arms, but none of these shall weigh more than 400 pounds.

The Cakes Cost $7,000.

Wedding cakes will cost $7,000, and the cost of the three receptions totals about $10,000. The main cake has one tier which is only thinly iced and yields quickly to the knife. This tier contains real gold charms and souvenirs. The slices are distributed among close relatives at the wedding breakfast.

In spite of the queen's careful tabulating something like $10,000 will vanish in incidentals. Postage of invitations and letters of acknowledgement amount to tremendous sums. Then there is the entertainment of numerous wedding deputations who arrive with presents. The lord mayor and aldermen of the City of London will present the couple with antique and valuable plate. A girl guide will bring a gift from Canada. Emissaries from all over the empire must be entertained.

HOLD BARTENDER AFTER WEST SIDE TAVERN SLAYING

The Fillmore street police were holding W. J. Herbster, 31 years old, 3229 West Madison street, last night for the slaying of Lawrence Howard, 26 years old, 3336 West Monroe street, who was shot to death early yesterday morning in the tavern of Archie Kerr at 3227 West Madison street.

Herbster, who is employed as a bartender in the tavern, surrendered to the police an hour after the shooting. He confessed to Sergt. Thomas Nolan that he shot Howard following a quarrel. He declared that Howard was attempting to "shake him down for $300 in order to run bootleg alcohol to Kansas City." He fired at Howard when the latter began hurling steins at him, he said.

A dozen witnesses who were in the place at the time were questioned by the police, but none had overheard the altercation.

Germany Forbids Women to Work on Canal Barges

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—In a new effort to remove women from jobs and replace them by men, Nazi authorities have ruled that by Jan. 1, 1935, no woman may be employed in the canal shipping trade on vessels exceeding fifteen tons. This decree mainly affects the wives and daughters of barge owners or masters who frequently employed women relatives to work in the cabins.

FRANCE GUARDS AGAINST RIOTING OVER 'NEW DEAL'

Nation Split on Doumergue Demand for Reform.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Renewal of civil strife such as that which took 28 lives last February was feared today by authorities as the result of Premier Gaston Doumergue's forthcoming challenge to parliament on Wednesday.

The aged premier, guardian of French political truce, has challenged the chamber of deputies to a quick finish fight over constitutional reform, the issue which already has produced a dangerous split in his cabinet.

Rumors of troops movements into Paris to prevent an outbreak of rioting like that which brought Doumergue into power were circulated tonight despite a denial from the war ministry.

To Reinforce Police.

Officials indicated the police would be reinforced with mobile guards from the outskirts of the city, since one of the worst political crises in recent French history is forecast if Doumergue is defeated in parliament. It is to be a one-man battle against political opponents for the premier.

Throwing down the gauntlet in the form of a proposal that credits for three months be voted to allow parliament to give all its time to debate on the constitution, Doumergue announced he would face the chamber on this issue.

The move was regarded as a mask of parliamentary procedure disguising the real issue, which is the premier's insistence that he and the president be given power to dissolve parliament without the consent of the senate, a demand which his opponents fear may lead to the establishment of dictatorial powers.

Warning to Chamber.

In any case the three months' appropriations he will ask would run the government until Doumergue's reforms are voted or until a new parliament is elected.

He warned that if he loses his first battle he will immediately ask the senate to dissolve the chamber preparatory to general elections.

Solemn warnings of a possible attack on parliament by thousands of angry Frenchmen if the political truce is broken were sounded by Doumergue's supporters.

The premier in his radio appeal to the country last night, was seeking to rally public support in his lone fight against "the intrigues of politicians."

Pierre-Etienne Flandin, minister of public works, followed the appeal of his chief with a speech calling upon the center group, of which he is the head, to stand by Doumergue on his reform platform or else the power of the French government, confronted by the dictatorships of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, would be a "ragged harlequin's cloak."

"People to Decide Fate."

Doumergue's promise that the people would decide France's fate in new elections if parliament failed him was counted upon by his supporters to counteract radical Socialist opposition to the feature of his five-point program calling for administrative dissolution of the chamber.

The radical Socialist deputies will decide Tuesday on whether to vote with their leader, former Premier Herriot, against Doumergue's text on the dissolution point. At a stormy cabinet meeting yesterday Doumergue gave them a free hand to decide between themselves whether they would support him.

ROB UNION OF $106 DUES.

Two robbers held up the second floor offices of the Italian Bakers and Drivers' league at 2457 Chicago avenue yesterday and escaped with $106 in collected dues, while 100 members of the union were in meeting a floor above.

AUSTRIA PUTS ARMY ON GUARD AS HUNGARIAN PREMIER VISITS VIENNA

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary was guarded like a visiting king when he arrived here today en route from Budapest to Rome for an important conference with Premier Mussolini. Thousands of Austrian soldiers and police surrounded the railroad station, which resembled a fortress. Photographers and newsmen were forced to keep their distance as if they had been potential assassins.

Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, vice chancellor, greeted Goemboes, along with other cabinet members, and later held separate private conferences with the visiting premier.

Goemboes, a soldier himself, seemed dumfounded at the amazing measures taken to guard him. After his arrival the dictator placed a wreath on the tomb of fallen Austrian heroes and then went to lunch with the chancellor and vice chancellor. He was to leave tonight for Italy, where he will talk trade and treaties with the Italian premier.

DETAILS OF KING'S ASSASSINATION PLOT REVEALED

Find Terrorists Drew Lots for Killing.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Nov. 4.—Details of the results of the French police inquiry into the assassination of King Alexander have been given to the Paris correspondent of the Belgrade newspaper Vreme by the magistrate who is inquiring into the assassination. This information is based on alleged admissions made by the prisoners Mio Kralj, Yvan Ratich, and Vronomir Pospisil.

On Sept. 4, the magistrate told the correspondent, an emissary of Dr. Anton Pavelich, leader of the Croat revolutionaries, went to the terrorist camp at Nagy-Kanizsa, Hungary, from Italy with orders from Dr. Pavelich. These orders are said to have been carried out thus:

Divided Into Three Groups.

Fifteen terrorists in the camp were divided into three groups of five. Each group had to draw from a bag containing four white balls and one black ball. Each of three prisoners examined drew a black ball, which meant that each was to be prepared to carry out the assassination of the king—who had been "sentenced to death" many months before by the terrorists—while those who drew four white balls were to assist the would-be assassin in their group.

Vlada Georgieff Tschernocemskz, alias Petrus Kalemen, the slain assassin, himself went direct from Italy to Zurich and thence to Marseilles with orders to carry out the crime. Kraj was finally deputed to aid the assassin.

Met by Assassin.

On Sept. 26, in accordance with further orders from Dr. Pavelich, it is said, the three terrorist groups left for Marseilles via Budapest and Vienna. In Zurich they were met by the actual assassin and a former Austro-Hungarian army officer, Egon Kvaternik.

Kvaternik produced Dr. Pavelich's order informing the terrorists that they were to accept all of his further instructions as coming direct from Dr. Pavelich himself, the prisoners are said to have told the French magistrate.

German Mayor to Punish Persons Behind with Rent

KUESTRIN, Germany, Nov. 4.—Tenants behind with their rent are threatened with a punishment "befitting the crime" by the mayor of Baerwalde, near Kuestrin. Persons who deliberately and repeatedly fail to pay their rent will be housed in "emergency huts" erected in the square where executions took place in the middle ages.

CHURCHLESS TVA TOWN LIKENED TO 'A MORAL DESERT'

Pastor Warns of Crime Gains in Such Areas.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The action of the Tennessee Valley authority in establishing the village of Norris, Tenn., without provision for religious worship was assailed last night by the Rev. Dr. John Thompson in his sermon before a large congregation in First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple.

As he spoke of the economic as well as spiritual values of churches in American life, the loop pastor expressed regret that any one should think of establishing churchless towns in this country. He referred to the growth of organized crime and its effect upon morals as well as pocketbooks, declaring that "our crime record is a crime scandal" which has arisen in large part from impoverished and undermanned religious agencies.

Stresses Value of Churches.

Dr. Thompson asked business men and industrial leaders the categorical question as to what their concerns would be worth if all moral leadership emanating from churches should cease, attaching the same question to the future of New Deal towns where government schemes are being carried out.

"Too much blame for the growth of crime, for instance, has been laid at the doors of governmental agencies, such as police and courts," said Dr. Thompson. "The chief responsibility lies in the home and the church. It is time that our business men and civic minded people realize the absolute necessity of the church in our modern life. Social workers tell us that crime tendencies show themselves in early childhood in moral and spiritual deserts of towns and cities, and that long before they are old enough for the police to handle them mere children are babbling 'soak the rich' talk and even worse than that. Thousands of children are growing up with these anti-social ideas and ideals of class antagonisms and hatreds."

Directs Appeal to TVA.

Dr. Thompson declared the church to be a fundamental wealth conserver, adding that many men of wealth and prestige have failed to realize how much they owe to American religious agencies. An appeal, Dr. Thompson asserted, should be made immediately to the TVA for Norris and other New Deal towns in order that they should not be developed on churchless foundations.

Turning to Chicago, Dr. Thompson said that mission work is needed in unprivileged "desert" areas if crime conditions are to be improved. He commended the plans of the church and welfare recovery committee developed under the leadership of John D. Allen.

"It is worse than tragic to have to close mission churches in these days of depression. All the agencies that tend to pull down are running wide open night and day and young people are driven out into streets and alleys, and this," Dr. Thompson declared, "is really sending them out to schools of crime."

QUAKE SHAKES SAME CALIFORNIA AREA AS IN 1933

Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—An earthquake, described as one of the strongest since the disastrous shocks of March 10, 1933, shook Long Beach, Huntington Park, Anaheim, and nearby areas at 8:39 o'clock [Chicago time] tonight.

The damage was limited, however, to a few broken dishes and window panes.

The quake was from one to two seconds' duration.

Many lives were lost and immense property damage done in this area in the 1933 quake, which occurred early in the evening.

TRIBUNE COOKING SCHOOL ENTERTAINERS

TRIBUNE SCHOOL OF COOKERY WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Hold First Sessions on South Side.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Secrets of cookery buried in yellowed pages for one and two hundred years or handed down from one culinary artist to another will become the mutual property of those 20,000 south side housewives who will attend THE TRIBUNE'S annual cooking school opening tomorrow at the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue.

Common knowledge, too, will be how to raise to new social levels in brand new recipes such foods as cabbages and beans. The old recipes have been garnered and the new ones concocted during the last eight months in laboratory research by Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, the home economics expert who will conduct the cooking school.

Proved Good by Test.

"I tried them out again and again," she confided yesterday, "so I would be absolutely certain of their success before I submitted them for the approval of Chicago women." And then she added, her eyes sparkling with characteristic enthusiasm:

"Think of it. Those old recipes are just as good in these modern times as they ever were. Furthermore, they give us ideas for inventions. Cooking was an art then, and it is now—an art all women can learn if they have a real interest in their kitchen."

Asked to name some of the ancient dishes she expects to prepare, Mrs. Chitwood said their identity will have to wait, but she hinted at two recipes, one a wedding cake and the other a pie.

Wedding Cake and Chiffon Pie.

"The trick to the cake is placing it in a slightly warm oven without fire for an hour, then turn on the heat, gradually increasing it and baking for two hours. The reason? To bring out the true goodness of the material, to blend the flavors more perfectly. This makes a splendid wedding cake. I'll make a French chiffon pie, too, which caused me some hard work to dig out. It had been bought from France and used guardedly in a restaurant in this country."

Her own recipes include many inexpensive foods which Mrs. Chitwood has brought from the simple board to the banquet table. Then there will be dishes for men only, such as the "bachelor" steak, which is soaked all night in cocktail sauce, then broiled and dotted with butter.

Out of Cabbage—a Rose!

"Can you imagine a head of cabbage turning into a full blown rose?" Mrs. Chitwood went on. "I'm going to prepare that very dish and a lot of women will be quick to see it as the esthetic center of the buffet supper. You use the whole head, combine with other vegetables, use your skill at vegetable tinting, and presto, a huge rose to be served family style.

"There's a bean salad, too, which the most formal hostess will be proud to serve. In fact, the guests will never know they are eating beans. But that recipe, too, will wait. My new salads are easily prepared and the decorations so simple a child can make them."

Workmen will spend today preparing the huge Trianon ballroom for tomorrow's 5,000 guests. During the three years the three week cooking school has been conducted by THE TRIBUNE each day has seen capacity crowds, and on some occasions the late comers had to return another day.

The school will continue at the Trianon through Friday with new recipes presented daily as well as a changing program by opera, stage and radio stars, dancers, and other public personalities. Members of THE TRIBUNE and W-G-N staffs will be presented. Phil Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE will act as master of ceremonies as he has in the years past. Special prizes will be awarded daily with grand prizes at the close of each week's school.

Carl Craven will lead a special program of community singing at the Trianon tomorrow.

Next week, beginning Tuesday and continuing four days, the cooking school will be held in Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 North Crawford avenue, for the convenience of west side women, and on Nov. 20 at the Aragon ballroom for the north side housewives.

LIQUOR BOARD RULES DRINKERS MUST SIT DOWN

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The problem of perpendicular beer drinking versus horizontal guzzling put Washington state bartenders on edge today, because the state liquor board wants the drinkers to sit down.

Lots of the drinkers don't want to sit down, the bartenders say, and how are they to be compelled to do so?

The liquor board, backed by the authority of the state, and headed by Rear Admiral Luther E. Gregory, ruled that on and after Jan. 1, 1935, drinkers of beer and wine have to sit down. They can't stand at bars.

The idea is to do away with all the atmosphere of the old saloon.

The bartenders have no better suggestions to offer, so far, but they disagree violently with the liquor board's ideas.

"The main trouble is," said a good many bartenders, "that the customers go to the state liquor stores, drink something strong, then have a beer for a chaser, and the innocent bartender who serves it to him in a beer tavern is the goat."

The state liquor board is the only agency allowed to sell anything stronger than wine or beer.

FRANCE SUSPENDS SYRIAN PARLIAMENT AS TROUBLE BREWS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The French high commissioner for Syria suspended the Syrian parliament sine die by a decree issued yesterday, thus confirming previous reports that France is having serious trouble with that mandated territory. The commissioner thus gets a clear field and becomes virtual dictator.

France's action was forced by grave disturbances similar to those recently in Tunis and Algeria. In Syria, as in the other two territories, the basis of the trouble is economic, though it is complicated and rendered bitter by the attendant nationalistic aspirations of the native population. The economic crisis has led the Syrian government under France's direction to take deflationary measures, and these have aroused discontent.

Business, anyway, has continued getting worse, and trouble makers have been finding an easy field for their work, particularly in the local parliament, where the government has been finding it impossible to get anything done.

PARKS' 2 MILLION DEFICIT FACED BY MERGED DISTRICT

$1,709,713 Defaulted Bonds Also Inherited.

The nineteen small park units which have been merged into the Chicago Park district have brought to the district a total deficit of $2,413,826 in their corporate funds, a total of $1,709,713 in defaulted bonds and a bonded debt of $12,994,666, according to a survey of their financial positions made by the park district accountants.

The statement of these deficits is based on an assumption of an 80 per cent collection of all the taxes levied by the various districts during the last six years. This allowance is slightly larger than the percentage of collection experienced by other taxing bodies, which is less than 75, so the deficits are likely to be slightly increased, park district officials pointed out.

Financed with Warants.

In the cases of some unnamed small park districts the figures show that there will be corporate fund deficits even if 100 per cent of all taxes levied are received. In other words, these districts, now placed under a budget and accounting system in the Chicago Park district, previously spent more than they could expect to receive from a full tax collection, and financed themselves with warants issued in excess of the 75 per cent statutory limit.

Following is a statement of the position of the various corporate funds, as of May 1, the date the Chicago Park district board took office, based on an 80 per cent average ultimate tax collection:

The park consolidation act provides that the liabilities of the individual districts may be paid for only out of taxes levied on the properties within that district.

Face Bond Problem.

Surpluses, if the anticipated 80 per cent collection should cause them to materialize, will be used within the district in which they originate.

A problem more serious even than the accumulated corporate fund deficits is provided in the accumulated defaults in bonds and interest presented by most of the park districts, said Robert J. Dunham, president of the district board. Only four of the nineteen small districts are not now in default and the total bonded debt of all the twenty-two park districts is in excess of $100,000,000, with $35,000,000 falling due within the next five years.

Indebtedness is Listed.

The total bonded indebtedness and the total bonds and interest in default, as of April 30, of the nineteen small park districts follow:

In an attempt to solve the financing problem, Mr. Dunham has called upon a group of Chicago bankers and civic leaders to present to the park district a refinancing program modeled after the west park refunding program, designed to avert further default and spread the debt burden over a period of 20 years. This committee is expected to bring in its report today, and also to recommend legislation which would authorize the refinancing program.

Swallows Too Cold to Fly Alps; Planes Give a Lift

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Nov. 4.—Airplanes came to the rescue of many swallows in Germany which, because of fine autumn weather, started too late on their flight to the south. When the weather broke the birds were too exhausted to fly over the Alps. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals got boys and girls to catch the birds. They were placed in wooden cages and flown by German passenger planes over the Alps to Milan where they were released.

RICKENBACKER TO SEEK WEST-EAST FLIGHT RECORD

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker will attempt to better the west-east transcontinental flight records both for speed and transport planes, hopping off from here Wednesday or Thursday, Eastern Air Lines officials announced here tonight.

Rickenbacker, arriving tonight from the east, will be in charge of a 14 passenger plane, piloted by Si Moorehouse, with Capt. Charles W. France, vice president of Eastern Air Lines, in charge of operations, as co-pilot.

The ship will carry six passengers and a load of 5,750 pounds. Capt. Rickenbacker plans to make the flight at an average altitude of 17,000 feet. Pilots and passengers will have an oxygen supply.

The records he will seek to better are the speed plane mark of 10 hours 2 minutes, held by Col. Roscoe Turner, and the transport time of 13 hours 2 minutes made by Capt. Rickenbacker last February.

RECORD CLAIMED FOR BIG PLANE ON HOP FROM TEXAS

Aided by a stiff tail wind, a new Douglas air liner sped into Chicago yesterday afternoon, breaking by half an hour the flight time record from Fort Worth, Tex., for loaded passenger planes. The new time, according to officials of the American Air Lines, who were aboard the ship, was 3 hours 52 minutes.

The average speed was 213 miles an hour, 23 miles an hour faster than the usual cruising speed of the ship. The plane is the first of a fleet of new Douglas air liners to be put in service between New York and California. It had just been received on the west coast, and was being flown east by Pilots J. G. Ingram of Fort Worth and William B. Lester of Chicago.

It is the same type plane used by the "Flying Dutchmen" who finished second in the London-Melbourne air race.

NOTED TENOR'S SON CRASHES IN PLANE; 3 HURT

Charles W. Marshall Jr., 22 years old, son of the noted operatic tenor, and two passengers in his airplane suffered minor injuries yesterday in a crash at the Galesburg airport, according to word received here. The others were Marion Yeoman, 18 years old, and her brother, R. S. Yeoman Jr., of Abingdon. The crash occurred when the plane, piloted by young Marshall, took off down wind and failed to clear a tree, whirling sidewise to the ground on its nose. The three were taken to a hospital, but only Miss Yeoman remained there.

Visits His Brother.

"But I'm going to the home of my brother," the pilot added with a wink, "and I hope he passes a highball around. I hope I'll get a home cooked meal at his home."

Sir Charles' brother is E. H. K. Smith, who watched anxiously while his "kid brother" was making the long journey over the ocean.

Capt. Taylor said that a few hundred miles from the California coast line the plane ran into heavy fog and he had to navigate with instruments.

"We struck the California coast a few miles north of San Francisco," he said, "and located our direction by sighting the tops of the hills sticking out of the fog."

Commenting on the fact that he and Capt. Taylor were the first to fly from Honolulu to Oakland, Kingsford-Smith remarked: "It isn't my fault, or Bill's, but that we have the best equipment in the world."

Officials Welcome Him.

One by one the welcoming officials rushed to the field and greeted the flyers.

"Well, it's very nice for all you people to be out here to greet me," Sir Charles said, "but I have business to do."

He said he was worried about the safety of his plane, probably because of souvenir hunters, and sailors immediately took charge of it and pushed it into a hangar, where it was fueled for the flight to Los Angeles.

Calls Hawaii Landing Field.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Pacific flight of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, completed with his landing at Oakland, Cal., today, was viewed by Senator McAdoo, president of the National Aeronautic association, as proving "that Hawaii is a landng field between mainland America and Asia."

McAdoo said in a statement issued here that "Hawaii well may become an airpost of unrivaled importance in a decade or two," with the island serving as a junction for air lines from widely scattered eastern hemisphere points to feed into a trunk route to the United States.

Flies on to Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—To keep a dinner engagement he made with a friend here just before taking off on his flight from Brisbane, Australia, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith landed at the municipal airport at 3:25 p. m. [5:25 p. m. C. S. T.] today from Oakland, Cal.

His dinner host, P. C. B. Morriss, was the first to greet him.

A crowd of several thousand persons was at the airport when the ship landed. As soon as Sir Charles alighted the crowd broke through police lines and swarmed about the plane.

"We're by far happier to be here than it's possible for you to see," the noted flyer told Morriss, manager of a hotel here.

TRUCKS CRASH HEAD ON; KILL ONE; INJURE TEN

Three of Outing Party in Critical Condition.

One man was killed and ten young men and women were injured, three of them seriously, last night when the truck in which the young people were returning from a picnic in the forest preserves collided head-on with a delivery truck at Addison street and Springfield avenue.

The dead man, the driver of the delivery truck, was Gustave E. Hedstrom, 28 years old, 5039 North Clark street, an employé of John Lindahl, 1508 Sherman avenue, Evanston.

Most seriously injured of the ten in the other truck were Joseph Prusinski, 19 years old, 1614 North Hermitage avenue, the driver; Frances Rudneiski, 13 years old, 1821 North Lincoln street, and Roy Sturenski, 21 years old, 1845 Girard street.

Swerves to Avoid Car.

The girl was believed to have incurred a skull fracture and the two young men were injured internally. All were taken to the Belmont hospital.

According to witnesses, Hedstrom's truck, going west on Addison street, swerved to dodge another car and crashed head on into the truckload of young people.

Frank Uzzo, 24 years old, 1108 Townsend street, was fatally injured last night and seven other persons were hurt in an accident involving three automobiles at Waukegan road and state route 22, one mile west of Highwood in Lake county.

The automobile driven by Joseph Paul, 24 years old, 923 Townsend street, in which Uzzo was riding, glanced off a car driven by August L. Johnson, 340 Oak circle, Wilmette, and then crashed into an automobile driven by Max Stern, 223 Sewart avenue, Waukegan, a clothier. Paul and another passenger in his car, Barthe De Mattel, 25 years old, 923 Townsend street, were taken seriously injured to the Alice Home hospital, Lake Forest.

Hitch Hiker Dies in Collision.

An unidentified Chicagoan, 25 years old, was killed yesterday when the automobile driven by Arthur Andersen, 2203 North Lavergne avenue, who had given him a lift, struck a car driven by Frank Huber, 307 East Chicago street, Elgin, near Ontarioville, on Lake street highway, five miles east of Elgin.

Miss Irene Sluhoski, 5153 Grace street, who with Miss Bernice Reichert, 1908 North Kedzie avenue, was riding with Andersen, w critically injured in the accident.

Harold D. Wagner, 24 years old, 8015 Princeton avenue, a truck driver, surrendered to the Shakespeare avenue police last night after having been sought as the man who fatally injured Frank Brown, 51 years old, 1628 North Campbell avenue, on Saturday before 2161 North Western avenue. He was held for the inquest.

The foregoing Cook county fatalities and five others brought the county's 1934 toll to 1,051 yesterday. The others:

Carl Kling, 64 years old, 6038 North Mozart street, a metal polisher, died in the Swedish Covenant hospital of pneumonia, which developed after he was struck by an automobile at California and Peterson avenues on Oct. 29. Both his legs were broken.

Mrs. Rebecca Uveges, 45 years old, 3232 Cortez street, fatally injured by the automobile of Charles Greson, 22 years old, 4220 Augusta boulevard, as she ran across Augusta boulevard at Kedzie avenue. Greson was held.

Tony Erbuswiski, 40 years old, 4548 South Rockwell street, found dead at Garfield boulevard and Hamlin avenue, apparently struck by a hit and run automobile.

Abraham Goldberg, 1145 South Homan avenue, a salesman. Died at the Mount Sinai hospital from injuries incurred when struck by the automobile of Benjamin Lasher, 47 years old, 2917 West 38th street, at Roosevelt road and Independence boulevard.

Unidentified man, about 55 years old, killed when he was struck in front of 11937 South Halsted street early today by an automobile driven by Leo Cole, 14422 South Sangamon street.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Nov. 4, 1934.

On rainy days and Sundays men at the Tribune Experimental Farm have been spending much of their time lately discussing proposed experiments in the production of new and rare crops and in the breeding and feeding of live stock. One of the most recent experiments suggested is that of allowing sheep to drink water highly charged with sulphur to see if the weight of the wool fiber can be increased.

Today Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, decided to begin the test this winter despite somewhat discouraging reports of investigators who have tried the use of sulphur in various ways.

Mr. Thurow said today: "I have decided to test out the use of natural sulphur water, even if the odds are against us. We will have the sheep and we have a well of sulphur water, located in a convenient place on the farm, where the test can be made with little extra effort."

His tentative plans call for the use of thirty sheep in the test. He will select sheep of the same breed, age, sex, and size. Fifteen of the sheep will be limited to a sulphur charged water supply coming from our well located at the northeast corner of the farm, not far from Plano, Ill. These sheep will be housed, grazed, and fed near the well throughout the year. The other fifteen sheep will be given water that does not contain sulphur. Otherwise the entire flock of thirty head will be fed and handled in the same way as far as it is practicable.

Mr. Thurow plans to start the experiment soon. The sheep will be weighed and the weights will be recorded separately at the time they are started on the test. Then at shearing time next spring the fleeces will be weighed and comparisons made to see if there is any difference in the weight of the wool.

Mr. Thurow says that he does not expect to obtain definite and conclusive results in the first year's tests. If he receives any encouragement after the first clip is produced he expects to repeat the experiment year after year until definite conclusions can be drawn.

BANK ACCOUNTS OF HAUPTMANN TO BE BIG POINT

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 4. — (AP) — Row after row of dull figures—the records of transactions involving thousands of dollars—will be used by the state of New Jersey in its attempt to prove Bruno Richard Hauptmann kidnaped and killed the infant Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., and that he engineered the deed and the subsequent ransom negotiations alone.

The importance of the figures was pointed out today by an authoritative source, who said New Jersey, in the Hauptmann trial, intends to show the German carpenter's bank and brokerage accounts plus the $14,590 in ransom bills found in his Bronx garage add up to approximately $50,000.

The accounts, it was learned, show systematic deposits were made after the ransom money had been given to the mysterious "John" in a Bronx cemetery April 2, 1932. The bank records show that sometimes as little as 50 cents was deposited; at other times the amount ran as high as $2,000. In one month Hauptmann is known to have placed $4,500 in his brokerage accounts and $2,000 in a bank.

The small deposits, the state will contend, were made after the suspect had passed a ransom bill to a storekeeper or tradesman, the idea being to get rid of the change as quickly as possible. The prosecution will be unable to trace accurately all of the actual ransom bills, the source of the information said, but it will show that some deposits consisted of gold notes.

PICKS YOUTH AT SHOWUP AS ONE OF RAPIST TRIO

Charles Carlson, alias Murray, 23 years old, 1039 Lill avenue, was identified yesterday at the detective bureau showup as one of three youths who kidnaped Mrs. Catherine Durso, 25 years old, 2449 North Ashland avenue, mother of two children, on Aug. 12, and raped her.

Mrs. Durso identified Carlson as the driver of the car who threatened her with a gun when they were pursued by Libertyville police. Edward Lesnig, 21 years old, 2141 Clifton avenue, and Frank Pianetto, 21 years old, 2142 North Racine avenue, the others, were captured and have been sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary for rape.

Mrs. Durso told Detectives Edward Creedon and Philip Brophy that Carlson ordered her on threat of death to pose as his wife if the police caught them.

VOTE FOR REPUBLICAN CONGRESSMEN.

A Democratic congress added some 5,000 new and strange criminal laws to the United States statutes. It didn't pass them. That's the worst of it. It granted authority to administrators to promulgate them. They are codes, executive orders, and rulings which declare certain things to be crimes which never before entered the American contemplation of what was legal and what was illegal.

These executive orders and administrators' codes are criminal laws because they provide for imprisonment and fines. They affect minutely and closely all Americans engaged in business in a fashion which would have been completely out of comprehension two years ago.

There is hardly anybody in business in the United States now who can know at any given time whether he is proceeding in all respects legally in his various transactions. There are many who have found that compliance, even when the case is clear, would make continuance in business impossible.

The average American business man now is either goose-stepping in fear that some espionage agent will find him doing something illegally or he is bootlegging and taking his chances.

In enforcing these new criminal laws the administrators have resorted to boycott, intimidation, injunctions, fines, trials without jury, etc. The public is familiar with some of the fantastic consequences of this law enforcement but not with all. Every time the average fellow has had an injustice done him it has not been discovered and printed. In fact, an administrator of a code told his charges they should beware how they made public complaint of their grievances because such publicity might get them into trouble.

"They can't put you in jail for that" is a phrase denied by 5,000 new laws. They can and do. An American citizen has a hundred chances of going to jail today to one he had two years ago. The number of things he may not do has been increased in like proportion. The possession of property has become precarious. The value of money has become uncertain. The right to buy and sell has been impaired.

Bad laws make bad administrators who need not be bad men. The Republican party is opposed to this system of government which has taken the place of representative democracy with its three independent divisions of authority. Republican congressmen will endeavor to check the overthrow of constitutional government and to return American liberties to the American people.

People who are alarmed by what they have experienced and by what they have reason to expect will vote Republican so that congress may be restored as an independent branch of government at a time when checks and balances are needed as never before.

AIR SERVICE TO FLORIDA.

As the Florida tourist season approaches our air lines must be fully aware that a very substantial number of citizens of Chicago and vicinity are commencing to wonder what sort of service will be established to Miami this year. Overnight air service to southern California has played havoc with our mental geography. Los Angeles is now just a bit beyond Kansas City. Why should Florida be deprived of the advantages of this modernized device for annihilating distance?

It has been fairly well established that passenger service will be added to the present "Mail and Express Only" schedules flown from Chicago to Florida, but rumors supply a wide variety of the details of improved service. One day we learn that last year's branch line connection will be renewed with a much reduced stopover at Atlanta. The next day we hear that the faithful but outmoded Fords that have been displaced by Douglases in the service to the west coast will be flown in through service with several intermediate stops. Finally it is whispered that new Douglases will be available to make a determined drive for a share of the very substantial trafic that annually moves between Chicago and Florida.

A few observations might be timely: Branch line service to Atlanta never will appeal to the public as a standard route. A slow, tiresome schedule with intermediate stops at Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville, and Jacksonville will attract little more than emergency patronage. What Chicagoans will patronize in sufficient numbers to assure success from the start must be nothing less than th[illegible]

ule to Miami with a single stop at the important city of Atlanta. That southern metropolis will furnish an important source of trafic and can be used as a point of transfer to South Carolina and Georgia winter resorts. The demand exists and awaits the recognition of the enterprising airway.

FOR LOCAL OFFICES.

Reflection upon the experience of this community with local politics and government will convince the disinterested citizen that it is not desirable to have either party dominant in local politics. The interests of citizens and of the municipality are better safeguarded when there are members of both parties in office, as they will constitute a watch or check upon one another which will tend to raise the level of administration and often bring to public notice conditions the public ought to be informed upon more promptly than if one party organization had full control. In many instances this would prevent corrupt or incompetent administration from developing to a serious stage and corrections could be forced without a complete party overturn.

Municipal government does not often involve broad questions of policy affecting the whole range of administration and requiring comprehensive party control. So far as the two principal parties are concerned it does not involve the issues on which the national party organizations divide. Party solidarity in local government in fact often sacrifices local interests and sweeps out of office on irrelevant issues many officials who deserve reëlection and should be kept in office on grounds of competent administration. Citizens will readily recall how faithful and efficient judges or other officials have been swept out of office in national elections turning upon issues having no relation to municipal government.

We think these practical considerations should induce both Democrats and Republicans to vote split tickets in municipal politics, selecting their local officials not on the basis of federal party issues, which are usually irrelevant, but on the basis of personal fitness for the office sought. This is not an easy thing to do, but it is better than a blind following of party organization.

In this conviction THE TRIBUNE suggests certain acceptable candidates for local office, without implying criticism or condemnation of the candidates not recommended. It publishes today and will repeat tomorrow for the guidance of voters, regardless of party, specimen ballots marked to the best of THE TRIBUNE'S information and judgment. We certainly do not ascribe infallibility to our recommendations, but on the basis of available information think they deserve consideration by voters who wish to have as competent and honest administration of local government as may reasonably be expected.

MYSTERY IN TEXAS.

The Texas Weekly wonders why the Texas legislature has been summoned in extra session. Nothing, we are told, is under consideration which calls for immediate action.

Texas is a long way off, but a guess may be hazarded. At the last special session, a month or so ago, the enabling bill for the Colorado river project failed of passage. That bill was calculated to pave the way for a grant of $4,500,000 of federal easy money for the construction of the Buchanan dam. The grant was to include more than a million dollars as an outright gift.

It has been repeatedly asserted, and not denied, that the control of the property is to pass from the receiver for the Mississippi Valley company, an Insull subsidiary, to Ralph Morrison, a wealthy Texan who was an original supporter of Mr. Roosevelt and has remained on most intimate terms with many of the New Dealers. Mr. Morrison recently took Prof. Moley on a trip into Mexico. Prof. Moley was the original brain-truster. As assistant secretary of state he served with Mr. Morrison at the London economic conference. Now the professor edits the New Deal magazine owned by Vincent Astor, the multi-millionaire insider in the administration, who has frequently entertained the President on his yacht.

Mr. Morrison's ties with the Texas delegation in congress are as close as his ties with the New Deal. The half-completed Colorado river dam has been renamed for Mr. Buchanan, the chairman of the appropriations committee, who is a first rank power in Texas politics.

Knowing no more than has here been recited, any one could have predicted with considerable confidence that further efforts would be made to pass the Colorado river enabling act. The prediction is being fulfilled. What could be less mysterious?

Editorial of the Day

A TYPICAL MESS.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The practical wreckage of the Ann Arbor High school building by FERA methods of "helpfulness" is a good example of the general results of federal attempts to "aid recovery" under the New Deal.

It typifies the wreckage of the entire country that is going on under bungling and mismanaged ministrations from Washington.

In the beginning the Ann Arbor school was a serviceable building. Now it has been all but ruined for educational uses.

Besides this, the engineer who was first on the job, but couldn't stand the way things were done, says that if the work on the structure is continued as started the result will be a peril to the lives of pupils and teachers occupying it.

Meanwhile there is a prospect that the school will have to be closed, because in its present partly torn down condition heating will be a difficult matter after the cold weather really sets in.

Whether the attention of Administrator Hopkins has been called to this particular mess perpetrated by his outfit we do not know. But his general attitude does not indicate that it will give him any concern.

Mr. Hopkins' reaction when the general condition of FERA projects in Michigan was called to his attention was a statement that he would like to see the color of the hair of any man from any Michigan county which cannot afford to complete projects started under the FERA.

The manners of the administrator are deplorable and his ignorance of conditions in Michigan appears to be profound.

His subsequent statement that the municipalities, most of them desperately debt laden, should see to it that FERA projects are completed, suggests a callousness rather astonishing in the head of what is supposed to be an administration specially designed to be helpful to the country.

More serious than this is Mr. Hopkins' apparent lack of any sense of responsibility for injury inflicted and hardship produced by the outfit under his direction.

Yet as federal administrators go Mr. Hopkins is not supposed to be a bad fellow.

In a way the administrator is himself probably a victim of the confusion and incompetency that is bound to develop when an attempt is made to distend burocracy so that it can be operated as a nation wide paternalism.

The whole system is inexf[illegible]

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By R. L.

MR. INSULL'S SALARY at the time he was sitting on top of the world was five hundred thousand dollars a year. If the few kings that are left happen to find that out they'll trade their moth eaten thrones for a sack of peanuts and try to get a job with a public utility.

THE NEWS of Mr. Insull's half million dollar annual salary is going to have a bad effect on one and all of us for a while. We'll think about it and dream about it and mull it over in our minds and get all worked up, and then when we go around to the cashier's office and get our pay checks we'll look at 'em and figure the difference between our salary and what Sam got — well, there's many a cashier must have got an awful dirty look last week-end. If I had been a paymaster or a cashier who had the job of handing those things out I would have borrowed me a nose guard from some football player. Five hundred thousand dollars a year! Gosh! and gosh again! And when I was a boy I wanted to be President of the United States. Why, compared with Sam when he was going good, the President's salary is just small change, or chicken feed, as we quaintly call it. Five hundred thousand dollars a year! I feel like throwing a hundred dollar bill out of the window when I think about it! What's a hundred dollars compared to five hundred thousand berries a year? A hundred dollars seems so silly. And I'm that worked up I probably would throw the hundred dollar bill out of the window only I haven't got a hundred dollar bill.

CHANT FOR CIDER TANKARDS.

The north wind strums the poplars
Like strings strung long ago
Beside a strand where Homer hymned
The wine-dark waters' flow,

And when the autumn chill comes on
And hearths are set with fire—
Why, Alfred baked his cakes at one
And one lit Kaddar's lyre,

And English inns knew Chaucer,
Closed in against the cold,
And heard his heroes bragging
And good brave stories told.

Let green-sick poets yearn them
For April's misty days—
Sing high a song of Autumn
And hearths that bed a blaze,

Sing cider hot in copper,
Sing rafters dim with soot
And winds that strum the poplars
And dig at winter's root,

And we'll sit snug of laughter
And talk of great days gone
Down arches bright with Autumn
With winter drawing on.

NANCY SHORES.

NEWSPAPERS KEEP TALKING of some scandal or other that "is rocking the ultra-smart circles." I thought most of the real ultra-smarts were down to their last five million dollars. Which is too bad and doesn't take 'em out of the "smart circles," but it ought at least to crimp 'em in being classed as "ultra-smart."

A LADY down in Alabama has sued her husband for divorce on the grounds he hadn't kissed her for twenty-five years, and the gentleman comes right back with a cross bill in which he says she has always been addicted to eating onions and sometimes indulged very freely in garlic. The judge ought to give him a divorce, alimony, ten thousand dollars damages, a gold headed cane, a new suit of clothes, and ask him what he wants for Christmas.

AND NOW THAT our distinguished board of judges, Janet Fairbank, Fanny Butcher, and James O'Donnell Bennett, are sitting in judicial solemnity reading the introductions to the 1934 Linebook already submitted we can only say there is yet time, but you've got to hurry. If you want only your nom de guerre printed under your introduction (if it wins) say so, or if you wish to sign your full name that will be done (or "oke" as it is usually spoken these days), or both. Whatever you say. And then after the judges have decided on the winning contribution it will be rushed forthwith to Bob Stonesifer, who will put it lovingly and tenderly in type, and in due time it will appear in the inner cover of the Linebook of 1934. The judges won't tell who wins and Bob won't tell and we'll not say a word, and no one will know who has won the Great Prize Contest to End All Prize Contests until the Linebook of 1934 jumps right out on an expectant and excited world on Friday, the seventh day of December.

DIABETES AND CARBOHYDRATES.

No one should attempt a diet that varies from the normal without good and sufficient reason. Appetite is a fairly accurate guide, and appetite plus training [a study of one's food needs] may be relied upon to keep the body weight within normal limits, to supply an adequate amount of energy, and not to overload the digestive tract.

An average balanced diet consists by weight of 1 part protein, 1 part fat, and 4 parts carbohydrates. We may regard this as a rule that will hold good for 999 out of every 1,000 individuals.

Diabetes has been a knotty medical problem for centuries. It is a topic of growing concern in spite of the discovery of insulin by Banting and Best in 1922. According to Frederick L. Hoffman, the death rate from this disease has nearly doubled in the last 25 years.

In 1916 Elliott P. Joslin advocated the starvation treatment of diabetes. The patient received in 24 hours food that equaled only one-half the normal body requirement, and the carbohydrate portion was reduced to one-tenth of the amount usually included in a balanced ration. Proteins were also somewhat reduced, but the amount of fat remained at the normal level. On such a diet certain patients did very well; but acidosis had to be guarded against because of the relatively high fat ration.

With increasing knowledge it was found that the ratio between fat and carbohydrate should not be lower than one to two, and, as a result, physicians gradually increased the carbohydrates and lowered the fats.

Today there is fairly uniform agreement as to the importance of feeding more carbohydrates than was originally advocated by Joslin, and we now have the ratio, 1 part protein, 1.3 parts fat, 2.5 to 3 parts carbohydrates. The total calories should equal about two-thirds to three-fourths the body requirement. This diet includes bread and potatoes.

The advantages of such a diet are many. In the first place, it follows closely the normal or balanced ration and patients do not object to it on the ground of unpalatability. Food costs are lowered, and improvement in the efficiency of insulin is observed. Vitamins and minerals are adequate, and it reduces obesity without the danger of acidosis. The intake of insulin is usually markedly reduced and many patients taking 100 or more units per day get along comfortably on one-half that amount or less. Furthermore, the patients feel better.

It must be understood that diabetes is a personal, individual problem. A dietary plan that proves salutary in one case may be unsuccessful in another, hence a careful study of each case must be made. On the whole, however, physicians are learning that the closer they can approach the normal balance of foods, without the necessity of using insulin excessively, the more nearly normal will their patients function.

Many obese patients lose weight on the dietary plan outlined above. Although there has been a lowering of blood pressure in many cases, it has not been definitiy established that this diet has anything to do with retarding such diseases as hardening of the arteries.

In any diabetic diet accurate measurement and weighing of foods is imperative. It is true that as carbohydrates are increased more insulin may be required. When the diet is applied to children, in order that undernourishment may not complicate the picture, more fat may be added and even more carbohydrates at the expense of increasing the dose of insulin.

RUPTURE.

Mrs. F. C. writes:

1. I have a navel rupture. Will this be harmful in late years? It has not troubled me yet.
2. Would it have any effect in pregnancy?
3. Would you suggest seeing a physician?

REPLY.

1. It may.
2. The danger with hernia is that a loop of bowel may be caught in the opening and become "strangulated." When this occurs the circulation is interfered with and symptoms of bowel obstruction result.
3. Yes.

KNEE JOINTS CRACK.

J. M. D. writes: For about a year I have been troubled with a cracking sound in my knee joint. Whenever I get up to dance this sound continues for five or ten minutes. I do lots of walking.

REPLY.

Cracking noises in the joints are usually due to too little fluid [synovial fluid] that acts as nature's oil for the joints. The condition is sometimes due to arthritis. Heat is the best remedy and may be applied at night for an hour or more. The electric heating pad or hot water bottle can be used. You should drink plenty of fluids every day.

SUN IT AND WEAR IT.

E. R. S. writes: Is there any danger in wearing a fur coat which belonged to a person with tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Not if it has been thoroughly dry cleaned and sunned in the open air, inside and out, for several days.

NO EXAMINATION NOW.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please inform me when the next examination will take place for city policewomen? Also please advise when the last examination was held and if there is a list now on file. What are the qualifications? M. H.

Examination for policewoman is not scheduled at this time. We will be very glad to place the writer's name on our mailing list for notification of same when called. We have no existing eligible list for this position at this time.

At the time of examination applicants must be not less than 30 nor more than 45 years of age, not less than 5 feet nor more than 5 feet 9 inches in height [bare feet], weighing not less than 115 pounds nor more than 180 pounds, and with weight and measurements proportionate to height. Applicants must pass a medical examination and meet such physical standards and tests as shall be prescribed by the commission.

HOUSE PETS.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there any ordinance which prohibits people from deliberate killing of house pets? I had three cats which were shot by my neighbor [2] for no reason at all. The cats were shot by the neighbor's son on his premises. 3. I will greatly appreciate any information regarding what measures to take to avenge the killings. M. L. Z.

1. There is no specific ordinance limited to this subject matter, but, in general, such destruction of property is prevented by the principles of common law.
2. It seems probable that the cats were a nuisance.
3. It would be necessary for you to employ an attorney. We doubt if you will recover enough to pay for your trouble and expense. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INHERITANCE TAX.

Dixon, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does one have to pay inheritance tax on such things as silverware, diamonds, or household furniture that would be left to them? 2. About how much would the tax be on $500 in cash and $200 or $300 worth of the first mentioned stuff? G. J. R.

1. The Illinois inheritance tax depends on the degree of relationship to the deceased and the total amount received.
2. Depends on the degree of relationship. For example, the exemption for a child inheriting from a parent is $20,000 worth. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM.—Thousands of picturesque windmills in Holland, doomed to be gradually replaced by machine driven bread mills, will continue to dominate the Dutch landscape thanks to the invention of the Dutch engineer, Dekker, of Leyden.

With the advance of the machine age windmills became increasingly unprofitable because the old fashioned and time honored type of windmill was unable to operate unless a fairly strong wind was blowing, thus being unable to compete with their machine powered rivals. The number of Dutch windmills which were taken out of use or abolished became so great that ten years ago a special society for the preservation of windmills was founded under the chairmanship of Dr. van Tienhoven.

For many years the efforts of the society, called the Dutch Windmill, to halt the decline of Holland's windmills was in vain until Dekker constructed a new type of wing which sets the windmill going in even the faintest breeze. Dekker achieved this feat by giving the wings a streamlined shape and a metal coating, and by rounding off the corners.

So far, 110 windmills have been equipped with the new wings, with satisfactory results. It is expected that gradually all Dutch windmills—there are approximately 2,500 of them—will be equipped with new wings, thus making it possible to preserve one of the main characteristics of Dutch scenery.

In Holland windmills are also used for irrigation purposes.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

The expression "silly as a goose" has certainly not arisen from careful observation of a goose's habits. The goose is one of the most intelligent of all birds and has long been known for its quick ability to learn. In some parts of the world geese are kept instead of watch dogs to warn the family of intruders. To be told that you have "made a goose of yourself" really isn't so bad, after all.

FINANCING A 1935 FAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—I noticed the statement by Mayor Kelly that if $2,500,000 cold cash was raised the Fair might reopen in 1935. It has been reported that the Fair made a profit of $344,000 during its two years of operation, and $900,000 has been set aside for demolition purposes. That makes a total of $1,244,000 already on hand, with $1,256,000 yet to be raised. If every family in Chicago subscribed just one dollar to a World's Fair booster club, sponsored by some organization such as the Chicago Association of Commerce or the Chicago Real Estate board, there would be more than enough money to assure at least one more year of the Fair's benefits.

Chicago has great possibilities as a large amusement center, and with a permanent annual exposition on our lake front our position as the world's playground would be definitly assured.

Whatever we do, let's get busy before it is too late. The buildings are still available, but in a few short months they will be torn down unless some definite plan for their operation is decided upon. EDWIN A. LUCADO JR.

IN REPLY TO MR. HARRIS.

New York, Nov. 1.—I have just read in the New York papers that Sylvester Harris of Mississippi is coming to tell Chicago Negroes what's what.

My grandfather, as secretary of state of the United States, promulgated the Fifteenth amendment giving the Negroes the right to vote, and I am taking the opportunity to advise northern Negroes to beware of Greeks bearing gifts and southern Negroes advocating Democratic policies which include disfranchisement, Jim Crowism, peonage, lynch law, and discrimination against colored students, colored veterans, and colored office-holders.

The Negroes of Chicago owe it to themselves to inform Mr. Harris by their votes on election day that they cannot be fooled by southern propaganda or money, and that they know their own rights and will fight all the harder for them until all political injustices and inequalities are wiped out, even to the right to eat in the house restaurant.

The Negroes of Chicago should tell Mr. Harris that he would be serving his people better by staying home and fighting for a square deal in Mississippi rather than being used as a stalking horse for southern Democrats who desire above all else to defeat Oscar De Priest, the first Negro for fifty years to stand up in the congress for the rights of his people and to answer without fear or favor the Democratic representatives from the south. THE DEATH OF PULASKI.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—My hopes have at last been realized by THE TRIBUNE'S reproduction in color of the painting of the death of Pulaski at Savannah, Ga., where he gave his life for the cause of our freedom and liberty. That reproduction shall adorn a wall in my home from now on. F. A. OSUCH.

RELIEF IN ST. CLAIR COUNTY.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—At last St. Clair county admits it is unable to administer relief efficiently. Why? Simply because the officials in charge are trying to work a Chicago system in St. Clair county with a Missouri organization of spenders.

For some time past relief was administered fairly, promptly, and economically under the leadership of the "angels of St. Clair county's poor and unfortunates," Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Sheehan of East St. Louis, who worked day and night to relieve the suffering people.

At a recent conference of state and government relief officials Mr. Sheehan was commended for the manner in which he handled relief in the statement that relief was administered more efficiently and economically in St. Clair county than in any other place in the United States.

His services were donated, but despite all this he was ousted and in his place a woman from Missouri was engaged at a salary exceeding $200 per month, resulting in riots and general inefficiency.

As a further reward for his faithful services Mr. Sheehan was forced to resign from his civil service job as state food inspector by Gov. Horner and his "Man Friday," Congressman Schaefer, to make room for one of their spoils politicians.

HAYNES FOR MUNICIPAL JUDGE.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—I have just read your editorial in today's paper, "Haynes for Municipal Judge." Your kind and liberal reference to Lawyer William H. Haynes is well directed and opportune. From every point of view Mr. Haynes is qualified for the position as judge of the Municipal court, and because he is a colored man this information would probably occasion confusion and a lack of support. But Mr. Haynes, since his admission to the bar, has clearly demonstrated his ability as a clean and capable lawyer, and we especially of the group with which he is identified hope the voters will rise above race, color, and creed and give their support to a man who will certainly bring efficiency and dignity to the bench of Municipal judges. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has my personal thanks for this very fair-minded editorial.

A LANDLORD'S COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—I am unfortunately the owner of real estate in the colored section. I can only depend on tenants that the charities are paying for. They placed one tenant in particular at 521 East 37th place, paid the first month's rent and no more. After four months I had to go to court and sue for possession and after serving a writ of restitution under case No. 2619647 the charities called me up and offered to pay me one month's rent, beginning Oct. 25, if I retained him.

I consider it very unjust for the Emergency Relief commission to take advantage of this present depressed condition of the landlord. J. L.

New Dealers Dress Up Adopted Home.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—From a lacework of scaffolding on Washington monument to picks and shovels in spacious Rock Creek park, the nation's capital city gives evidence of the tender concern of New Dealers for their adopted home.

Throughout the District of Columbia the eye meets at regular intervals the white board legends announcing Public Works administration projects.

To date $50,469,342 of PWA easy money has been poured into the sixty square mile area on the banks of the Potomac, according to a compilation made public today by the department of the interior. This represents a per capita expenditure of $100 in the district, as against an estimated PWA capita expenditure for the country as a whole of $25 for a grand total of expenditures at over three billion dollars.

Bulk Granted Outright.

The bulk of Washington expenditures represent outright federal grants. These account for $37,988,098 of the fifty million dollar total. Other projects involving further expenditures are under consideration.

Two million dollars alone is going for the comfort of New Deal workers in an air conditioning project for federal offices. Half of this has been set aside by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, PWA chief, for his own office.

Mr. Ickes has allowed $10,000,000 for new buildings for his department and $845,700 for an additional story and new elevators for the department headquarters.

Still another project, one of $100,000, will save some of his army of workers a few seconds in coming to and leaving work. A flight of steps leading to the columned south entrance of the old patent building is to be torn down to remove a bottle neck in F street, an approach to the interior building.

$752,000 for Treasury Building.

Expenditure on other buildings for repairs and additions made necessary by the influx of 95,000 additional employés under the new administration range fom $752,000 for the treasury building to $3,610,000 for the archives building. The flood of documents from the alphabetical organizations of the New Deal, it was explained, has swamped the facilities of the present archives staf.

Throughout the city streets, parks, and buildings are dotted with workers engaged in beautification projects. These include minor building repairs and adjustments, landscaping, and road and street improvements.

LAUNCH SURVEY AS BASIS OF CITY RECREATION PLAN

A city-wide survey of recreational facilities, which is expected to provide the basis for a comprehensive Chicago recreation program and to show the relation between lack of play facilities and delinquency and crime, has been launched by Mayor Kelly's recreation commission.

A first report on the survey, to indicate possibilities for community recreation in Chicago public schools and properties controlled by the board of education, is expected to be complete within the next two weeks, said Prof. Arthur J. Todd, chairman of the recreation subcommittee conducting the survey and head of the department of sociology at Northwestern university.

"It is safe to say that this survey is the biggest and most extensive sociological investigation ever attempted in Chicago," Prof. Todd declared. "Our job is to provide facts on every type of recreation existing in the city—public, private, and commercial.

"At the same time we are studying the records of the Juvenile court to determine the delinquency existing in the various districts."

When the survey is completed it will be presented to Mayor Kelly's commission, headed by Philip L. Seman, director of the Jewish People's institute, for recommendations toward a unified play program for Chicago.

FAIR CONVENTION DELEGATES SPEND $102,558,983 HERE

A Century of Progress played host to 1,668,750 visitors who attended a total of 1,675 conventions during the summers of 1933 and 1934, according to a survey made by William J. Hennessy, manager of the convention bureau of the Chicago Association of Commerce. These guests of the city spent an aggregate of $102,558,983 for rooms, meals, tips, transportation, and entertainment, Mr. Hennessy estimated.

ROBLES SEEKS TO OUST PRESIDENT ZAMORA OF SPAIN

Two Leaders to Confer on Resignation.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Word from across the border to reliable Spanish sources here today said President Niceto Alcala Zamora would confer secretly at noon tomorrow with Jose Maria Gil Robles, rightist leader, to discuss the possibility of the president's resignation.

Spaniards here believed the entire course of the republic may be changed in the immediate future, or some days later.

Deals Kept Secret.

The entire negotiations are being kept as secret as possible, said word reaching here, because of possible consequences throughout the nation. The rightists and the army were said to be in complete control of the situation, however.

Pardons Revolt Leaders.

President Zamora was said to be influenced toward resignation by a division in the cabinet over death sentences imposed upon numerous leaders of the recent Catalonian revolt, and by the predicament of his son, Luis, who is to be tried by a court martial on charges which have not been made public.

It was learned the president has granted pardons to numerous revolt leaders. These were authorized over the strenuous objection of the rightist popular agrarian group, which Gil Robles heads. The division in the cabinet threatened to make the president's position precarious when congress reopens.

Hit Press Censorship.

MADRID, Nov. 4.—(AP)—After two days of bitter debate in the councils of their party, the Socialists decided today not to return to congress while press censorship of parliamentary discussions remains in force.

The Socialists maintained that "under the censorship it is impossible to permit the public to know the truth of the Asturias revolt."

The Socialists were the second relatively large congressional group to decide against reëntering the cortes until the censorship is lifted. A committee of the Union Republicana came to a similar decision today. This group has about twenty-two representatives.

DIES AFTER CRASH.

Tuscola, Ill., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Denton Benham, relief employé injured Monday when a truck overturned, died today.

STATE TO GUARD NAMES OF NEW T-N-T WITNESSES

Assistant State's Attorneys Donald Thompson and Robert L. Donigan spent yesterday afternoon preparing to introduce testimony today at the resumption of the conspiracy case involving the Trucking and Transportation exchange which in the days of its power was known as T-N-T. The names of future witnesses are not to be announced until they are called to the stand, the prosecutors said.

Contractors are to be asked to testify concerning alleged extortion demands of the organization which the prosecution charges was formed by hoodlums and a few labor leaders, including the slain William (Three Finger Jack) White and George (Red) Barker, both of whom had labor connections as well as being cogs in the Capone syndicate. The basis of the state's case is that T-N-T was formed for extortion only. Fifteen persons are on trial before Judge William V Brothers in the Criminal court.

The prosecution began Friday and the state announced that 200 witnesses would be called. The jury is not locked up, so, the prosecutors said, they want little or no discussion of the case outside the courtroom.

GRAND JURORS ATTACK POLICE OF KANSAS CITY

Richetti Arrival Marked by Indictments.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Charges of inefficiency were made against the police department of Kansas City by a federal grand jury today as Adam Richetti, accused trigger man in the Union station slayings, was returned from Ohio to face the government's questioners.

The grand jury, investigating the killings of two government agents, two detectives, and their prisoner at the Union station plaza here June 17, 1933, returned three indictments last night against police officials.

The jury's report to Judge Merrill E. Otis charged the police department "on the date of the massacre at the Union station in June of 1933, unquestionably was not as efficient or not as effective in the discharge of its duties as it should have been."

Richetti Closely Guarded.

Richetti, sole survivor of the gangland trio held responsible for the station machine gunnings, was brought into Kansas City today through the same Union station whose vaulted roof resounded to the fatal gunfire last year when five men were killed in an auto just outside. Federal, county, and city officers today held submachine guns, riot guns, and rifles ready to avert any possible recurrence of the notorious "massacre."

Richetti, manacled and in a straitjacket as he alighted from a Chicago train, was hurried to the Jackson county jail. He will appear tomorrow before the grand jury.

Richetti was captured near Wellsville, O., Oct. 20, after a shooting episode in which Charles A. "Pretty Boy" Floyd, escaped, only to meet his death at the hands of a posse of federal agents and police two days later.

Three Are Indicted.

Indicted on charges of perjury were E. C. Reppert, director of police at the time of the killings; Thomas J. Higgins, present chief of detectives, and Lieut. George Rayen.

The indictments against Reppert and the two police officials alleged they had given false testimony before the grand jury. Higgins and Rayen declined to comment. Reppert could not be reached.

Reppert was declared in the true bill to have stated to B. H. Thurman, then a sergeant of detectives, shortly after the slayings:

"This is not a police matter, hands off. Have nothing to do with it." The indictment was based on his denial of having said that.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item appearing in THE TRIBUNE on Oct. 30 said that airline passenger service on the Braniff line between four cities of the southwest, Oklahome City, Tulsa, Fort Worth, and Dallas, was being discontinued. T. E. Braniff, president of the lines, says this is erroneous. He states that although air transport of passengers is unprofitable, it is being continued because the lines felt a responsibility to the public, although the contract with the postoffice department does not obligate the continuance of the passenger run.

REFORESTATION WORK STUDIED IN NEW YORK

Cherry Valley, N. Y., Nov. 4.—(AP)—At the end of the fifth year of its $20,000,000 reforestation program, New York state now plans to measure the benefit of having millions of new trees under cultivation.

Experimental "baby forests" which the state began planting when President Roosevelt was governor are beginning to grow up. Some trees in the Cherry Valley plantation are six feet tall.

A system of state-federal stream gauging stations is being built in an attempt to determine whether young forests have begun to check floods and prevent drouths. Manned by experts from the United States geological survey, they will be ready for the spring freshets next year.

Arthur S. Hopkins, assistant director of lands and forests, said today: "We hope to find soon that in the new wooded areas streams are running more evenly, land is being worn away less rapidly, and farmers do not have to dig so deep for wells.

"Game should begin returning to these lands and fish to the streams. The public will find new regions for recreation."

INAUDIBLE SOUND NOW TO MEASURE SHALLOW WATER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A sound so shrill that it cannot be heard, yet that measures the depth of shallow water almost as accurately as a foot rule, is science's newest aid to sailors and navigators.

The coast and geodetic survey told today about the new device, called the "shoal fathometer." It is an adaptation and improvement of the deep-water fathometer, used by the coast survey in charting coastal waters and by ships generally for about nine years.

The shoal fathometer, like the deep-water type, measures depth by measuring the time taken for a sound to travel from a ship's keel to the sea bottom and to echo back to the ship again.

FEW ENCOUNTER DIFFICULTY OVER '35 AUTO PLATES

State Refuses to Mail to Vacation Address.

Except for parting from the money, this annual task of applying for a state automobile license sounds simple because blank forms are available and all the car owner has to do is to fill in the spaces over the dotted lines. But John Gillespie, head of THE TRIBUNE's public service offices at Dearborn and Madison streets, reports that many persons are having difficulties.

Chicagoans who are going south for the winter wish their 1935 plates mailed to them in Florida or in California.

"They'll have to arrange with someone, perhaps the postoffice, to forward the plates to the south," said Stanley R. Kosinski, chief clerk in the Chicago office of Secretary of State Hughes. "The only address we will use is the residence or office of the applicant."

This is due to the fact that some hoodlums this year got plates under fictitious names, giving the secretary of state the street address of a garage, or having the plates delivered to general delivery.

Others having trouble with their 1935 applications are those who have lost their 1934 identification cards. The old card is required in applying for the new. Mr. Kosinski advised the losers to write to Springfield immediately for a duplicate 1934 card.

KING OF ITALY REVIEWS 25,000 TROOPS IN AFRICA

MOGADISHU, Italian Somaliland, Nov. 4.—(AP)—King Victor Emmanuel of Italy reviewed 25,000 Italian and Somaliland troops today, marching in celebration of Italy's Armistice day.

The king, here on a visit to look over Italy's possessions in Africa and to inspect the colony's defenses, also visited the ancient mosque at Giama.

Duce at Military Mass.

ROME, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini and Crown Prince Humbert attended a military mass in celebration of Armistice day at the Church of St. Mary of the Angeles, where Il Duce paid homage at the tomb of Marshal Diaz, leader of Italy's army in the world war.

BURLAP CLAD HOLDUP VICTIM REPORTS LOSS

Warren Leccei, 6536 Eberhart avenue, still wishes he had been carrying some money last night when he was held up by a colored bandit at 63d street and Champlain avenue.

"I've got to have something," said the bandit after Leccei had admitted his lack of money, "so you better step into this alley.

There the victim was forced to shed his overcoat, his shoes, and his suit. Clad in a gunny sack, Leccei reported the robbery to the Woodlawn police. A policeman loaned him garments to wear home.

Believe Slain Woman May Have Been Robber's Victim

The possibility that Miss Anna Henneman, 38 years old, who was found dead on the stairs of her home at 1749 Hastings street with her throat cut Saturday night, was slain by a robber with a knife was suggested last night by detectives from the Marquette station. An empty purse, found by the woman's body, is the basis for the theory.

Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Eli Bates Board Opens Yuletide Sales Thursday

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson Lends Home for Event.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN the Eli Bates board announces its annual holiday sales for the benefit of that very worthy settlement at 621 West Elm street, can Christmas be far behind? Assuredly no, for these sellings are always one of the most anticipated precursors of Christmas giving and merriment.

On Thursday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 5:30 in the afternoon all of the lovely things that the foreign women make in the settlement workshop will be spread out in tempting array in the home of Mrs. Donald F. McPherson at 644 Pine lane, Winnetka. The following week there will be a similar selling in town at the handsome home of Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen at 1430 Astor street.

Linens, Laces, Lingerie and Other Oddments.

Linens and laces, lingerie, and all sorts of small oddments that are necessary to a household and more pleasing when they are attractive will be offered in the sales. In their workmanship they reflect the inborn ability of the foreign women to do fine needlework. These women need the assistance that the sales give them especially this year since many of their husbands have lost their jobs of recent months.

On the Eli Bates shop committee which plans the sales there are, besides Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, Mrs. James B. Forgan, Mrs. Morris K. Wilson, and Mrs. John H. Hamline. Assisting Mrs. McPherson with the arrangements for the Winnetka sale are Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. James L. Houghteling, a member of the Eli Bates board.

At noon on Thursday Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Wilson, and Mrs. Houghteling will entertain at luncheon for the 62 north shore women who are to serve as assistants at the sale.

Charity Campaign to Be Planned at Teas.

Glancing over the calendar for the next fortnight, it is hard to find a charity that is not hard at work to raise funds to help tide the needy over the winter months. Many of these plans will be discussed this week at late afternoon teas.

Today at the tea hour Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is entertaining 40 Red Cross roll call workers who have the responsibility of obtaining renewals of subscriptions made last year by residents of the near north side. Miss Margot Austin is chairman of these workers, who include Miss Barbara Bastien, Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman, Mrs. William L. Graham Jr., Mrs. Theophilus Noel II., Miss Dorothy Ranney, Mrs. Edward Byron Smith, Mrs. Denis E. Sullivan Jr., Miss Honore White, and Miss Jane Valentine.

Near by Mrs. Cudahy's this afternoon, at the old Potter Palmer mansion, another group of charity minded women will be having tea. There is to be an auction at the Palmer house next Monday of antique and modern furnishings for the benefit of the Children's Memorial and St. Luke's hospitals. Mrs. Frank Hibbard as chairman of the sale will be hostess this afternoon at the tea with Mrs. John W. Gary and Mrs. Joseph H. King.

Passavant Board to Plan Benefit.

Mrs. Francis Johnson has asked members of the press to meet with the board of Passavant hospital for tea at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at her apartment at 1430 Lake Shore drive. At this time the newest plans for the Passavant benefit—the first night of Max Reinhardt's presentation of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" Nov. 15 at the Auditorium—will be discussed.

Also tomorrow, at 3:30, the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids are having a tea at the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind, which they so energetically help to support. Miss Betty Brawley will be making her first appearance as the new president of the Aids and the prospective members, mostly debutantes, will be special guests. The Lighthouse is at 3322 West Cermak road.

With the coöperation of the Evanston Junior league, the 1935 campaign of the Evanston Community chest is opening in gala fashion Wednesday evening at the Evanston Country club. Ballyhoo Ball Chairman

MRS. WILLIAM FULLER GREGSON is quite as smart in planning the details of a party as she appears in this picture. This means that the annual Ballyhoo ball of the Beverly Hills Center of Infant Welfare, to be held next Saturday evening in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel, will be a major success, for she is the general chairman. On this party the fate of a thousand babies at the Cornell Square Station of Infant Welfare depends, Mrs. Wilton R. Blend, president of the center, explains.

WHEN money was being raised, with much difficulty, for A Century of Progress, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, stopping in New York on his way home from London, said to the late Dwight Morrow:

Gentlewoman— "I wish you would take some Quandary— World's Fair bonds."
Salesman— And Mr. Morrow answered:
Opera. "All right, Charlie, I'll take Patrons. $100,000 worth."

A week later Maj. Lenox Lohr went to New York with contracts for Mr. Morrow's purchase of the bonds. He made an appointment with Mr. Morrow to see him at 11 o'clock in the morning at his home. When he called to see him the secretary said Mr. Morrow had overslept. Maj. Lohr waited an hour and a half, during which time the secretary apologized several times for Mr. Morrow's late slumber. Finally, showing considerable agitation, he said that Mr. Morrow was indisposed and suggested that Maj. Lohr return the following day. When Maj. Lohr reached New York City from the New Jersey home of the Morrows he read the announcement of Mr. Morrow's death in the newspapers. He resigned himself to the loss of Mr. Morrow's pledge and went home. A few weeks later he received a check for $100,000 from Mrs. Morrow, to whom Mr. Morrow had mentioned his intention.

IRENE BEASLEY, this year's "radio queen," knows a girl who is soon to be married and who was browsing about in a loop department store with a friend who was anxious to find out what she would like for a wedding present. The girl friend called her attention to one small object after another.

"But," objected the bride-to-be, "I don't like do-dads."

"Then what," puzzled the girl friend, "are you going to put in your bookcase?"

MRS. BARTHOLOMAY OSBORNE, chairman of the opera box committee, went into a shoe store the other day to buy a pair of walking shoes.

"Wouldn't you like to look at our evening slippers?" asked the salesman persuasively, when she had made her selection. "You know the opera is opening next Saturday. It's going to be a marvelous season. Cheaper than usual, too, and some of the finest singers."

Mrs. Osborne was so impressed she bought some slippers she didn't need and hurried out with new enthusiasm for selling boxes.

AN interesting comparison between singers that Chicago opera lovers have an opportunity to make this season is that of Lawrence Tibbett's Boris Goudonoff with that of Chaliapin's. Tibbett sings the rôle in English with the Chicago Grand Opera company Dec. 18, with Bentonelli singing the tenor rôle, and Chaliapin sings it in January. Tibbett has a double task the night he sings Boris with the opera, for he has a forty-five minute broadcast earlier that same evening, leaving him just enough time to get from the broadcasting studio to the opera and into his costume.

JOE A. CALLAWAY of the Old Globe theater staf at the late Century of Progress was pretty much overcome when people used to come to the theater and inquire, "When does the feature start?" but he got a worse shock when a woman, looking at the program for the Dr. Faustus performance which had in parenthesis beside the title of the play ("Marlowe"), commented, "I didn't know Julia Marlowe was in this company."

The final shock occurred, however, the evening that Christopher Morley came to see the performances. He stayed for three the same evening and word got about that the author of "Thunder on the Left" and "Where the Blue Begins" was in the audience. One of the plays being presented was Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus," and one patron commented to her companion that it was nice that the author was there to see his play.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Sixty years old, but still much alive, especially in the enchantment of its music, "Die Fledermaus" of John Strauss, waltz king of bygone Vienna, was revived in the Civic Opera house last night by a German-American operetta company. The event was the annual production for charitable purposes by the Germania Broadcast, and it was attended by an audience which filled the neglected temple that Mr. Insull built to its capacity.

This work is the source of many favorite selections by German café orchestras—the lilting, dancing numbers that go so pleasantly with a stein of Munich beer or a glass of Rhenish wine and cause you to say, "I wonder what the title of that piece is?" To make it an overflowing cup of Straussiana, the director interpolated a ballet that seemed like an anthology of the old master's waltz hits.

"Die Fledermaus," in its original form, has been theatrically inactive for years because of the decay of the light opera repertory companies. Two adaptations, however, have figured in recent stage records. One of them was "One Wonderful Night," seen here about four years ago, equipped with a revolving stage and all the glitter of a new Broadway show. The other, also a handsome affair, was "Champagne Sec," which New York kept to itself.

The cast for last night's revival was an assembly of operetta singers of reputation on the German-American stage. They gave an able performance, especially in the vocal department. In the treatment of the humorous situations in the plot of Viennese whoopee and mixed identities, they were somewhat mild, but they sang like skilled professionals of the opera houses.

Ilse Marvenga, in the soubrette rôle, was the bright spirit of the "Fledermaus" story. You do not need to be a German-American playgoer to know who this gay and winsome singing girl is, for she was the first Kathie in "The Student Prince," and she was starred two or three years ago in a revival of "Naughty Marietta."

George Trabert, as the prankish married man addicted to masquerading at parties as a bat, and Mme. Miga March-Fiechtl, wearing the traditional tights as Prince Orlofsky, were also prominent "guest" members of the cast. The latter is a recent arrival from the German stage. Mme. Lucie Westen, Chicago prima donna, was the deceived and deceiving wife. Settings out of the Civic Opera storehouse dressed the stage handsomely.

Mundelein Blesses New Auditorium at St. Mary's Seminary

The new auditorium of the Seminary of St. Mary of the Lake, final unit of the $10,000,000 seminary project at Mundelein, in central Lake county, was blessed yesterday by Cardinal Mundelein in a ceremony open to the public and attended by several Catholic dignitaries. Afterward the churchmen present were guests of the school at a concert in the auditorium.

The auditorium architecture is colonial in accordance with the style of other seminary buildings. It seats 840 persons, and is equipped with two motion picture projectors. It will be used largely for the entertainment of seminary students, it was said. The seminary project was started in 1920.

Critic Praises Pianist, Soprano, Both Youthful

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Yesterday afternoon's recital situation was in the hands of the young, but not too young. It was rather youth that has studied to good effect and is within sight of a definite goal. Virginia Knapp gave a piano recital at Kimball hall; Lois Wallner, soprano, a song recital at the Studebaker theater.

Miss Knapp displayed the kind of ability that can make the hearer forget the crabbedness of Brahm's Sonata in F minor and remember its musical values. This became a question of good, firm touch, well developed technic, some of the best pedaling heard in a long time, and what seemed an intelligent enthusiasm for the piece.

The Bach-Liszt Fantaisie and Fugue in A minor was another work on the program, as was the Chopin Ballade in F minor, the best of the four, a long group from Niemann's Hamburg Suite, and various others. She would seem to have a future.

Miss Wallner is the possessor of a high, clear, and true soprano voice that is sufficiently flexible to create favorable results with such arias as the waltz song from "Romeo and Juliet" and the insanity scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor." She sang Bach, lieder and modern songs in a manner showing that she has studied them carefully and appreciates their verbal and musical meanings. Chicago was represented by Phyllis Fergus' "Trees" in a later part of her program.

New Flannel Hostess Gowns Give Stunning Silhouettes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Very decorative flannel hostess gowns made with trains, stunning long sleeves, and a silhouette that equals anything you ever found in a glamorous evening gown are the most exciting new arrivals in town.

You'll surely like these models. You can have them in a soft shade of salmon pink, in a lovely shade of pale green, or powder blue. Satin in a harmonizing tone is used for trimming the deep flaring cuffs, the belt sash, and the demure bow at the high neckline. They are unbelievably smart and of course the warmest, coziest "woolies" available.

It's also the right time to shop for velvet teagowns. Flattering new color combinations and colors are more than plentiful. Some of the best finds are the duets of matching robe and nightgown. If you have a yen for blue, you'll fall heavily for a softly crinkled velvet of an especially good blue shade, the blue out of an old French print. The nightgown is long with a short sweep of the train and the robe that matches it in color is made with long well fitted sleeves, a neckline that can be worn high or low and a long corded belt with fringe.

Another twosome of the same effectiveness is of cherry red, while a breath takingly beautiful white velvet duet is ready for the lady preparing to say "I do." Another negligee of white velvet has huge shoulder sleeves of snowy white marabou, so large the two look like a cape from the side.

Besides all the lovely white numbers there are some beautiful pastels, such as shell pink and turquoise blue, some trimmed with marabou, others with simulated chinchilla cuffs, and others simply tailored.

Fashion photograph . . . long sleeved tunic blouse of gleaming gold metallic over a slim satin skirt of dark brown. The interesting silhouette of the long peplum of the blouse is achieved with deep slits and a stitched brown belt that disappears at the front and back waistline. Available in a Chicago shop.

Fill St. James' for Climax of Its Centennial

Leaders Join Episcopalians in Celebration.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A throng, including many civic, business, and social leaders, which filled the historic edifice to its nooks and corners yesterday, paid tribute to the first 100 years of St. James' Episcopal church, Wabash avenue and [illegible] street, and bade Godspeed for the church's journey into its second century.

Yesterday's services brought the church's centennial celebration to a climax as well as to an impressive close. Under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, the rector, and Joseph T. Ryerson, chairman of the centennial committee, a celebration program covering several months was developed. Historic ties of the parish of St. James' with the city's life as well as with eastern points were brought into clear relief as the program moved forward.

The final day of the celebration yesterday was marked by a sermon by Bishop George Craig Stewart at the morning service and by a vesper festival of music rendered by four of the greater choirs of the vicinity late in the afternoon. Bishop Stewart pointed in the morning to St. James' history as proof that nothing is impossible of achievement if faith be strong. He cited H. G. Wells as an outstanding example of lack of faith, referring to the recent publication of the Wells autobiography. Bishop Stewart appealed to the congregation for continued support of the church's missionary activities. The bishop formally opened the celebration of the centennial with a sermon on June 3.

When the long processional moved through the spacious ailes of St. James' for the vespers it included the vestry of the church, led by the senior warden, Joseph T. Ryerson; Mayor Kelly, President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, Prof. Edgar J. Goodspeed of the University of Chicago, President Gordon Keith Chalmers of Rockford college, Col. George C. Marshall of the United States army, Commander J. K. Ester of the navy, Lewis Bernays, British consul general in Chicago; President John Timothy Stone of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, Rabbi Louis L. Mann of Sinai congregation, Dr. Horace Bridges, the Rev. Theodore C. Hume of New England Congregational church, and others.

The four choirs to render the centennial religious musical included St. James', St. Chrysostom's, St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, and the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest. Featured in the music were modernistic compositions of Dr. David McK. Williams, organist and choirmaster of St. Bartholomew's church, New York, who delivered an address.

Dr. Williams pleaded that church music should be turned over to the modernist, adding that as modernism is always the inspiration of progress there need be no fear of the result of such action. He paid tribute to Leo Sowerby, organist of St. James', saying that the Chicago organist and composer will be recognized in musical history for his creative genius.

The centenary of Chicago's oldest Episcopal church drew congratulatory messages from President Roosevelt, the Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church, and President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Brierley, who is serving a twenty year sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The Canadian solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Rhoda meets Jack Caermaen. Stornack follows.

INSTALMENT XIII.

A CIRCUS TRICK.

"You can't go on stalling for—twenty years," said Jack, "because that's what it will be, Rhoda, if we can't find any means of getting fresh evidence."

"O—is there any hope, Jack?."

"Nothing to catch hold of at present. But we're keeping our eyes open—some of us. The question is, what are you going to do?"

"I don't know. I can't go on much longer, of course. I shall have to leave home—run away to London and train for a job. Colin didn't like the idea when I suggested it to him—but he didn't know how things would be. He gave me four hundred pounds—O, I've got a check for you for the hundred you kindly lent us!"

"You only owe me sixty—for Colin had left the rest on my table. You didn't exactly paint the town red, did you! If you like I'll hold the forty against emergencies. Now let's think about this plan of your getting a job. You've got three hundred. Say a hundred and fifty for maintenance for a year and fifty for training. Leaves a hundred in reserve. In a year you'd be trained for a job as typist-secretary."

"I'd love it! I must be independent. But I'm wondering what to tell Colin in my next letter. He had all sorts of objections against my going alone to London."

"Quite right!" He was silent while she was pouring out tea. "But I think I can fix it so that you're not alone in London. When I was in the R. A. F., I had a batman who was a very good chap—he's got a small job now in a warehouse and he married a very decent little woman. They would be glad to have you lodge with them and they'd know how to look after you. And if Colin knew you were where I had put you he wouldn't be worried."

To escape from the inevitable fight, he leaped over the table.

"O, Jack, that would be lovely!"

"I should have to prepare the ground," said Caermaen. "I shall tell Rawlings—that's the batman's name—all the facts that matter. And I'll tell him he must hide you from your mother. We'll give you the name of 'Mrs. Smith.' I'll tell him it's a fake name and he'll enter into the spirit of the thing. . . . But I can't do that in a letter. I'll get them both to come up for a week-end as my guests at Mardlehurst."

He took out pen and paper and calculated his circuit of duty.

"It'll be another month before I shall get a free Sunday. Do you think you could hang out that long?"

"O, easily! Maj. Stornack won't bother me too much. And I can stand mother's nagging for another month."

"Good! Stand by for a move in five or six weeks from now. Look here, I don't want to seem ungallant, but there's a train back in twenty minutes. Hadn't you better catch it?"

"Yes, I will," she said, rising. "As a matter of fact, there's never any row now but the one row. Mother keeps telling me that Maj. Stornack is my last chance."

"Bad for the nerves. What about telling her the truth?"

"Never! She'd be spiteful about it, Jack, and she'd take care to ruin you. Nothing shall ever drag out of me what you've done for us. You can count on that always."

Stornack saw them come together out of the café, saw them part at the garage near the station. He nipped back into his car and turned just in time to see Caermaen chugging out of the garage on his motorcycle. Then he settled down to trail the motorcycle.

At No. 19, Harmoddle Villas, Mardlehurst, Jack Caermaen put the cycle in the shed, then entered the house that was his temporary home.

He had just finished washing when there came a knock on the door. He opened it to a well dressed man.

"Good evening! What can I do for you?"

"My name is Stornack. May I come in for a minute?"

Stornack! Caermaen hesitated just long enough to give the other the advantage of knowing that he was ill at ease.

He let Stornack follow him into the little living room wondering what on earth could be the significance of the visit.

He shut the door and faced his visitor.

"Well?"

"I think you could throw some light—if you cared to do so—on Miss Cornboise's whereabouts during the week when she was suffering from a lapse of memory."

"Miss Cornboise!" echoed Caermaen and decided to try a bluff. "Sounds a nice name. Who is she?"

"She's the lady you met in that café in Manchester this afternoon."

Caermaen contemplated a further denial, but Stornack saved him the trouble.

"Please don't pretend you don't know her name. I heard you say good-by to each other at the garage and it was obvious that you knew each other very well. I think you know that I am her fiancé. I want to know if you can tell me——"

"I can tell you nothing except that I shall be very glad when you have gone."

"I am sorry you take that tone. I asked you a perfectly civil question."

"It was damned uncivil to ask me. You should ask Miss Cornboise."

"My dear fellow, let us be practical. I am not inquiring into my fiancée's past, as I am not revealing to her my own. I am concerned with the future. I want some kind of assurance that the affair is at an end."

"There's no affair."

Stornack looked the other over with concentrated insolence.

"O, come! You don't look the kind of man who would want to share a woman and——"

The motor accident that had barred Capt. Caermaen from further service in the R. A. F. had not spoilt his punch. He swung over a useful right, but Stornack easily dodged it.

Now physical cowardice was no part of Stornack's weakness. In normal circumstances he would never have declined combat. But on this occasion he was particularly anxious not to be marked. Caermaen had forced him near the wall, was aiming a second blow when Stornack slipped the blow, then, to escape from the now inevitable fight, he astounded Caermaen by leaping over the table and landing securely on his feet on the other side.

"What a damned circus trick!" cried Caermaen in amazement. "You don't seem to want a mixup—then get out."

Stornack shrugged his shoulders and walked out of the cottage, carefully noting the number.

After Stornack had gone, Caermaen found himself strangely excited.

"Damned circus trick!" he repeated. But there was no apparent reason why he should be excited about it—until suddenly the reason flashed up.

Counsel for the prosecution proved in court that if poor Colin was not the one who had knifed Simpson—it must have been done by a man who leaped over the table and leaped back again—which, said counsel, was absurd.

Absurd!

Caermaen stared hard at his own table—then found a foot rule and measured it.

Personalities Vary with Gown and Coiffure

Fashions Allow Women Many Roles.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One gathers from the current trend of things that when John makes a date with his Adrienne he isn't going to be sure that it is his Adrienne who is going to greet him when he gets to her home. For a moment, anyway, he is going to be permitted the illusion that it's Carole Lombard with whom he's going stepping, or Loretta Young, or Anna Sten. Or, if Adrienne feels in a facetious mood, she may get herself up to look like Zasu Pitts, rabbity, waving hands and all.

A double truck page of one girl, in a half dozen different guises in one of the magazines, suggests the possibility of John's confusion on his dated evenings.

More to our interest, however, is the personality change that a coiffure, a frock, a pose can lend. It is in this personality change we think we see milady's trend. Not that we expect nor think it a smart policy either to have women aping stars as a general business, because many of them have their own, just as interesting, personalities to put across. Anyway, a good imitation of oneself is always more pictorial than a poor imitation of another.

The possibilities for which we would suggest looking would be those that lie in the clothes, as this year, particularly, presents them. Fashion allows a woman to be pretty nearly all things to all men this year. That is, she can run the gamut from her hardy perennial tailored morning outfit, to her romantic medieval robe de style of the late evening. She can be smart in the morning, tres chic in her cocktail outfit, and she can be devilishly intriguing in the evening things. In between hours she may be the gay little house dress wearer or the elaborate hostess gown occupant. She can have many rôles herself, so that she doesn't need to adopt other women's rôles.

With makeup, coiffure, and frock she can convert herself into what she wants to be. And, I say, the trend is to vary the coiffure much more than we have known it heretofore. The idea is to vary it with the type dress worn. You'll hear more about this from now on I'm sure.

Renaissance Fashion Revue.

The Renaissance will have a benefit fashion revue and card party at 1:30 o'clock today at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Mrs. Joseph E. Noble is the chairman.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We've been hearing about the "cellophane" manicure finish and got around to it just the other day. A clever operator in a Michigan avenue salon originated it—and it really is lovely. It's your favorite shade of polish, applied in the usual manner, but over it is a coat of silver. The effect is luminous and as smooth and subtly shiny as cellophane. Grand for great occasions when you want to be your feminine best.

It's most effective over one of the deeper shades, naturally, because the deep reds are attention-getters, but it's not lacking in appeal when the polish is a conservative pale pink. It's different and thoroughly in keeping with the fashions. Everywhere you look you see metal cloth; your nails will have to glisten as well as your gown.

Speaking of nails, may we remind you that the artificial ones have their virtues? For naturally stubby-nailed women or those whose finger tips always look a little scrubby, what with breakage and peeling, those false ones are a great help. You can't beat a typewriter with them, or do the family washing, but we saw some the other day that had been on for two weeks. The real nail below was growing and the cuticle was in good shape. If the natural nails are really ugly, why not invest in an artificial set if you've a heavy engagement? They do look nifty.

And pop into a Michigan avenue cosmetic section to look at a new cologne, face powder, and bath powder that just arrived. The gold packages are swanky and the scent is glorious. It's one of those mysterious fragrances; you don't quite know what it is, but you adore it and the longer you live with it the better you like it.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Swanson are spending the week-end as guests of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Frederick J. Horn at their summer place in the Blue Ridge mountains. Mrs. Swanson has organized a navy Red Cross unit which will hold its first meeting this week.

The secretary of commerce, Daniel C. Roper, entertained a company at dinner last evening in his home on Woodland drive. The guests were the chiefs of bureaus of the department of commerce.

The Argentine ambassador and Senora de Espil, nee Letts, of Chicago, entertained a small company at dinner tonight in the embassy, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Butler, who are in Washington for a short visit. Mr. Butler is curator of the international labor office in Geneva, Switzerland, and with Mrs. Butler is making his first visit in this country for fifteen years.

The fourth Chicago Tribune School of Cookery opens tomorrow. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, in co-operation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune cooking editor, will conduct the sessions. The schedule is as follows:

South Side—Trianon ballroom, Nov. 6, 7, 8, and 9.

West Side—Guyon's Paradise ballroom, Nov. 13, 14, 15, and 16.

North Side—Aragon ballroom, Nov. 20, 21, 22, and 23.

All schools will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

Have you been using those extra edible parts of meat, such as heart, liver, brain, and kidneys to make the meat dollar stretch a little farther and to add variety to the meat? Try it often, for not only may they be made into attractive and palatable main dishes, but they contain an extra quota of vitamins and minerals, as well as high quality protein—great things from the nutrition standpoint.

Pork Liver, Country Style.

4 slices salt pork
½ pound sliced liver
1 tablespoon flour
Salt
Pepper
Cornmeal.

Pour boiling water over the liver and let it stand five minutes. Drain and wipe it dry. Fry the salt pork until golden brown and remove to a platter to keep warm. Roll the liver in the cornmeal and fry in the pork drippings until nicely browned. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Remove to the platter. Add the flour to fat in the pan and add enough milk to make a gravy. Season this and pour it over the fried liver.

Stuffed Lamb's Liver.

1 lamb's liver
1½ cups bread crums
1 small onion
½ green pepper
3 tablespoons fat
Salt
Water
1½ cups stewed tomatoes.

Have a pocket cut in the liver at the market. Wash it well and dry it. Make a stuffing of the other ingredients, except the tomatoes, and fill the pocket. Cover the liver with strips of bacon. Put it on a rack in a pan with a little water and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes. Add tomatoes and bake 15 minutes longer.

Deviled Kidneys.

1 pork kidney or 4 lamb kidneys
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon onion, minced
1 tablespoon parsley, minced
1 teaspoon flour
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Water, salt, and pepper.

Remove the tubes and fat from the kidneys, discarding the waste parts. Cut the kidneys in pieces lengthwise. Cover them with cold water containing 1 teaspoon salt for each quart of water. Let this stand for 30 minutes. Drain, rinse the kidneys, and brown them in the fat over a low fire, turning frequently to prevent burning. While the kidneys are cooking add the onion and parsley. When the kidneys are done—about 20 minutes—remove them from the pan. Mix the mustard and flour to a paste in ½ cup of water. Stir this into the frying pan. Salt and pepper to taste and cook 5 minutes more. Pour sauce over kidneys.

Calf's Brain Fritters.

Let 2 fresh calf's brains stand for 20 minutes in cold salted water. Drain, cover with boiling water, and parboil slowly for 12 to 15 minutes, together with salt, a bay leaf, and a stalk of celery. Drain and remove all fiber and skin. Break each brain into about five pieces. Roll these in chopped chives and Worcestershire sauce and dip in fritter batter. Fry in deep lard until brown. Serve with tomato sauce and carrots and peas.

Stewed Hearts in Rice Border.

2 pork or veal hearts
2 tablespoons diced onion
2 tablespoons diced carrots
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice

Wash the hearts thoroughly in cold water, removing all tough fibers and veins. Cut the meat into small dice and cover with cold water for 15 minutes. Drain and cover with boiling water. Add the onions and carrots. Cover and simmer gently until the hearts are tender, about 2 hours. Add more water if necessary during the cooking. When the meat is done, add salt, pepper, and the flour smoothed in the fat. Boil 5 minutes, then add the lemon juice or vinegar. Place the diced mixture in the center of a rice ring. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and paprika just before serving.

Play That Develops a Child Is a Serious Business to Him

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"O, that's mere child's play!" is an expression we grownups often use, almost with contempt, for any undertaking that requires no effort of mind or muscle.

It's odd that such an expression should ever have sprung into being. I doubt if the adults of today would ever have felt such an analogy. It must date back to those times when no activity was important that wasn't obviously useful—when the struggle for food, clothing, and shelter was the matter of chief concern in a simpler world.

Or it may date back not quite so far—to a time when the nature of children was less understood than it is today, and their childish activities thought of as a waste of time.

For—any one who watches children can see that, almost from their babyhood, play is a serious business to them, often taxing their powers to the utmost. The vigor and concentration, the perseverance and patience that they show prove it to be the serious business of their lives. Of course I'm not referring now to the games and rollicking together that we call play but to the children's concern with their blocks and sand piles and trains and construction sets and playthings and craft materials in general that goes under the same name.

Play means to most of us freedom from work, gayety, entertaining, or amusing occupation. The dictionary defines play as: action without special aim or for amusement; opposed to work or earnest. Sometimes I think we should have another name for those important, businesslike, developing, and actually necessary activities of children which go by the name of play.

and niece. Mrs. Leiter closed her great brown house in Banks street this fall and is planning to spend all of the winter season in Washington in the handsome home where she and her husband did so much brilliant entertaining before Mr. Leiter's death. Although Nancy, who has just come of age, had a party during the summer at her mother's house at Beverly, Mass., and although this party will be in large part hers, she is not a debutante of the season. Instead she is taking another year at Westover and anticipating a "coming out" season next year.

Society Folk to Attend Revue Opening Tonight.

At theater time tonight several hundred society folk will be entering the Grand Opera house for the opening performance of the revue "As Thousands Cheer." One of the largest parties will be that of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, who are entertaining for Miss Caryl Ely, one of the season's debutantes. The Ryersons are having their 40 guests for dinner at the Casino before the theater.

The Junior Friends of Art will have a harvest festival of the fine arts tomorrow afternoon at the Blackstone that will be a very interesting occasion, we are certain, judging by the list of those who will contribute to the program. Edward Collins will give a group of original piano compositions; Mrs. Edward Moore will give a short résumé of "Four Saints in Three Acts"; Miss Elsa Hottinger, prima donna, will sing a group of modern songs, accompanied by Miss Violet Martens; Quinn O'Brien will talk about "America's Contribution to the Fine Arts in 1934"; Mrs. Nancy Cox-McCormack will talk on "Modern Sculpture"; Lloyd Lewis will discuss the new play he wrote in collaboration with Sinclair Lewis, "The Jayhawker," and Mme. Marie Sidenius Zendt will conclude the program with a group of modern songs.

The Arts club has sent out cards inviting its members to tea from 4 to 6 Friday for the opening of its exhibition season and to meet Louis Marcoussis, whose original etchings, with paintings by Sir Francis Rose, are to be the first works exhibited this winter. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed is president of the club.

Lord and Lady Tennyson Pause Here on Way West.

Lord Lionel Hallam Tennyson and Lady Tennyson paused in Chicago yesterday while enroute to Burlingame, Cal., where they will spend the winter. Arriving in the morning, they spent the day receiving friends at the Drake hotel and after dinner departed on the San Francisco Overland of the Chicago & North Western railroad.

Lord Tennyson, a grandson of the famous poet laureate of England, and Lady Tennyson, the former Mrs. Joseph W. Donner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting of Chicago, were married last April 14 in Montecito, Cal. Following their marriage they went to Lord Tennyson's estate at Farningford, Freshwater, Isle of Wight, where they spent the summer. They will be joined in California by the Howard Eltings.

Mrs. Edward Curtis Barnes of Damariscotta, Me., formerly of Kenilworth, has returned to visit her sister, Mrs. Marshall Lloyd Doty, in her Bannockburn home for a month. All of her old friends are entertaining for her. Mrs. Barnes will speak before the Bannockburn Garden club today.

The Parents' association of the Francis W. Parker school will hold its opening meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. Christopher Morley will speak on "Golden Florins." Following the talk there will be a reception for the new principal, Raymond W. Osborne, and the new faculty members.

The Dante Alleghieri society will hold its monthly meeting at the Lake Shore Athletic club tonight. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

MINIMUM RAISES IN PARTNER'S SUIT.

I have still a few more remarks to make about these unfortunate split responding hands where you have four trumps in support of the opening bid, but exactly three cards in each off suit, so that your trumps are useless for ruffing. If you have enough high card values to keep the bidding open, bid a no trump instead of raising the suit, unless your even distribution is compensated by primary values. Yesterday I said that if my partner bid a spade, I would need as good a split hand as

Sp.—K x x x Di.—A Q 10
Ht.—x x x Cl.—x x x

to bid two spades instead of one no trump. With no high trump, I would need approximately

Sp.—x x x x Di.—A Q x
Ht.—K J x Cl.—x x x to raise with the 4-3-3-3 pattern. Weaken the former hand to

Sp.—K x x x Di.—A J x
Ht.—x x x Cl.—x x x

and I would respond with a no trump, not two spades. I am now making it harder for my partner to rebid his hand; if he is, nevertheless, able to do so in the desired manner, I will bid again because I could have bid no trump with considerably less in my hand. If his rebid is not helpful because it merely reveals duplication in spades I will pass. To illustrate: the bidding having been one spade by partner, one no trump by me on the above hand:

1. If my partner bids two no trumps, a very strong invitation rebid, I will bid three spades, hoping that this will enable him to bid three no trumps or four spades.

2. If he bids two spades, I will pass. Our spades are a duplication; what we need are values in the heart and club suits. Having these, my partner would have bid two no trumps or two in a fresh suit.

3. If he bids two hearts or two clubs, I will bid three spades, telling him that new light has been shed on our hands, and that he must go for game in spades or no trumps. I now know that we have three suits under control, so that game should at worst be dependent on a finesse. Two spades would be a dangerous underbid; opener would rightly read it as merely showing a preference for his first suit, and would have to pass, in view of my weak first round response, unless very strong.

4. If he bid two diamonds over my one no trump response, I would similarly bid three spades. If my partner next bid three no trumps, I would not let him play it because I now know that he has a two suiter with a distribution calling for suit play and that he would not have bid three no trumps had he known of my strong diamond support. Four spades would be my bid over three no trumps, the latter being a negative response to my belated forcing jump raise in spades.

A Different Category.

My point is to make sure that you understand that a split hand with four trumps belongs in the weakest group of responding hands—those on which one bids a no trump in reply to the opening bid—even with values which would make it a pretty good supporting hand if it included a doubleton. If there is really a game in the twenty-six cards of the partnership it is unearthed by the later bidding. Having made it hard for your partner to bid anything but two in his original suit—a rebid which virtually denies game possibilities—you take drastic action if after all he can make any of the bids which show the outside values or the uneven distribution which can overcome the handicaps of the responding hand's useless distribution. You, as responder with the above hand, do not hold the key to the partnership destiny until you have heard the opener's rebid. His second installment—lacking one, he passes the no trump—tells you whether to subside or to force for a game contract.

Inference and Guidance.

This reasoning suggests a deft comparison with the raise to two spades, previously explained, on

Sp—A Q x Di.—x x x x
Ht.—x x x Cl.—x x x

With this hand you disregard its useless distribution because your partner is known to have five spades and, to justify an opening bid, two and a half to three primary tricks outside his spades. Plainly his bidding will be cramped if he is left in doubt as to the usefulness of his patchy spade suit. By immediately informing him of spade support you enable him to bid boldly on his other values. Yours was a message which had to be delivered early; you knew that you had vital information to give, though unable to add anything to it later, no matter what the opener might do next. You had to bid your partner's hand for him on your first response, whereas with the hands previously discussed you had to lie low and only bid his hand for him when he had given you any one of several key responses.

3,000 Celebrate Anniversary of Luther's Bible

Three thousand Lutherans gathered yesterday afternoon at Moody Memorial church, 1609 North La Salle street, to participate in a service commemorating the 400th anniversary of Martin Luther's translation of the Bible.

Six national synods of American Lutheranism joined forces for the service. They are the Missouri synod, the American Lutheran church, the Augustana synod, the Norwegian Lutheran church, the Danish Lutheran church, and the United Lutheran Church of America.

The principal address was that of the Rev. Ernest F. Philblad, president of Bethany college, Lindsborg, Kas., who spoke on "The Bible Translated in 1534 the Only Hope for 1934." Music was supplied by the Chicago Lutheran a capella choir.

HOW "NATURAL IODINE"
Often Adds 15 to 20 Pounds in Few Weeks—Thousands Delighted

For years, science has known of the tremendous importance of NATURAL IODINE in the daily diet. Never before, however, has a natural substance richer in NATURAL IODINE and in needed body minerals been available in such convenient concentrated form as Kelp-A-Malt.

1,300 times richer in NATURAL IODINE than oysters, Kelp-A-Malt by regulating internal glands promotes assimilation—the process by which the body converts food materials into firm, solid flesh, new strength and energy.

Kelp-A-Malt, too, offers practically every other needed mineral so essential in keeping healthy and active the digestive glands which produces the juices needed to digest fats and starches—the weight making elements in the daily diet.

Try Kelp-A-Malt for a week. You will be delighted with the results. Costs but little at all.

Good Morning!

This is a diverting enough little picture whose special claims to interest are the facts that it features the late Russ Columbo and is consistently well acted.

The story isn't much. Another "backstage" affair relative to the adventures of three vaudeville musketeers, or, rather, two musketeers and one musketeeress, who get lots of breaks, all of them bad, until they land in Hollywood.

Here, of course, the crooning and romantic looking Russ is immediately appreciated by those whose favor counts. Soon fortune perches on the shoulders of all three.

Mr. Columbo acted easily and sang several numbers melodiously. "Too Beautiful for Words" is the main song.

Roger Pryor as the trio's manager gives a neat characterization. Nothing's too much for Charley to do for a friend! He'll walk a tightrope high over a city street or sacrifice his gal to his pal. . . .

June Knight makes a pretty, gallant and tuneful musketeeress.

Audiences will, I'm sure, enjoy those fine character players, Henry Armetta and Catherine Doucet. I know they made me laugh.

Many of the situations are trite. Some are silly. But "Wake Up and Dream" stacks up, on the whole, as a clean, enjoyable little movie.

Flutter Wheel.

The original nine patch, which had no name but served as a fundamental pattern for so many beautiful pieced blocks, again is responsible for the creation of the beautiful "Flutter Wheel." They found it thrillingly different than any they had ever seen before . . . amazingly softer and finer . . . so much finer that it actually changes the texture of the skin, making it naturally tempting and soft instead of leaving it with the usual powdered look. They were startled, too, with their discovery that TATTOO FACE POWDER clings to skin just as the name implies . . . and we promise you that when you put it on before the party, your complexion will still be exciting to the touch long after the music has ceased . . . and the exotic scent of TATTOO lasts just as long!

THREE BIG TEN TEAMS MAY GET CLAIM ON TITLE

They Are Minnesota, Illinois, Purdue.

Indiana	0	2	1	0	54
Wisconsin	0	2	0	0	21
Michigan	0	3	0	6	68

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Three teams, Minnesota, Illinois, and Purdue, now remain undefeated in the current race for Western conference football honors. It is quite likely that all will have a claim to the championship when the season concludes three weeks hence.

Minnesota and Illinois have won all their games this fall while Purdue, losing to Rice institute and Notre Dame, has been eliminated from sectional consideration. But the Boilermakers' conference schedule, which now includes only Iowa and Indiana, offers easier approach to Big Ten honors than the pathway in front of Minnesota and Illinois.

Didn't Want Easy Schedule.

Purdue apparently will finish with four conference victories. That Purdue's schedule is more favorable [now that Chicago has been beaten] and consists of only four games is no fault of the Boilermakers, who, when the 1934 program was drawn up two years ago, practically begged for a fifth game but received no consideration from universities in larger metropolitan centers which placed attendance first and football performance second.

Illinois faces Northwestern, Wisconsin, and Chicago. Granting that the Illini can defeat the first two, the Maroons, by virtue of spectacular attack last Saturday when they lost to Purdue, 26 to 20, may be the final barrier Illinois can not clear. Last year Chicago outplayed Illinois but lost by one touchdown. Illinois' claim to greatness this season rests on its 14 to 13 victory over Ohio State, conqueror of Colgate, and the 7 to 0 victory over Army Saturday.

Eight for Gophers?

Minnesota should finish with eight victories. Indiana, Chicago, and Wisconsin remain. North Dakota Aggies, Nebraska, Pittsburgh, Iowa, and Michigan have been beaten. Probably none will question that, barring unexpected reversal in remaining games, the Gophers have the greatest team in the last decade of Big Ten history, an eleven which rates consideration for national honors.

Minnesota possesses all around ability. There's nothing that the Gophers can't do. And not only can they run, plunge, pass, and kick with more than average success, but they have replacements for every position. After Harry Kipke, Michigan coach, had seen his team overwhelmed, 34 to 0, Saturday at Minneapolis he unreservedly said that Minnesota had the greatest football team he ever had seen. Moreover, he added that the Minnesota second eleven probably could win all its conference games.

Great Blocking, Tackling.

Foundation of Minnesota's superlative play is splendid blocking and expert tackling. Pittsburgh has been the only eleven to break through the Gophers' defense consistently, but Pitt couldn't punch through for a touchdown in four tries from the 6 yard line and finally succumbed to two brilliant Minnesota assaults, 13 to 7.

An idea of Minnesota's defense may be gained from the record against Michigan. The Wolverines showed only 60 yards net from scrimmage and two trick plays, a fake place kick for 9 yards' gain and a fake punt which resulted in 30 yards' gain, comprised more than half of this distance.

Minnesota did not weaken its secondary to furnish strength for this marvelous line defense. Minnesota depended on a 6-2-2-1 defense; that is, six men in the line supported by a box secondary defense with a safety man back at all times to protect against kicks and long passes. Against this secondary Michigan completed only two passes for a total gain of 8 yards.

Ohio Next for Maroons.

Purdue's victory over Chicago was not unexpected but the size of the score, 26 to 20, and Chicago's brilliant offensive play, even better than Maroon adherents probably had expected, featured the best battle of Saturday's Big Ten schedule. The game also was exceptional because of expert play despite the handicap of rain. Chicago's first half rally, after trailing, 13 to 0, will rank with any feat of other Maroon elevens.

Chicago now prepares for Ohio State while Purdue advances on Iowa City to meet the Hawkeyes, who could do no more than play a scoreless tie with Indiana last Saturday. Indeed, Indiana had the better scoring opportunities and might very easily have tripped up Iowa with a bit more luck.

Wildcats Quit Cellar.

Northwestern escaped the conference cellar Saturday by defeating Wisconsin, 7 to 0. A re-made North-

PIRATES CRACK LIONS' PERFECT DEFENSE RECORD

But Detroit Overwhelms Pittsburgh, 40 to 7.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Stung by the first score made against them in eight straight games, the powerful and hard blocking Detroit Lions today routed the visiting Pittsburgh Pirates, 40 to 7, in a National Professional Football league game. It was Detroit's eighth victory in as many starts.

A 22 yard pass to Skladany from Vaughan gave the Pirates the first score of the game and the only one made against Detroit this season. Skladany, former all-American from Pittsburgh, made a great catch and raced 40 yards to score, being tackled as he slid over the goal line.

Detroit Line Holds.

That was the only time Pittsburgh had the ball in Detroit territory. The great Lion forward wall, with Johnson playing a spectacular game at tackle, never let Heller or the other Pirate backs get loose. Pittsburgh made only four first downs during the entire game to 12 for Detroit. Skladany starred for the invaders, playing a great defensive game.

Ernie Caddel, former Leland Stanford star, scored three touchdowns. Frank Christensen, Clark, and Ebding scored the others; with Clark place kicking one extra point and drop kicking two others and Presnell, who relieved Clark, converting another point.

Lineups:

PACKERS WIN, 10 TO 0

Boston, Mass., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A driving rain ruined most of the Green Bay passing attack today, but the Packers splashed along to a 10 to 0 victory over the Boston Redskins before 18,000.

Anold [Flash] Herber was able to complete only two of his eight passes, but one of them, a 15 yard toss to La Vern Dilweg, in the Boston end zone, brought a touchdown late in the third period.

Earlier Clarke Hinkle put the Packers ahead with a placement field goal from Boston's 41 yard line. The heavy, slippery ball sailed over the cross bar with 10 yards to spare. The lineups:

GREEN BAY [10].		BOSTON [0].

TURNING 6 POINTS INTO 7—A NEAT TRICK, EH?

Right over the bar! That's the usual thing when Jack Manders is called in to kick the point after touchdown for the Chicago Bears, and here is Jack (No. 10) doing his stuff after the Bears had scored their first touchdown against the New York Giants yesterday afternoon at Wrigley field. That made the score 7-0, and the Bears later increased it to 27-7. Players whose numbers are visible are, left to right: Nagurski of Bears (3), Brumbaugh of Bears (holding ball for Manders), Manders (10), Bo Molenda of Giants (23), Len Grant of Giants (3), Kopcha, Bears (29); Hank Reese, Giants (55); Mel Hein, Giants (7), and Jules Carlson, Bears (20). 65,000 Tokio Fans See Ruth Nine Win, 17-1

TOKIO, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, America's retiring home run champion, is still baseball's king in Japan. The magnet of the name that has thrilled a generation of Americans packed 65,000 excited Japanese into Meiji Shrine stadium today to watch the Babe and his major league teammates rout the Tokio club All-Stars, 17 to 1.

Although the New York Yankee outfielder, who has announced his retirement as a player, made the crowd roar with practice drives into the stand, he failed to contribute a homer in the game. The Babe singled once, walked three times, grounded out twice, scored twice, drove in one run and heaved a wild throw from the outfield.

Japanese Pitchers Wild.

Jittery because of the prestige of the invading Americans, the Japanese team was badly off form and disappointed the home crowd. Wildness of the pitchers and wobbly infield work permitted Connie Mack's stars to score double the runs they actually earned.

Even so it was a titantic assignment for the three amateur Japanese hurlers to face in order such a murderers' row as Charlie Gehringer, Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, and Earl Averill. The Nipponese pitchers walked 11 and hit two batsmen. They whiffed Foxx twice.

Like Detroit, Eh, Judge?

The Americans, accustomed to the rabid enthusiasm of the throngs that packed National and American league fields, were as impressed by the courtesy and orderliness of the great Japanese crowd as Tokio's diamond fandom was delighted with the talented aggregation Mack brought to Japan.

Mack, veteran manager of Philadelphia's Athletics, said he wished "Judge Landis, Bill Harridge, and John Heydler, who have the development of baseball at heart, could have seen how the great Japanese crowd was handled, how well behaved it was, and how efficiently the game was conducted."

The game was opened with ceremonies akin to those that start a world series. Marquis Nobutsune Okuma, president of the Japan Baseball league, pitched the first ball with Mack in the catcher's box. Ambassador and Mrs. Joseph C. Grew were there to cheer their United States countrymen to victory.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ADD MODERN MIRACLES.

Each Monday eve the coaches count
The toll of broken men,
The fractures and contusions mount
To eight or nine or ten.
The captain's leg is snapped in twain,
The quarter's twisted spine
Will never be the same again.
Three bulwarks of the line
Are helpless wrecks. "All I can say,"
The coach moans through his tears,
"Is that our fate, come Saturday,
Will be the worst in years."
Comes Saturday: The breaks are healed,
The bruises are no more—
The erstwhile cripples take the field
And pile up points galore.

Wake Mail Box.

Wake: Orchids to Coach Solem of Iowa for not putting the already partially disabled Capt. Fisher in the lineup for those murderous Gophers to lay their hands on Saturday week. Witnessing the treatment they gave Ozie Simmons, colored star, after they knew he had been badly injured impels the thought. It was worse treatment than Simmons received at Evanston, where even Northwestern's student section booed Purple players for their roughness. Minnesota is a power house, probably the best eleven in the country. It's too bad the Gophers are not sportsmen as well. No football player should be singled out for intentional injury just because of his race or color. Clinton [Ia.] Fan.

The name of Dean—Dizzy and Daffy—is not new to our nation's athletics. Joe and Jimmy, leading physicians and surgeons at Madison, Wis., were two of Wisconsin's greatest football players, ends in the days at Madison when you had to be great to be called great. Had they been playing in the recent Purdue game those long Boilermaker runs never would have happened. Wisconsin.

Ye shades of Eckersall, Heston, Steffen, Ikey Karel, Avery Brundage, et al. They may laugh at our old photos with our turtle-neck sweaters, buttonholed chrysanthemums, gridiron haircuts—but by all the pigskin gods, football then was war, he-man stuff. No prancing backs and fancy pass throwers, no adagio dancers, then, to tip off lether lung rooters when it might be decorously proper to let go a hell-ripping yell. Darius Dust.

Football Speculation.

Public interest in football is causing commercialized speculation. For years there have been friendly hat pools and forecasting contests. Now gambling syndicates are capitalizing this interest as a business. In Chicago is a concern which sells tickets for 10 cents each somewhat similar to the baseball pools, with prizes for high aggregate scores and low aggregate scores.

A Cleveland outfit over whose payoff there was an argument at Ann Arbor lays direct odds against the guesser. Naming eight of the most even games of the day, it offers 10 to 1 you cannot pick 4 winners out of any 4 you name, 20 to 1 against 5, 40 to 1 against 6, 60 to 1 against 7, and 100 to 1 against all 8. Ties go for the house as losers for the picker.

After the Georgia Tech game at Ann Arbor recently the local agent used up the syndicate bank roll on hand and had to send to headquarters for $90 more to finish the payoff. That indicates somewhat wide patronage, as student wagers usually are two bits and half a dollar, sometimes a dollar plunge.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Three forward passes, hurled into the face of the New York Giants, supposedly the masters in this style of attack, gave the Chicago Bears three touchdowns and their margin of victory in a National Professional Football league game at Wrigley field yesterday. The final score was 27 to 7, and the Giants, although they completed 13 of 25 aerial attempts, got their points on Harry Newman's running rather than his accurate tosses.

The victory left the Bears, undefeated in eight consecutive league games, tied for the lead with the Detroit Lions. Champions of the league by virtue of their victory over the same Giants last fall, the Bears eliminated all doubt about the outcome of yesterday's contest on the fourth play of the game when Quarter Back Carl Brumbaugh passed 43 yards to Bill Karr, an end, for a touchdown. Five minutes later the Bears scored again.

N. Y. Attack Clicks Once.

New York's attack, equal to that of the Bears as a provider of thrills for the 23,200 spectators, worked with perfection and smoothness until it reached the scoring zone. Then it found itself bottled up on all but two occasions, one mid-way in the fourth period, when the Giants marched 84 yards to score, and the other in the second period when an 86 yard march from the one yard line terminated with Molesworth intercepting Newman's 13 yard pass for a touchback.

The Giants piled up a total of 312 yards against 307 for the Bears, and accomplished 17 first downs, as compared to the Bears' 11. Newman's eleven completed passes in 22 attempts gained 133 yards. Outside of proving an annoyance to the Bear defense, these completions were of little worth. The Giants' one touchdown drive contained two short completed passes, but the score was directly the result of Newman's runs of 21 and 22 yards around end and two Bear penalities, which carried the ball down to the three yard line from where Newman went over.

First One Is Easy.

New York received the opening kickoff and punted back on the second down. Feathers returned the kick 21 yards to the Giants' 49 yard line. Nagurski made six yards on the first play and on the second Brumbaugh, noting the Giants' 3-2-1 defense playing in too close, sent Karr straight down the field. Karr sprinted by Newman and took Brumbaugh's pass for a touchdown. Jack Manders then replaced Ronzani and gave the Bears a seven point lead.

Newman opened up with passes after the ensuing kickoff. One of his tosses intended for Strong was intercepted by Brumbaugh on the Giants' 41 yard line. Feathers and Manders made a first down in two plays. Feathers crashed off left tackle for 21 yards to the six yard line. From here it was just a matter of Nagurski, Lyman, and Hewitt, and in two plays, the full back went over with Hewitt and Lyman sweeping away the right Mount Carmel's big second quarter, during which three touchdowns were scored, yesterday enabled the leaders in the east section of the Catholic High School league to rout St. Philip, 24 to 0, at Soldiers' field. The contest, a charity game for the Sisters of Mercy fund, attracted 30,000 spectators.

Johnny Pietraszewski, Mount Carmel's driving full back, started things in the second period when he threw a 35 yard pass to Lynn, who took it on the St. Philip ten yard line and continued on over the goal. Mount Carmel then battered its way down the field to the one yard line, and Pietraszewski dove through the St. Philip defense for the second touchdown.

With less than two minutes of the half remaining, Pietraszewski intercepted a pass, reversed his field and swept 45 yards for the third score of the period. Mount Carmel again counted in the fourth quarter, Dockery passing 20 yards to Post. The latter finished up with a 40 yard dash to the goal line.

St. Mel achieved a point after touchdown victory over Fenwick, 14 to 13, at Mills stadium yesterday before a crowd of 7,000. The triumph enabled St. Mel to take the west section lead. Prior to the game each team had won three games.

Fenwick stepped away to a first quarter lead when Norris pounded through the St. Mel forwards from the one yard line. Norris missed the kick for the extra point. In the third period Ding Duff caught a lateral pass thrown by Palm and continued ten yards to the goal. Palm kicked the point.

Palm passed twenty yards to Burke for the second St. Mel score in the fourth quarter. Duff made good the extra point with a place kick. Norris scored again for Fenwick a few moments later, twice crossing the width of the field before finally speeding into the end zone from fifteen yards out. He then kicked goal to complete the scoring.

St. Rita held St. George of Evanston in check throughout and scored twice to register a 12 to 0 victory at Evanston. Bill O'Keefe, on a triple lateral pass play, raced 25 yards for the first touchdown in the third quarter.

Several minutes later St. Rita again obtained possession of the ball and drove to the St. George two yard line. Edwin Johnson plunged over for the score. St. George threatened but once, in the second period, when they advanced to their opponent's 19 yard line. Two passes were knocked down and two plunges were stopped and the ball went to St. Rita.

His first came after a complicated lateral pass, and in the fourth quarter he cracked over tackle from the four yard line.

De La Salle scored when Clair passed 35 yards to Elward in the second period. De Paul's other touchdowns were made by Taylor, who raced 95 yards after intercepting a pass, and Lipinski on a short tackle drive.

Mallards Fly Into Illinois River Country

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lacon, Ill., Nov. 4.—Mallard ducks from Ontario, Saskatchewan, and other points on the Canadian prairies have "registered" down here in the upper Illinois river country. There are thousands of them parading up and down the bayous, marshes and sloughs, along with many more thousands of pintails and a few fast flying green winged teal.

We have just spent about seven hours in a big slough below the town of Lacon, which now thinks only in terms of ducks, shotgun shells, and bag limits. From our grass blind we watched the waterfowl flocks moving back and forth across the Illinois, heard the constant boom of shotguns echoing against the brown hills, and occasionally joined in the bombardment to drop a circling mallard in the marsh near us.

Good Duck Country.

This is not our first trip to the duck shooting country around Lacon which annually lures hundreds of Chicagoans into action.

But on no previous trip into the upper Illinois have we seen a heavier concentration of birds than that which started flying around sunrise yesterday morning and continued their aerial parade until close to 2 o'clock.

Singles and doubles have been dipping into the marsh. Small flocks of 10 to 25 have been circling all decoys with a cautious, wary manner, and at times we have been able to look across the yellow brown marsh to the hills rising on the west bank when flocks numbering several thousand birds were in the air. The birds are here in large numbers and sportsmen are swarming into small towns along the upper river hoping to bag their limits of corn fed mallards.

Although yesterday a strong wind whistled through our well ventilated blind, and rain beat down against us for several hours, the continuous flights of mallards and pintails over the marsh did not give us a chance to think about such things as whether our lunch was getting soaked or our shells were getting wet.

Hour after hour thousands of birds, startled by the sudden barrage of hundreds of guns which have been stilled since last Sunday, thrilled us by moving through a dark, rainsoaked sky. It was a grand show while it lasted. Before we left the blind at 3 o'clock in the afternoon in company with our shooting partner, Lyman Barr of Highland Park, Ill., we had fastened in the game carrier a mixed bag consisting of mallards, one pintail, a green winged teal, and even two jacksnipe, both dropped by Barr, some by virtue of fast shooting with his 16 gauge.

Don't Delay, Hunters.

If Chicago sportsmen are waiting to go hunting "after a flight is down," their waiting is over. There are many thousands of pintails and mallards on deck.

C.Y.O. Boxing Tourney Will Be Resumed

Eighty boys who are considered the most skilled and experienced in the C. Y. O. and who were exempted from competing in the sectional preliminaries during the last two weeks will engage in tournament action for the first time tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday nights, when the quarter-final bouts of the fourth annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament are to be held at the C. Y. O. center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. Approximately 200 boys, including the survivors of the west, south, and north side preliminaries, will compete.

These 80 veteran fighters, whose records during the last year prompted the C. Y. O. boxing committee to grade them as champion class contenders, are highly regarded by Packy McFarland, tournament director and state athletic commissioner.

Form Special Class.

"Their brilliant showing in parish boxing shows sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization the year round and also at the C. Y. O. center gymnasium warant our grading these boys in a special class," Packy explained in releasing the list of 80 names yesterday. "They really are too good to have begun fighting in the sectional preliminaries against less experienced boys, but from now on they'll have plenty of fighting on their hands as they battle their way through the quarter-finals and semi-finals!"

Quarter-Finals Tomorrow.

The quarter-final matches will be run off tomorrow, Wednesday, and Thursday nights, with the winners returning for the semi-final bouts on Nov. 14 and 15, also at the C. Y. O. center gymnasium.

TWO PRO CARDS OFFERED BOXING FANS TONIGHT

Wiater Meets Griffin at Marigold Gardens.

The only professional boxing shows scheduled this week will be presented tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, and Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue.

Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, will clash with Corn Griffin, Fort Benning, Ga., in the eight round main bout at Marigold. The windup attraction at the Midway will bring together Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., and Jack Charvez, Oklahoma City, Okla., for eight rounds.

Wiater will be making his first appearance since he lost a 10 round battle to Joe Louis of Detroit at Arcadia Gardens several weeks ago. Griffin is expected to prove one of his strongest opponents and may serve to reëstablish him as a coming heavyweight leader.

Mickey Beal, promising north side 122 pound fighter, should receive a severe test in a six round semi-final with Dave Barry of Springfield, Ill. Preliminary engagements:

Milt Aaron vs. Frank Keevil [4], 140; Sammy Guidara vs. Willie Dudiak [4], 124; Don Smith vs. Jack Lazar [4], 140; Clarence Smith vs. Ralph Garibaldi [wrestling].

Charvez will be making his first local appearance against Zale at the Midway. The Indian has an impressive record and the hard hitting Zale may be in for a hard assignment. A six round scrap between Jack Gibbons, St. Paul, and Bob O'Signac, Benton Harbor, will be at 160 pounds. Another encounter at this distance matches George Van Der Hayden of the Catholic Youth organization and Tod Kelly. They are junior lightweights. Four round bouts will bring into action Jackie Dallas and Eddie Jackson and Jack Mooney and Les Schultz.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight contender, who opened drills Saturday, will start sparring Wednesday for a 10 round combat against Art Lasky, Minneapolis, Minn., at Chicago Stadium Nov. 23. Lasky is due from Los Angeles late this week. . . . Bob La Monte, former C. Y. O. welterweight champion, has accepted a top line match with Billy Celebron of Rockford at Rockford Nov. 23.

Davey Day, west side lightweight, has been forced to take a 10 days' layoff to give a bruised right hand, injured during his winning encounter with Frank Sagilio Friday, a chance to heal. . . . Matchmaker Mickey Farr announced yesterday that an offer to meet Day for 25 per cent of the gate receipts at the Stadium, probably in December, will be dispatched to Tony Canzoneri. . . . If the offer is not accepted negotiations will be opened with Frank Klick, junior lightweight title holder, Bobby Pacho, Los Angeles, and Tony Herrera, El Paso, Tex., for the match with Day.

Barney Ross, 135 pound and 140 pound champion, will return from Waukesha, Wis., tonight to begin preparations tomorrow for pending bouts. . . . Jimmy Cummings, Golden Gloves graduate, has resumed drills after being out of action for two months because of ill health. . . . He has had his tonsils removed.

Sixteen local shows attracted approximately 19,156 during October, a checkup reveals. Gross receipts amounted to $18,897. Attendance and receipts at the various clubs show:

Coliseum—Two shows drew 2,880; receipts, $4,371.

N. U. CONFIDENCE IS STRENGTHENED FOR ILLINI GAME

Back Field Combination Works Smoothly.

Confidence born of last Saturday's victory over Wisconsin will spur Northwestern's football team in its preparation for the homecoming game with Illinois at Dyche stadium Saturday.

After three weeks of experimentation, Coach Dick Hanley finally hit upon a combination Saturday that satisfied him. So well did the back field quartet of Freddy Lind, Steve Toth, Wally Cruice and Hugh Duval function against the Badgers that not a substitution was made during the entire game. This group will be kept intact against Illinois.

Line Is Efficient.

The line, with two new tackles and a guard included in its personnel, presented a close knit organization that effectively bottled up Wisconsin's running game. These new men, Wray and Gibson, tackles, and Reid, guard, demonstrated that they are ready for regular duty. Reid may give way to Capt. Al Kawal this week-end as it appears likely that the Wildcat leader will be sufficiently recovered from injuries to take his place in the lineup after an absence of two weeks.

Resume Drill Tomorrow.

Practice for regulars and reserves alike will be called off today. Tomorrow the team will resume drill.

For the first time since the start of the season the Wildcats will have their full strength ready to play Saturday. Trainer Carl Erickson announced that Kawal, Hayskar, and Geyer will be able to resume practice early this week.

ILLINI PLAN FOR N. U.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—On to Northwestern was the battle cry at Illinois today as Bob Zuppke and his Illini, happy over repulsing a strong Army team, looked to the game with the Wildcats.

The largest throng in years is expected to follow Illinois to Evanston. Director A. A. Harding will lead the Illinois band of 175 pieces to the Northwestern stadium for its only trip of the year to a Big Ten field. The Army game closed the local season, so enthusiasts plan to travel to the north shore by special trains and automobiles.

Illinois may use plays at Evanston which could not be used against Michigan and Army on account of weather conditions.

The Illini came out of the Army game in excellent condition. Chuck Galbreath, tackle, who left the game with a charleyhorse, will be in shape, and John Theodore, sophomore full back, who did not play because of an injury, will be available.

Weenie Wilson's scout report to Zuppke was that Northwestern has improved considerably and was not under high pressure against Wisconsin. The Illini expect a stubborn battle with the Wildcats.

NOTRE DAME HOPEFUL.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—"We're satisfied with the way the boys stuck in there until the end, and we think they'll play good football against Navy this week."

Thus spoke Elmer Layden, coach of the Notre Dame team which lost a 19 to 0 decision to the powerful Pitt Panthers Saturday.

"Navy will be strong and we can't afford to let down for our game Saturday at Cleveland," Layden said. "But I doubt if Navy will be quite as strong as Pitt."

Squad in Good Condition.

Layden said he expected Notre Dame to be in good physical shape for the game, although several of the Irish were removed from the Pitt game with injuries. John Michuta, right tackle; Don Elser, and Fred Caserio, full backs, and Fred Solari, center, were forced out of the Pitt game, but their injuries are reported to be not serious enough to keep them out of the game with the middies.

THREE DRIVERS SHARE HONORS IN EVANSTON RACES

Ted Tetterton of North Chicago and Chuck Neisel and Ernie Carlson of Chicago took the honors at the Evanston motor speedway yesterday afternoon in the final meet of the season. Tetterton and Neisel each accounted for a first and a second place, while Carlson finished the day with two thirds to his credit.

The best event of the day was the 20 lap feature windup. Neisel crossed the wire in first position after a sensationally fought race with Tetterton and Carlson. No more than 20 feet separated the trio throughout the event with the latter two brushing wheels all the way.

Jimmy Schneider of Evanston, the leading pilot at the track throughout the season, was the victim of bad racing luck all afternoon. He broke an axle in the first event, but working feverishly, repelaced it in time for the final race after which he again was forced from the competition with a blown cylinder gasket.

The results:

First race, 10 laps—Won by Ted Tetterton; second, Chuck Neisel; third, Ernie Carlson.

Second race, 10 laps—Won by Shorty Sorenson; second, Johnny Hildebrand; third, Hans Bauer.

Third race, 20 laps—Won by Chuck Neisel; second, Tetterton; third, Carlson; fourth, Sorenson.

San Francisco Eleven Beats Gonzaga, 28 to 0

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 4.—(AP)—A display of offensive might brought University of San Francisco a 28 to 0 victory today over Gonzaga of Spokane, Wash. The Bulldogs, with an earlier 13 to 6 victory over Washington State's cougar to their credit, were hopelessly outclassed.

Prep Captain, Hurt in Football Game, Dies

Pell City, Ala., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Watkins M. Smith, 18 years old, captain and quarter back of the Pell City High school football team, died here today of injuries received a week ago in a game between Pell City and Talladega.

Army-Illinois Game Seat Sale Is Set at 47,000

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—Approximately 47,000 tickets were sold for the Army game yesterday, C. E. Bowen, Illinois ticket manager, reported today. Despite a driving rain about 3,000 tickets were sold between 1 and 2 o'clock. The crowd was the largest at Illinois since 1930. Many who drove to Champaign Saturday for the game stayed in their cars parked near the stadium and listened to the broadcast instead of subjecting themselves to the downpour which continued from noon until near the end of the third quarter. Officials estimated that more than 2,000 tickets which had been sold were not used.

Groundkeeper of Cubs Undergoes Appendectomy

Harry [New York] Hazelwood, for 17 years an assistant groundkeeper at Wrigley field, yesterday was seized with an attack of apendicitis while working at the park. He was taken to Illinois Masonic hospital, where an operation was performed late in the afternoon. Hazelwood is the fifth member of the Cub family to undergo an appendicitis operation at the Illinois Masonic hospital since Shortstop Bill Jurges was stricken in midseason.

STRUTT TAKES SCORING LEAD FROM SHEPHERD

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Art Strutt, Duquesne full back, plunged through the ranks of the east's high scoring backs to the top of the list last week when he made four touchdowns against West Virginia Wesleyan.

This spurt gave Strutt a total of 79 points for seven games, scored on 13 touchdowns and one extra point, and put him ahead of Bill Shepherd, Western Maryland, who finally was halted by Catholic. Buzz Borries, Navy ace, scored twice against Washington and Lee to tie Mickey Kobrosky, Trinity, for third place.

Ken Sandbach, Princeton, with 14 points after touchdowns, held the lead in that department, while Shepherd leads with two field goals.

Records of the leading scorers follow:

western team checked Badger power, although outgained, and pushed over the winning score in the first four minutes. More remarkable was the rally by the Wildcats when a misplay on the kickoff had given the Badgers the ball deep in Northwestern territory. Wisconsin continues to be a good team between the 20 yard lines but lacks the ability and drive to carry through.

Illinois successfully defended its touchdown lead although Army staged a brilliant assault in the closing minutes. It was the first defeat for the Cadets. Weather conditions were almost impossible and while Army's running attack was handicapped, the open field performance of Beynon and Lindberg, as well as their passing, also suffered appreciably.

Pitt's Power Beats Irish.

Pittsburgh defeated Notre Dame, 19 to 0, Saturday as had been forecast by practically all who had seen both elevens in action. Pitt's line, its blocking when opportunity presented for long runs, and continual application of pressure wore down the Irish. Notre Dame now may transfer its worries to the game Saturday against Navy at Cleveland. The Middie are undefeated and last Saturday defeated Washington and Lee, 26 to 0, a much better showing than by Princeton, another undefeated eastern team. Princeton last week defeated Harvard, 19 to 0, in the first game following severance of athletic relations several years ago.

Fordham revived unexpectedly by nipping Tennessee, 13 to 12. The Rams previously had lost to St. Mary's and Southern Methodist. It also was Tennessee's second defeat, the Vols having been licked by Alabama. Last Saturday Alabama continued its march to a southern title by whipping Kentucky, 34 to 14.

Michigan State Gets Scare.

Marquette scared Michigan State's undefeated eleven Saturday but finally lost, 13 to 7. Kansas surprised Iowa State with a scoreless tie. Undefeated University of Washington continued with a 14 to 7 triumph over Oregon State. Stanford, tied earlier by Santa Clara, whipped California [Los Angeles] soundly, 27 to 0, while Santa Clara did as much for California, 20 to 0.

Blackhawks Take Last Workout at Champaign Today

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—After the strenuous exhibition games of Friday and Saturday at the University of Illinois rink, Manager Clem Loughlin decided that light limbering up skating exercises would be sufficient for this afternoon's workout for the Blackhawks.

With Lola Couture back on the Hawks' principal first line, the team is intact and ready for the opening game which is scheduled for Thursday night at the St. Louis arena against Eddie Gerard's Eagles, newest entrants in the National Hocky league.

Tomorrow morning's practice, which will be the last at the training camp, will be a general rounding out of all the plays and maneuvers which have been practiced for over three weeks.

Tomorrow afternoon seventeen members of the squad, led by Manager Clem Loughlin, will break camp and go to St. Louis. They will practice in St. Louis Tuesday and Wednesday.

Berwyn Parrots Triumph Over Austin Bears, 20-0

The Berwyn Parrots handed the Austin Bears their second defeat in three years yesterday, 20 to 0.

Bears' Pass Attack Beats Giants, 27-7

side of the Giant line. Manders again kicked the extra point.

The Bears took the opening kickoff in the third period and marched 54 yards to a touchdown on ten plays. Feathers' second pass into the end zone in this series was good for seven yards and a touchdown, Brumbaugh taking the ball. Manders added the extra point.

There was on evidence of alarm in the Bear ranks while the Giants, with Newman passing and mixing in short runs, piled up yardage and first downs. The quarter ended with the score 21 to 0 in favor of the Bears and there were no scoring threats until Manders lined up for a field goal on the Giants' 31 yard line in the fourth period. He missed this one as he had a 38 yard attempt in the first period and one from the 34 yard line in the second.

Giants Find Goal Line.

It was after this kick that the Giants began their march to the goal. Newman started with a 22 yard run around left end on a fake pass play, going to the Giants' 38 yard line. Two passes to Strong netted 18 yards and Newman fooled the Bears again for 21 yards, going to the 12 yard line. The Bears were offside, putting the ball on the seven yard line, and after Richards had made four yards, Newman cut off right tackle for the score. He place kicked the extra point.

The Bears than gave evidence of their supremacy by beating back the Giants for another touchdown. It started with Miller's interception of Newman's pass on the Giants' 37 yard line and ended two plays later when Red Grange made a circus catch of Corbett's pass, taking the ball out of Burnett's hands for a 36 yard gain and a touchdown.

MAROONS START TUNING UP FOR OHIO STATE GAME

Expect Another Scoring Battle at Columbus.

With their terrific battle against Purdue still the subject for resounding exclamation marks around the Midway, the University of Chicago football team must begin preparations today for another struggle which promises to be no less spectacular—against Ohio State at Columbus the coming Saturday.

The Chicago-Ohio State match may well result in another free scoring fiesta. In their three Big Ten games to date the Buckeyes have made two touchdowns against Illinois, four against Northwestern and five against Indiana. Against Western Reserve Saturday they rolled up an even ten touchdowns. The Maroons have scored three or more touchdowns in each of their five games this season. Both coaches, Schmidt of Ohio and Shaughnessy of Chicago, have a background in the southern style of play, which stresses wide open offense.

There was natural gloom in the Maroon headquarters yesterday at the breaking of Chicago's undefeated record and their elimination from title consideration. And the prospect of facing Ohio State, Minnesota, and Illinois on consecutive Saturday's is not a rosy one. Some balm was provided by the memory of that last Maroon touchdown against Purdue, an 85 yard march in the closing minutes.

OHIO STATE IN SHAPE.

Columbus, O., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—After a six years' lapse the University of Chicago and Ohio State will resume football relations next Saturday in Ohio stadium before one of the largest crowds of the season.

The Buckeyes returned from Western Reserve with most members of the team in good condition. With the exception of Jack Smith everybody will be ready for the Maroons.

The Chicago-Ohio rivalry began in 1920, with the Buckeyes winning the first two games, 7 to 6 and 7 to 10. The Maroons then won, 14 to 9 and 17 to 3. In 1924 and 1925 the teams battled to 3 to 3 ties. Then Ohio State again won two games in a row, 18 to 0 and 13 to 7.

LARSON IS INJURED.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Frank [Butch] Larson, star Minnesota end, was injured during Saturday's victory over Michigan. Coach Bernie Bierman said tonight Larson, who suffered a hurt knee, may not be ready to play against Indiana next Saturday.

Otherwise, the Gophers came through the little brown jug fight in good shape.

ROCK ISLAND WINS, 20-6.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The Rock Island Independents defeated the Fox Valley Boosters of St. Charles, 20 to 6, today.

MARY PICKFORD FINDS A LIKABLE FRIEND IN 'MIKE'

Here on Way to New York, Tells Radio Plans.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The microphone has replaced the camera so far as Mary Pickford is concerned. And she finds it just as friendly as the lens, she confessed Saturday between trains here. Miss Pickford was on her way to New York, where her next three broadcasts will originate. She promised that her next presentation, "Michael and Mary," by A. A. Milne, on Wednesday evening, will be her best. Her leading man and others in her west coast stock company are flying east early this week.

Miss Pickford is going east primarily to arrange details of publication of her novelette, "The Demi-Widow," in a national magazine. It is also to be brought out in book form and will be adapted for the stage, possibly by Max Gordon. She would like to have Grace Moore play the leading part.

May Make Another Film.

Mary will be on the air for the present sponsor until at least the first of the year. She has been asked to continue but has not decided. She may make a picture. She has completed two shorts the last month, one with Bing Crosby and another with Rudy Vallee.

The question of whether Gertrude Stein talks that way, too, will be determined for radio listeners next Monday when William Lundell interviews her over NBC. When Miss Stein arrived from Europe she said to reporters, "When no one asks a question, what is the answer?" Lundell will not give her a chance to do that to him. He will ask questions. But you must wait to see whether there are satisfactory answers.

Queena Mario, Metropolitan Opera soprano, will pinch hit for Lawrence Tibbett on Tuesday, Nov. 13. She is the wife of Wilfred Pelletier, who conducts the orchestra on this program.

Ether for the Ice Man!

The ice man is going on the air! With him will be two Swedish maids. They'll appear in a dialect sketch titled "Sentimental Selma." Parts will be played by Stanford Espedahl, Katherine Avery and Maxine Garner Nelson. It was Maxine Nelson who had a baby recently without missing an episode of a sketch in which she was then featured. The microphone was brought to her bedside.

George Burns and Gracie Allen are packing their grips for another trek to Hollywood. Their Wednesday night broadcasts will originate on the west coast the middle of the month. . . . Myrt and Marge tonight will present the 1,000th episode of their backstage adventures over WBBM-CBS. Myrtle Vail has written almost all of them.

ENGLAND'S MOST NOTED SCULPTOR, A. GILBERT, DIES

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Sir Alfred Gilbert, England's most famous sculptor and often called her poorest businessman, died today at the age of 80. He had been ill since June, and barely retained consciousness during the last few days.

Sir Alfred became famous over his dispute with British public works authorities concerning his familiar statue of Eros in Piccadilly circus. As a result of it he quit the Royal academy and went into self-imposed exile on the continent in 1907. Knowing he was in need, the academy granted him a $1,500 annuity but he never touched the money.

At the express wish of the king Sir Alfred returned to England 20 years later to finish his masterpiece, a memorial to the king's brother, the Duke of Clarence, at Windsor. Later he rejoined the academy and in 1932 was knighted. His extravagant methods and his waywardness prevented him from becoming wealthy. In 1916 his wife died. She was the former Alice Jane Gilbert of Ottawa, Canada.

WHEAT POLICIES OF ARGENTINA, CANADA CLASH

One Ends Price Fixing, Other Starts It.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Of the outstanding interest in the grain market last week were two developments both concerned with governmental attempts to regulate prices. Both countries have the same problem. They produce wheat far in excess of their domestic needs and their national well being is dependent to a large extent on success in selling their surpluses abroad profitably.

Facing essentially the same problem one country, Argentina, decided to withdraw restrictions on futures trading and for the time being, at least, abandoned the price pegging policy that has been in effect there. The other country, Canada, decided almost simultaneously to place further restrictions on trading and to establish arbitrary minimum prices on wheat in the Winnipeg market.

Actions Interpreted Differently.

If both countries had acted in unison in establishing new price limits or discarding such methods of regulation, the significance of the development could be more accurately appraised. As it is, however, the interpretations placed on the week's developments varied. Some commentators saw Canada's action as bearish on prices, but the next day read the same meaning into the step taken by Argentina.

Perhaps both interpretations could be correct if resulting unsettlement in the market was considered. As a matter of fact, prices in the grain markets moved generally higher after the price policies of the two countries became known.

Argentine Policy in Doubt.

The Argentine wheat policy appears to be unpredictable and nobody in the grain trade would be surprised if minimum prices were restored in the Buenos Aires market at any time. Argentina upset the London wheat agreement when she found it expedient to sell abroad more than her quota permitted. Those who determine the country's policy apparently believe in the market proverb that wheat is grown to be sold at a profit. There have been several notable attempts to defy this simple rule but to date they have been rather unsuccessful.

Canada is currently engaged in what many regard as a wheat hoarding policy. Of course, Canada does not call it that, and in time she hopes that the world will take her surplus and give her a nice profit. The time to reduce surpluses is in time of scarcity and if it is not done then, it cannot be done at any other time save at a financial sacrifice.

Trend Is Anybody's Guess.

It is anybody's guess now what the immediate trend in the market is likely to be in the near future. If, as many believe, the price in the Argentine market has definitly turned upward, the greatest drag on prices in all markets has been eliminated.

Whatever the source of the buying last week, it was sufficient to boost prices in the Chicago market slightly above the level of the preceding week. The following table shows the range of prices on grain futures last week and the high and low quotations for the season:

Stock Trading Machinery Is Much Altered

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Much of the vast speculative machinery built up during the boom trading years of the post-war decade is being scrapped. Disillusioned by the slow trading of recent months, Wall street, for the time being anyhow, has shed its erstwhile dreams of bigger and bigger stock markets.

In revamping the speculative machine, it has turned to a smaller model, still efficient but less expensive to operate. Although brokers are hopeful business recovery will revive public interest in shares and the stock exchange has undertaken to regain good will, retrenchment remains the order of the day in brokerage circles.

Close More Than 100 Branches.

Since the start of the year member firms have closed more than a hundred branch offices. Several important firms have consolidated. Others have cut their personnel further and made clearing agreements to reduce overhead.

More retrenchment before the year-end is considered inevitable unless speculation revives soon. While trading in recent months has been the smallest in a decade, with daily volume around 500,000 or 600,000 shares brokerage facilities are still greatly in excess of those existing before the big boom of 1928-'29.

Between 1926 and 1930 branches of stock exchange houses, blanketing the country and tapping foreign financial centers, more than doubled. They reached a peak of around 1,660 in the middle of 1930. On Nov. 1 this year the number of branches had been reduced to 1,106 with the prospect of a further decrease by the end of the year.

Far Cry from 1929.

The current retrenchment trend is a far cry from the days of 1929 and 1930 when stock exchange houses were opening branches on ocean liners and transmitting the latest quotations to airlines and other out-of-the-way places.

The contraction in brokerage facilities in turn serves to reduce speculation by eliminating points of contact with the public. However, the reduction in facilities has been less than is indicated by the mere statistics on branch offices and mergers, as the retrenchment in many instances means only a doubling up on offices, and direct wires from correspondents in outlying towns have replaced many of the closed branches. Direct wire connections of stock exchange firms in October totaled 3,870, compared with 3,087 on Nov. 1, 1929.

The Association of Stock Exchange Firms has given recognition to the retrenchment movement by sponsoring a "matrimonial agency" to facilitate mergers and other arrangements to slice expenses.

See Limit to Cuts.

But doubt was expressed in various quarters whether it was necessary to return to a 1923 or 1924 model in the brokerage setup. The country, it was pointed out, has grown substantially since then. The share list is much larger. Even with federal control of the security exchanges and the lid on pool operations, speculation should expand appreciably as corporate earnings increase and the country picks its way out of the depression, most brokers argue.

Nevertheless, one old commission house recently reduced its personnel by about half, returning to its 1919 status pending signs of a broader market.

The stock exchange still has 1,375 memberships. But the business is spread out more thinly.

One of the best indications of the extent of the retrenchment is in the ranks of customers' men. They were estimated by a stock exchange official recently to have dwindled to about 5,000 from a peak of 10,000.

RAIL EARNINGS CONTINUE DOWN IN SEPTEMBER

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The downward trend in railroad earnings continued in September, bringing net operating income for the nine months virtually to the level for the same period last year, according to the bureau of railway economics. The compilation is based on returns by 147 class 1 railways operating 239,251 miles of line.

All districts reported decreased returns for September, although for the nine months net operating income in the west remained 15.9 per cent above the level for last year.

STEEL OUTPUT STILL GAINING; NOW AT 27 PCT.

Pig Iron Production Up in October.

Steel output last week continued to improve with a gain of 1½ points to 27 per cent of production capacity, the magazine Steel says. The steady decline of pig iron output during the preceding four months was halted in October, when the daily average rate advanced 2.4 per cent to 30,695 gross tons, according to figures just released.

The total production of pig iron during the month increased 5.8 per cent to 951,540 tons, with a gain of four active blast furnaces, making a total of 65. Steel ingot production during October is expected to show similar improvement when the figures are released this week.

The Ford Motor company, Chrysler and General Motors have placed large preliminary orders for new models without price concessions such as those that started buying for the third quarter. The Ford company is preparing to begin assemblies this month on the million car output planned for 1935.

Change in Federal Policy.

It is seen that the government is placing less emphasis on common labor and more on stimulating demand for materials and equipment, while formulating its 2 to 12 billion dollar public works program for 1935.

Structural shape awards during the week were one-half those of the preceding week at 7,250 tons. Chrysler is planning a million dollar assembly plant in Baltimore that may require 5,000 tons. A continuous strip mill for the Carnegie Steel company at MacDonald, O., calls for early fabrication of 3,000 tons of shapes. The navy is inquiring for additional steel tonnage and will take bids on Nov. 16 on 4,100 tons, principally plates, for destroyer and submarine construction. Eastern oil interests are in the market for 4,000 tons of plate for tanks.

Elimination of grade crossings is attracting the attention of the government and railroads. The Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad was authorized to borrow $250,000 for this purpose and to buy rails.

Operations in Different Areas.

Operations last week rose 2½ points to 30 per cent at Chicago, 2 points to 31 per cent at Wheeling, 2 points to 26 per cent at Buffalo, 15 points to 25 per cent at Birmingham, ½ point to 20½ per cent in eastern Pennsylvania and 4 points to 30 per cent at Youngstown. Dispatches from Youngstown state that the 30 per cent rate will hold during the beginning of this week compared with the same rate a year ago, 19 per cent two years ago and 31 per cent three years ago. Pittsburgh reported a decline during the week of 2 points to 19 per cent and New England a drop of 10 points to 30 per cent. Cleveland was unchanged at 38 per cent and Detroit at 59 per cent.

The magazine's iron and steel composite is up 1 cent to $32.13 a ton due to gains in scrap. The finished steel index remains at $54, while scrap is 12 cents higher at $9.66 a ton, the best price since the last week in August.

NEW YORK CURB TRADE IS DULL; CHANGES MINOR

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Curb market held to a narrow trading range last week. There were few changes of consequence except in some thinly traded specialties. Volume was small.

Prices started the period with small, irregular changes. Improvement followed, but some selling appeared Thursday. Shares rallied the following day with some increase in activity.

Great Atlantic and Pacific shares were depressed early in the week by the company's labor troubles in Cleveland, but losses were largely recovered later. Singer Manufacturing reversed its trend of the week before and moved up sharply. Parker Rustproof displayed late firmness on the declaration of a $1 extra dividend along with the regular 75 cent payment. The ordering of a dividend of $5.25 on account of accumulations by directors of Montgomery Ward failed to stir up much interest in the shares.

Gulf Oil, Aluminum Company of America, and Sherwin-Williams showed advancing trends. Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Electric Bond and Share, Hiram Walker, Distiller corporation-Seagrams, Swift International, Creole Petroleum, International Petroleum, Lake Shore, Newmont, American Gas and Electric, and American Cyanamid B fluctuations were all narrow.

Arrangements are proceeding for increasing storage facilities at Peoria, Ill., from 7,000,000 to 10,500,000 gallons.

BRITISH SETTLE ROW WITH SOVIET OVER GOLD FIELD

MOSCOW, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The long standing controversy between a group of British investors and the Russian government over the rich Lena goldfields was adjusted in an agreement signed here today.

The settlement was reached by the soviet's chief concession committee and Arthur Marshall, representing Lena Goldfields, Ltd. The Tass [Russian] News agency reported that "all disputed questions had been regulated" in negotiations which had been under way three weeks.

Lacking official announcements concerning the price, reliable reports had it in the neighborhood of $15,000,000, to be paid over a period of twenty years. The settlement must be ratified by the shareholders before becoming effective. The concession included gold properties on the Lena river, copper and gold properties in the Altai mountains and other mineral holdings in the Urals.

CHICAGO'S BUSINESS VOLUME DIPS BELOW RECENT TURNOVERS

Pre-election lethargy dominated business in Chicago last week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Certain lines of wholesale activity reflected the first pull of the coming Christmas buying season and last minute visitors to A Century of Progress Exposition held retail turnover to fair proportions, but the total business was not as heavy as that of preceding weeks. Winter clothing, toys, and gift ware encountered good demand.

Public utility volume revealed another upturn with the number of telephones in service picking up sharply. Rentals showed an increase, one south side commercial area reporting its available store space more than 91 per cent filled.

In the industrial field several factories revealed small increases in pay rolls and personnel. Steel output held its average with indications pointing to another spurt in buying by producers of low and medium priced automobiles.

U. S. AND FOREIGN SECURITIES HAS PROFIT OF $9,424

New York, Nov. 4.—[Special.]—The United States and Foreign Securities corporation, a holding and investment company, reports for the nine months ended Sept. 30 a net income of $9,424 after a realized loss of $729,244 on investments, and after taxes and expenses. Cash dividends received amounted to $726,461, and interest received and accrued was $80,267. From Dec. 31, 1933, to Sept. 30, 1934, there was a decrease in unrealized depreciation in the value of securities held of $449,230.

As of Sept. 30, the net assets of the corporation were $25,541,000, compared with $26,028,000 on Dec. 31. The net asset value on Sept. 30 is equivalent to approximately $122 a share on the first preferred stock, against approximately $124 a share at the close of 1933.

The calculation of the net asset value is based on market quotations or on the nominal value of $1 where market quotations are not available. The corporation's investment in the United States and International Securities corporation, including 93,700 shares of second preferred stock and 1,937,653 common shares, also is calculated at $1.

The United States and International Securities corporation, controled by United States and Foreign Securities, for the nine months ended on Sept. 30, reports a loss of $302,920 after a net realized loss on investments of $850,547, taxes and expenses. Bankers Join with U. S. to Revamp Laws

Efforts of the American Bankers' association committee on federal legislation in coöperating during the last year with administration leaders on banking legislation are described in the annual report of the chairman, Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank, Washington, D. C., and newly elected first vice president of the association, made public yesterday.

"As our program was broad, it was frankly discussed with the President and other government officials, as we felt it desirable that the administration not only be advised of our position on banking legislation but also be apprised of the reasons motivating such determinations," Fleming reports.

Reports on Deposit Insurance.

Discussing postponement of the effective date of the permanent fund under the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation and the extension of terms of its temporary fund, carrying with it an increase in the insurable amount of a bank deposit from $2,500 to $5,000, Fleming points out that about 97 per cent of the deposits in member banks of the fund were fully covered under the smaller amount.

Another measure in which his committee took special interest, he reports, was the national securities exchange act in so far as it handicaped in its original form the management of banks. Following conferences with administration representatives amendments were embodied in the bill, the report says, by which the law "was made workable without interfering with the normal functions of a bank and yet providing the check upon speculation which congress felt was desirable and demanded by the public."

Coöperate on Crime Bills.

Fleming's report directs particular attention to coöperation which his committee extended the department of justice in working for adoption of the federal crime bills sponsored by the attorney general, aimed to curb operations of criminals.

The report describes the work of the organization in bringing the support of bankers throughout the country to the federal housing administration's repair and modernization program.

ELECTION FAILS TO MOVE STOCK MART FROM RUT

Prices Held Within Narrow Range.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 4.—While interest in next Tuesday's election currently overshadows everything else with the Wall street speculative community, as with the rest of the country, the uncertainties tied up with the event had no appreciable effect on stock market price movements last week. Dealings showed the same mixed trend and the same dull, monotonous tone they have been displaying since midsummer. The combined averages, after zig-zagging narrowly for the first four trading sessions, moved ahead to close a half point higher.

The index now stands almost exactly where it did a month and two months ago. It is still two points below its August high and approximately 18 under its peak for the year of 98.27, recorded on Feb. 5. Incidentally the week's turnover of only 2,780,740 shares put a period to the smallest total on full transactions for the month of October since 1921.

Outcome Is Expected.

Commission house observers think that the misgivings obtaining over what may come after the election may have been holding down trading volume somewhat, but the street harbors no illusions over the outcome of next Tuesday's voting. It is generally conceded that no great upset for the administration is likely and such worries as may be finding expression in market dealings have to do with what the New Deal may undertake in the way of further experimentation after it gets its so-called "vote of confidence" rather than the possible defeat of any considerable number of

Chicago and North Western Railway Company

To the Holders of Iowa, Minnesota and Northwestern Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds and Minnesota and South Dakota Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds, due January 1, 1935:

Because of present economic conditions, Chicago and North Western Railway Company cannot expect to provide for its $3,900,000 Iowa, Minnesota and Northwestern Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds and $528,000 Minnesota and South Dakota Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds, both due January 1, 1935, in the customary manner, either from earnings or by the sale of new securities to the public. The Board of Directors has therefore directed that an application be made for a loan from Reconstruction Finance Corporation to pay one-half of the amount of such bonds outstanding on condition that the holders thereof accept General Mortgage 4½% Bonds for the other one-half. The plan of accomplishing this arrangement is as follows:

(1) Holders of the Iowa, Minnesota and Northwestern Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds and Minnesota and South Dakota Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds may evidence their assent to the plan by presenting their Bonds for stamping as hereinafter provided.

(2) Holders of Bonds who present their Bonds for stamping on or before December 1, 1934, will receive payment in cash of 10% of the face value of their Bonds upon presentation thereof. This advance payment of 10% is offered to induce prompt assent and will not be made except on Bonds presented for stamping on or before December 1, 1934.

(3) Holders of Bonds assenting to the plan will receive on January 1, 1935, or earlier at the option of the Company, upon the plan being declared operative and upon surrender of their Bonds,

(a) payment in cash of an additional 40% of the face amount of their Bonds (or 50% of the face amount of Bonds on which such advance payment of 10% shall not have been made), plus full six months' interest on the Bonds, without deduction on account of the 10% advance payment,

(b) delivery in respect of the remaining 50% of the Bonds of a like face amount of General Mortgage 4½% Bonds of the Company due November 1, 1987, more fully described below. As the General Mortgage Bonds cannot be issued in denominations of less than $1,000, interest-bearing interim certificates will be issued in denomination of $500 each, entitling the holder to exchange the same, in amounts aggregating $1,000 or multiples thereof, for the Company's General Mortgage 4½% Bonds,

(c) payment in advance, of interest from January 1, 1935, to May 1, 1935, at the rate of 4½% per annum upon the General Mortgage 4½% Bonds of the Company and/or its interest-bearing interim certificates ($15 on each $1,000 General Mortgage 4½% Bond and $7.50 on each $500 interim certificate issued) exchanged for 50% of the par value of the Iowa, Minnesota and Northwestern Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds and/or Minnesota and South Dakota Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds held by such holders.

(4) Registered Bonds need not be endorsed in connection with the presentation of same for stamping, but all registered Bonds surrendered for final payment must be endorsed in blank or accompanied by a detached bond power executed in blank.

The bonds to be delivered to the holders of the Iowa, Minnesota and Northwestern Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds and the Minnesota and South Dakota Railway Company 3½% First Mortgage Bonds in respect to one-half of the face amount thereof, will be the Company's General Mortgage Bonds due November 1, 1987, bearing interest from May 1, 1935, at the rate of four and one-half per cent (4½%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of May and November in each year. The Bonds are not subject to redemption before maturity. They will be issued as coupon bonds in denomination of $1,000 each, registerable as to principal and exchangeable for fully registered bonds. The General Mortgage Bonds outstanding in the hands of the public, including those pledged, will amount to only $31,060 per mile of road.

Application will be made to list the General Mortgage 4½% Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

Income of the Company Available for Fixed Charges for the first eight months of 1934 was $153,943 less than for the corresponding period of 1933, while Fixed Charges were $429,450 less than for the same period of 1933.

FARM OUTLOOK BRIGHTER, U. S. OFFICIALS FIND

Increase in Rural Buying Power Expected.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Generally improved conditions in the agricultural industry during the coming year were predicted today by the bureau of agricultural economics in its annual outlook report.

The bulky prognostication, covering all phases of farming, from foreign demand to farm family living possibilities, was issued at the close of a week's conference with agricultural economists from forty states, department of agricultural officials, and leaders of the AAA.

Main points in the bureau's predictions were:

1. Greatly reduced supplies of most farm products will be seen, which, with improvement in consumer purchasing power, will probably bring a higher level of farm income during the first half of 1935, this despite low foreign demand for American farm products.

2. Farm production will be larger than this year's unusually small production.

3. This year's higher prices may tend to stimulate excessive planting of some crops not under production control next year.

4. Continued improvement in demand late next year will depend primarily on recovery in the durable goods industries.

Expects More Purchases.

5. "A small improvement in the purchasing power of farm families may, in general, be expected."

6. Prices of goods used in farm production are expected to average somewhat higher, at least until June, 1935.

7. The farm credit situation "will continue to show gradual improvement above the bad conditions of the past several years."

8. Next year's wheat crop is expected to result in an export surplus, with prices hanging close to an export basis.

9. Substantial advances in prices of meat animals is expected, with no material expansion in their stock numbers sighted before 1936.

10. Next year's wool clip will be the smallest in several years, with prices dependent on world production.

11. "A generally favorable" outlook is seen for poultry raisers, with prices remaining at seasonally high levels until next summer.

12. An unfavorable outlook is sighted for dairymen because of the shortage of hay and grain.

Incomes May Increase.

The bureau predicted some further improvement in the total cash income of farm families available for living expenses, although less than that from 1933 to 1934.

"Although some further rise in the level of food prices may be looked for during the coming year, the prices of other goods purchased for family living will probably continue at about their present levels," the report said. "A small improvement, therefore, in the purchasing power of farm families may, in general, be expected."

Prospects of increased expenditures of farmers for manufactured goods also was indicated. It was added that families with some leeway in cash expenditures after living expenses are paid "may increase somewhat their expenditures for clothing and for home furnishings during 1935."

Domestic demand for farm products was reported likely to be slightly higher during the first half of 1935 than during the present year, with conditions in the last half of 1935 dependent on employment and production in durable goods industries.

Foreign Demand May Drop.

Foreign demand, the report said, probably will be less because of severe German trade restrictions, deflation of the franc in France, adverse fluctuations of exchange in China, and bilateral trade agreements between foreign countries. Some improvement in demand from the United Kingdom, Canada, and Japan was predicted.

With increased farm production in 1935, the bureau expressed the belief that "the average level of farm commodity prices will tend to readjust itself to the increased supplies in the latter months of 1935, but the larger marketings will probably maintain the level of farm income."

It was also pointed out that continued employment of the large group of consumers who were unemployed early in 1933 and before has resulted in repayment of some accumulated debt obligations, making an increased proportion of their incomes available for current purchases.

Farm Credit Situation.

The farm credit situation was expected to be "materially better" than for several years past except in the worst drouth areas. The report added:

"For the country as a whole, the demand for production credit in 1935 probably will exceed somewhat the demand in 1934. The prices of goods purchased by farmers may be expected to be somewhat higher than last season, particularly when prices for feed and seed are included.

"Although the farmers, outside of the worst drouth areas, will enter the 1935 season in a cash position materially improved over that of a year earlier, their demand for short term credit is likely to be relatively large. The demand for farm mortgage credit probably will be somewhat smaller in 1935 than it was in 1934."

Benefit payments to farmers cooperating in AAA adjustment programs, it was said, probably will be increased by about $72,500,000 now being sent to cotton growers, $100,000,000 going to wheat farmers, $180,000,000 to corn-hog farmers, and $36,193,000 to tobacco farmers on programs now under way. These do not include commitments to be paid next year on new programs.

FEDERAL BOND PRICES LOWER IN LAST WEEK

General List Shows Only Small Changes.

New York, Nov. 4.—(AP)—United States government securities were inclined to give ground moderately, and the rest of the bond market was unable to make progress during the last week.

While individual issues stood out with substantial gains and others developed an exceptionally weak tone the list as a whole was quite narrow. Among the corporate groups secondary loans were the most active and showed the widest fluctuations. Prime investment bonds generally held their own, although a few of these drifted to lower levels.

The market had to consider various happenings which might affect it later. Among these was President Roosevelt's announcement at a press conference that he expected to see prices rise next year and that, as a consequence, he would restore the 5 per cent cut in government salaries and expand the budget accordingly.

View on Federal Spending.

In addition a treasury statement showed the gross public debt, less the net balances in the general fund, had advanced $3,235,308,269 in the last year. The financial district apparently saw little hope of the government curtailing its huge spending in the near future.

Listed United States government loans tapered off following their September and October recovery. Dealers said this department appeared to be awaiting the Tuesday elections and the details of the treasury's December financing program. There was also said to have been some switching from the low yield federals to corporate bonds giving a greater return.

While most treasury issues drifted lower, the Home Owners' Loans 4s attracted a sizable following. This is sue, which is guaranteed as to interest only and is no longer convertible into the fully guaranteed 3s, was heavily traded on the theory it might be called for redemption on Jan. 1 next.

McCrory Stores Spurts.

There were a few lively performers in the corporate sections. McCrory Stores 5½s spurted on reports of progress in plans to reorganize this company which has been in receivership since early last year.

In the foreign list German government bonds recovered substantially following announcement of the agreement of the reich Great Britain to pay full interest on the Young and Dawes plans issues to British holders. The revival of these is s here apparently was based on the hope that Washington's representations might result in better treatment for Americans who bought German securities.

TWO ROADS SEEK TO MERGE TRACKS IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 4.—The Great Northern and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroads have applied to the interstate commerce commission for permission to consolidate their facilities between Dolton and Wentworth, S. D. The new facilities would be owned jointly on a 50-50 basis.

The Milwaukee proposes to abandon 16.6 miles of track in Lake county. This would result in the Milwaukee running its trains approximately seven miles farther to reach the new facilities, but would reduce the upkeep of both roads. The Great Northern would abandon approximately three miles of line.

The application also called for construction of three small sections of connecting lines.

ACTUALLY 3,000 MEN in the United States and Canada have established themselves in

A Business of Their Own Use Our Money and Be Your Own Boss.

A new invention, an electrical product, exclusively patented, with an increasing sales demand, as important as sanitary drinking cups, cellophane, pasteurizing of milk, inspection of meat, etc., has created a vast money making field for intelligent and sincere men.

No Investment.

We supply the merchandise, pay the rent, place you where the business is and pay you weekly. Without one penny invested many Chicago men are earning substantial incomes and establishing themselves in a permanent business.

The successful facts that we will present to a few intelligent men suggest the statement that no man who will work hard and become skilled in our business need be in the "Army of Unemployed."

A. G., a comparatively new man, was paid recently $76.45; another green horn drew $90.52; another man with us for seven years and who has established a good clientele, earned $154.45, and another man with us three years drew $119.89—the above figures represent cash comm. and bonus paid to our men for one week's work, and the longer a man is with us the greater his opportunity is because of his ability to build a good will business. However, new men can immediately earn between $38 and $75 a week.

We are not interested in the "gold headed cane" man or the "has been" swivel chair executive," but will give our consideration to the sincere hard worker with or without experience. We will give select sales experience in favor of a genuine desire to learn, work hard and make good.

In Chicago we have specialty sales executives of great prominence and successful experience and their training will be very valuable to you in getting established in this business.

We need a few courageous and determined men, and this may be your great opportunity. We will grant each sincere applicant a personal interview if you qualify. Investigate Monday. Room 1019 Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker-dr., at 11 A. M. or 3 P. M. only. Ask for Mr. Welsh.

No Investment Required.

The best season is just opening. We will appoint ten more DEALERS in a radius of 50 miles of Chicago and give them a DEALER'S FRANCHISE of our mechanical device. If you are the type of man that can be depended upon to put in a full day's work every day without having to be watched here is a real money-making opportunity. You can build a business for yourself. No investment required. Comm. Full instructions how to handle and build your business. Here is an opportunity to make from $1,800 to $3,800 a year.
